CHRIST IS THE CHIEF

DR. TALMAGE ON THE MOST CON-SPICUOUS FIGURE IN HISTORY.

A Sermon That Must be Full of Inspire. tion to Christians Everywhere-Christ the Object of Faith and Love and Hope Treasures in Heaven.

New York, Sept 1 .- For his sermor for this forenoon, Rev. Dr. Talmage selects a topic which must prove full of aspiration to Christians everywhere The title of his discourse is, "The Chieftain," and the text, "The chiefest among ten thousand," Canticles v, 10.

The most conspicuous character history steps out upon the platform. The finger which, diamonded with light pointed down to him from the Bethle-hem sky, was only a ratification of the finger of prophecy, the finger of genealogy, the finger of events-all fiv fingers pointing in one direction. Christ is the overtopping figure of all time "vox humana" in all music the gracefulest line in all sculpture the most exquisite mingling of lights and shades in all painting, the acme of all climaxes, the dome of all cathedraled grandeur and the peroration of all language.

The Greek alphabet is made up or twenty-four letters, and when Christ compared himself to the first letter and the last letter, the Alpha and the Omega, he appropriated to himself all splendors that you can spell out either with those two letters the letters between them, "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end."

What does that Scripture mean which says of Christ, "He that cometh from above is above all?" It mean after you have piled up all Alpine and Himalayan altitudes the glory of Christ would have to spread its wings and descend a thousand leagues to touch those summits. Pelion, a high mountain of Thessalv: Ossa, a high mountain, and Olympus, a high mountain, but mythology tells us when the giants warred against the gods they piled up these three mountains, and from the top of them proposed to scale the heavens, but the height was not great enough, and there was a comolete failure. And after all the giants -Isaiah, and Paul, prophetic and apos tolic giants, Raphael and Michael Anrelo, artistic giants; cherubim and seraphim and archangel, celestial giants -have failed to climb to the top of Christ's glory they might all well unite in the words of Paul and cry out, "Above all!" "Above all!" But Solo mon in my text prefers to call Christ "The Chieftain," and so to-day I hail

First, Christ must be chief in ou preaching. There are so many books on homiletics scattered through the country that all laymen, as well as all clergymen, have made up their minds what sermons ought to be. That sermon is the most effectual which most pointedly puts forth Christ as the pardon of all sin and the correction of all evil-individual, social, political, na-There is no reason why we should ring the endless changes on a few phrases. There are those who think that if an exhortation or a discourse have frequent mention of justification, sanctification, covenant of works and covenant of grace, therefore it must be profoundly evangelical. while they are suspicious of a discourse which presents the same truth, but different phraseology. Now, I say there is nothing in all the opulent realm of Anglo-Saxonism, of all the word treasures that we inherited from the Latin and the Greek and the Indo-European, but we have a right to marit in religious discussion. Christ sets the example. His illustrations barnyard fowl, the crystals of salt, as well as from the seas and the stars. and we do not propose in our Sunday-school teaching and in our pulpit address to be put on the limits.

I know that there is a great deal said in our day against words, as though they were nothing. They may be misused, but they have an imperial power. They are the bridge between soul and soul, between Almighty God and the human race. What did Christ write upon the tables of stone? Words. What did Christ utter on Mount Oli-Words. Out of what did Christ strike the spark for the illumination of the universe? Out of words. "Let there be light," and light was. course, thought is the cargo and words are only the ship; but how fast would your cargo get on without the ship? What you need, my friends, in all your work, in your Sabbath school class, in your reformatory institutions what we all need is to enlarge our vocabulary when we come to speak about God and Christ and heaven. We ride a few old words to death en there is such illimitable resource. Shakespeare employed 15,000 different for dramatic purposes; Milton employed 8,000 different words for poetic purposes; Rufus Choate employed over 11,000 different words for legal purposes, but the most of us have less than 1,000 words that we can manage, and that makes us so stupid.

When we come to set forth the love of Christ we are going to take the phraseology wherever we find it, and if it has never been used in that direction before all the more shall we use it. When we come to speak or glory of Christ the conqueror we are going to draw our similes from triumphal arch and oratorio and everything grand and stupendous. The French may have 18 flags by which they can give signal, but those 18 flags cannot put into 66,000 different combinations. And I have to tell you that these standards of the cross be lifted into combinations of infinite varieties everlasting. And let me say to these young men who come from the theological seminaries into our ser vices, and are, after awhile, going to preach Jesus Christ: You will have the largest liberty and unlimited re You only have to presen Christ in your own way.

