Coroner's Jury Verdict in Rothsley Avenue Fatality is Given.

The inquest into the death of H. Lawrence Currie was concluded in the court house yesterday afternoon by Coroner Dr. A. F. Emery and jury, and the following verdict was rendered after a deliberation of 30 minutes: "We, the jury empanelled to inquire into the death of H. Lawrence Currie, find that the deceased came to his death on the afternoon of Tuesday, Oct. 7. While driving a motorcycle on Rothsley avenue at a rapid rate he came in contact with an automobile causing the motorcycle to swerve into a ditch striking a telegraph pole and overturning, thus causing internal injuries from which he died in the General Public Hospital.

Yesterday afternoon the jury motored to the scene of the accident and then proceeded to the hospital, where they took the evidence of Allan Currie, son of the deceased, who was in the side car of the motor cycle at the time.

Witness said that on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 7, he and his father drove out the Rothsley avenue. They were just trying the machine as they had been fixing it and wished to regulate it. At Haymarket Square they drove behind an automobile. It was a large car with a brown body and he thought it was a Studebaker. He did not know the number on the license tag but thought it was a Nova Scotia tag. The motorcycle trailed behind the automobile all the way out the road until the accident, and had been traveling at a rate of from 30 to 35 miles an hour.

When nearing the Fernhill Cemetery gate they noticed a horse and team ahead. They did not think that the automobile was going to turn out, and when the motorcycle was near the left side rear wheel of the automobile, the latter turned out quickly and the mud guard struck the sidecar of the motorcycle causing it to lift up, it was a slight touch.

Witness said that his father applied the brake but it did not slow down the cycle. The minute the side car was lifted by the slight collision his father

DEATHS

The Late E. H. S. Flood.

Edward H. S. Flood, whose death was announced yesterday, passed away in the Montreal General Hospital from the result of injuries received when he fell from a tram car on October 2, when overcome by a dizzy spell. He was 70 years old.

Born in St. John, N. B., Mr. Flood spent most of his youth here and was a graduate of the University of New Brunswick. After a degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred on him he entered the piano business and in a few years achieved considerable success.

In 1908 when the Dominion Government decided that their trade interests in the British West Indies had increased that it required the presence of a commissioner, Mr. Flood, then a leading citizen of St. John, was offered the post. He accepted and left for Barbados, where for the following 16 years he maintained his headquarters.

The action of the Government in appointing Mr. Flood as their representative was fully justified in the years that followed, by the greatly increased reciprocal trade between Canada and the West Indies. He remained at the post long after the time necessary for superannuation.

Returning to Canada last April with his wife, Mr. Flood took up his residence in Westmount and had since been living in quiet retirement. His loss will be felt keenly both in Montreal and St. John.

Besides his widow, Mr. Flood is survived by two sons, Edward A. Flood, of the bond firm of H. B. Robinson and Company, and Walter S. Flood, now in his final year in science at Mount Allison University. George H.
Flood, of Ottawa, is a brother. Miss Josephine Flood, of St. John, is a sister.

Lawrence Donovan.

Moncton, Oct. 14.—The death of Lawrence Donovan occurred at his home, Dorchester, Mass., this morning.
Mr. Donovan was 66 years old and is survived by his wife, four sons and five daughters. The sons are William, Temple, Abrose and Stanley, of Dorchester, Mass. The daughters are Mrs.
George Montgomery, Mrs. W. P. Delaunt, Moncton; Sister Consilia, St.
John; Alice and Florence, at home.
Mrs. John Kennedy, of this city, is a sister.

AMAZED AT SIGHTS OF CIVILIZATION

Arctic Indians Brought Out for Trial on Murder Charge.

Prince Rupert, Oct. 14.—Riding in the storage aboard the steamer Princess Alice, which called here Tuesday afternoon, and under guard by a detachment of Vancouver mounted policemen consisting of Inspector T. Sandys-Wunsch and Constables C. R. Martin and P.
W. Neville, five nomad Indians from the headwaters of the Liard River, far in the wilderness of the Cassiar country, are reaching civilization to answer to charges of murder arising under circumstances than which no stranger have ever arisen in the courts of British Columbia.

The prisoners, four men and one woman, will reach Vancouver on Thursday morning, and will be taken to Oakalla prison, where they will await trial.

They were filled with amazement when they saw a three-story building and a boy on a bicycle at Wrangle, also astounded when they saw a child playing with a cat. They were badly frightened when they first saw a light turned on by pressing a button.

Because he was believed to be a wizard, a 17-year-old Indian lad named Moccasin is alleged to have been murdered by these Indians. He was hung head downwards from a tree with his hands tied behind him and left to freeze to death last winter when the weather was below zero. Later he was taken down, beaten with rocks and buried. It is believed he was buried while still alive.

HONEY.

(Laura Lee Davidson, in "Isles of Eden.")

By the first week in July the bass-woods are in bloom and the air is laden with perfume and vibrant with the hum of insect wings, for the wild bees make straight for the lindens in flowering time. Our basswoods (lindens) are beautiful—big, dome-like mounds of waving, heart-shaped leaves and dark, velvety stems. They are the nearest yielding trees and during their honeyflow the bees fly many a mile to fill their sacs. Far across the water I watch them coming like fleets of little ships sailing down the sunshine, and the humming of their wings is a fantastic song. When they sail away, rocking with cargoes of sweetness, I know that our basswood honey will fill the combs in many a hollow tree in the forest.

mountains, have been equipped with squashoes and life preservers.
