Wrestling for Ottawa Men.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 12.—Four of the Ottawa players have received a proclamation. The one making the proclamation did not leave any name, which was perhaps just as well. The present consisted of a wreath of artificial flowers, made in the most approved manner, and draped heavily with black ribbon and with the inscription across the front of the ribbon, "Quebec 4, Ottawa 1". The four men, three of the team are somewhat put out about it, taking it to mean that they are what is vulgarly known as "dead ones", and, at that, they were not the worst players on the team.

THE TURF

Fredericton Horse Races.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 12.—(Special)—The Inter-City Turf race meet this afternoon was run off in zero weather with a still breeze blowing. Except for those disadvantages the weather conditions were good. Certain horses not starting, the classes were reduced to six. St. Croix Boreas, as expected, won the lion's share of the events, getting four. Two were won by Fredericton horses. Second place in four classes was the best St. John horse got.

CURLING

President Trophy Series.

Another match in the President trophy series took place last evening in Thistle rink, when A. O. Currie's rink defeated Dr. McAlpine's players 12 to 7. The ice in the rink was in good condition and the curling was very keen.

Janes Cup Series.

In the semifinals of the Janes Cup series in St. Andrew's curling rink last evening the rink skippered by Dr. Merrill defeated that skippered by A. G. Lynn 10 to 5. The contest was a good one.

Amherst Wins McLeellan Cup.

Halifax, Feb. 12.—(Special)—The Amherst curlers won the McLeellan Cup from the Mayflower Club tonight, defeating them with the score of 32 to 43, thus winning by nine points. The ice was keen. The Mayflower have only held the trophy two weeks. Chatham is the next challenger.

Rink for Vancouver.

Victoria, Feb. 12.—Local devotees of the "roarin' game" have decided to put up a building of their own, install four sheets of ice and have everything ready for the introduction of curling here next winter. It was estimated that the cost of such a structure, together with the property, would be about $12,000.

There are at present about sixty-five prominent Victoria business men on the membership roll and it is believed that no trouble will be experienced in raising the money necessary.

ATHLETIC

Breaks Record.

Hannes Kolehmainen, of Finland, clipped 11 1/2 seconds off the American amateur record for three miles indoors in Brooklyn last night. He went the distance in 14:18 1/2. G. V. Bonham was the former record holder.

AQUATIC

Motor Boat Show.

It is now assured that Montreal will have one of the greatest motor boat shows in the world this year. Only the lack of a large building prevents the exhibition from ranking with those of London, England, and New York, but even as it is, neither of these mammoth shows will be superior to that to be held in the Montreal Arena from March 29 to April 5, in the point of excellence and general all-round effectiveness.

On the main floor of the Arena this year there will be some of the finest boats ever built on this continent, many of them being on the stocks at this minute in preparation for the show.

THE RING

For a New Class.

International legislation that would provide a new class for the boys who have outgrown the lightweight limit but are not heavy enough for welterweights, is advocated. Some of the best men of the lightweight division are unable to get down to 125 pounds without working great injury to health and stamina, and this has always been the case.

In the opinion of experts, Joe Gans became a victim of tuberculosis because of weakness engendered by weight-making. Exercise of the most violent kind, insufficient food and long sessions in Turkish

Freddy Welsh Tells Story on Wolgast But Neglected the Most Important Part

By TOM ANDREWS

FREDDY WELSH, British lightweight champion, who has put in a claim for the world's title, is one of the most gentlemanly even the stars are liable to err at times. When Freddy fought Hughie Mehegan, Australian champion, for the title of Great Britain, he said it was for the world's championship, basing his contention on the fact that he had defeated Willie Ritchie in Los Angeles before the latter had beaten Wolgast for the crown, and then following with the defeat of Matt Wells, then British champion, and also Mehegan, the Australian title holder. Freddy also told how he had once knocked out Ad Wolgast in Milwaukee during a training bout, but that is the point I must differ with him on. In his explanation of the tilt with Wolgast in Milwaukee Freddy says: "I had been training for two matches, against Maurice Sayers and Charlie Neary, at Larkin's gymnasium, when one day, after a strenuous workout, a cocky youth, who seemed full of importance, entered the place and after a minute or so came over to me and said very familiarly, 'Hello, Welsh, how are you?' 'I fine,' I responded, not knowing his name. He followed this up by saying he would give me a couple of rounds and I told him I didn't care to box that day, giving my reasons. He said, however, he would make a light, friendly go, and to oblige him I put on the gloves. We were to have three rounds. Well for the first minute we boxed neatly with open gloves, and I having no reason for being suspicious, was taking matters easy. Off my guard he suddenly swung a hay-maker at me with his right. I had just time to step back and it grazed my jaw, but it revealed to me an attempt to knock me out. I said nothing, but went right in and for the balance of the round it was a real fight. The next round I went after him and I did pay him for his betrayal of confidence, sending my right to his chin with such force that he was dropped like a log. Then Frank Mulken, his manager, came along and apologized for the act, saying the kid was just impetuous. That was why I always felt confident I could win a fight."

It is true that Welsh and Wolgast did have a boxing tilt at Larkin's, as stated by Freddy, but there was no knockout. It seems that some of the boys around the place wanted Ad to try out Welsh and the kid went in for all he was worth, and for a time it was a real fight, nice to have the scrap and that way, no doubt, the fact remains that both were on their feet when the impromptu bout ended, and it is too bad that Wolgast should have been taken down with appendicitis in Los Angeles when the two were finally matched to fight.

It is not the fault of Freddy Welsh, but it is the fault of the boys around the place who wanted Ad to try out Welsh and the kid went in for all he was worth, and for a time it was a real fight, nice to have the scrap and that way, no doubt, the fact remains that both were on their feet when the impromptu bout ended, and it is too bad that Wolgast should have been taken down with appendicitis in Los Angeles when the two were finally matched to fight.

BRITISH PREFERENCE

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Canada has many good friends among the able contributors to the magazine, reviews and daily press of the old land. No single individual contributor has thrown more light on the tariff question, in all its phases, than Edward Porritt, who strikes deep and hard. His splendid review of the tour of Sir Wilfrid Laurier through the west, the promises and the failures of Liberal leaders, also his exposure of the fallacies of the cry raised by the Conservative leaders against reciprocity, are fresh in the minds of the reading public. Mr. Porritt's latest contribution is on the British preference question. In the Quarterly Review he shows very clearly that "the interests hostile to preference are solely those of the manufacturers. Consumers generally are heartily in favor of it, but the only organized forces that have made any fight for it are the farmers of Ontario and the grain growers of the three western provinces. The grain growers' fight is a just one. It is the farmers of Ontario and the grain growers of the three western provinces, and not the manufacturers, who are the real backbone of the British Empire. They are the backbone of the British Empire, and they are the backbone of the British Empire."

Disbanded politicians have endeavored to make it appear that the farmers and the grain growers are the backbone of the British Empire, but they are not. They are the backbone of the British Empire, and they are the backbone of the British Empire."