Brighter than the light, fresher than the fountains, deeper than the seas, are all these gospel themes. Song as no melody, flowers no sweetness, set sky no color compared with these glorious themes. These hervests o grace spring up quicker than sickle them. Kindling ruthering fire, and product with their fire, and product with their sower, if the with their glory, they thought for the poet, and they are the most thrilling illustration for the ora tor, and they ofter the most intens scene for the artist, and they are to the embassador of the sky all enthu-Complete pardon for dires guilt. Sweetest comfort for ghastlies agony. Brightest hope for grimmes death. Grandest resurrection for dark est sepulcher. Oh, what a gospel to preach! Christ the chief. His birth his suffering, his miracles, his para-bles, his sweat, his tears, his blood, his atonement, his intercession-what glorious themes! Do we exercise faith? Christ is its object. Do we have love It fastens on Jesus. Have we a fond ness for the church? It is because Christ died for it. Have we a hope of heaven? It is because Jesus went there, the herald and the forerunne royal robe of Demetrius was so costly, so beautiful, that after he had put it off no one ever dared put it on, but this robe of Christ, richer than that, the poorest and the weakest and the worst may wear.

"Oh, my sins, my sins," said Martin Luther to Staupitz, "my sins, my The fact is that the brawn, German student had found a Latin Bible that made him quake, and notining else ever did make him quake and when he found how, through Christ, he was pardoned and saved, he wrote to a friend, saying: "Com over and join us great and awful sin ners, saved by the grace of God. You seem to be only a slender sinner, and don't much extol the mercy of God; but we that have been such awful sinners praise his grace the more now that we have been redeem Can it be that you are so des perately egotistical that you feel your self in first rate spiritual trim, and that from the root of the hair to the tip of the toe you are scarless and im-maculate? What you need is a looking glass, and here it is in the Bible Poor and wretched and miserable and blind and naked from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, full wounds and putrefying sores. No health in us. And then take the fact that Christ gathered up all the notes against us and paid them, and then ffered us the receipt! And how much we need him in our sorrows! We are independent of circumstances if we have his grace. Why, he made Paul sing in the dungeon, and under that grace St. John from desolate Patmos heard the blast of the apocalyptic trumpets. After all other candles have been snuffed out, this is the light that gets brighter and brighter unto the perfect day; and after, under the hoofs of calamity, all the pools of worldly enjoyment have been trampled into deep mire, at the foot of the eternal rock the Christian, from cups of granite lily rimmed, puts out the thirst of his soul. Again, I remark that Christ is chief in dying alleviations. I have not any sympathy with the morbidity abroad about our demise. The Emperor of Constantinople arranged that on the day of his coronation the stonemason should come and consult about a tombstone that after awhile he would need And there are men who are monoman iacal on the subject of departure from this life by death, and the more they think of it the less they are prepared to go. This is an unmanliness not worthy of you, not worthy of me. Saladin, the greatest conqueror of his day, while dying, ordered that the tunic he had on him be carried after his death on his spear at the head of his army, and that then the soldier, ever and anon, should stop and say: "Behold all that is left of Saladin, the states he conquered, of all the wealth states he conquered, of all the wealth he accumulated, nothing did he retain but this shroud!" I have no sympathy with such behavior, or such absurd demonstration, or with much that we hear uttered in regard to departure from this life to the next. There is a common senisical idea on this subject that you need to consider-there are only two styles of departure. A thousand feet underground, by light of torch, toiling in a miner's shaft, a ledge of rock may fall upon us, and we may die a miner's death. Far out at sea, falling from the slippery ratlines and broken on the halliards, we may die a sailor's death. On mission of mercy in hospital, amid broken bones and reeking leprosies and raging fevers we may die a philanthropist's death On the field of battle, serving God and the gun carriage may roll over us, and our country, slugs through the heart, we may die a patriot's death. after all, there are only two styles of departure—the death of the righteon and the death of the wicked-and we all want to die that of the former.

God grant that when that hour comes you may be at home. You want the hand of your kindred in your hand. You want your children to surround You want the light on your pillow from eyes that have long refle your love. You want your room still. You do not want any curious strangers standing around watching you You want your kindred from afai hear your last prayer. I think that is Can earthly friends hold us up when the billows of death come up to the girdle? Can human voice charm open neaven's gate? Can human hand pilot us through the narrows of death into heaven's harbor? Can any earthly friendship shield us from the arrows of death, and in the hour when satar shall practice upon us his infernal archery? No, no, no, no! Alas, poor soul, if that is all. Better die in wilderness, far from tree shadow and rom fountain, alone, vultures circling through the air, waiting for our body unknown to men, and to have no bu rial; if only Christ could saysthrough the solitudes, "I will never leave thee I will never forsake thee." From tha pillow of stone a ladder would soan heavenward, angels coming and go-ing, and across the solitude and the barrenness would come the sweet notes of heavenly minstrelsy.

Gordon Hall, far from home, dying in the door of a heathen temple, said 'Glory to thee, O God!" What did dying Wilberforce say to his wife? Come and sit beside me and let u talk of heaven. I never knew what ss was until I found Christ: What did dying Hannah Moore say "To go to heaven, think what that is To go to Christ, who died that I might live! Oh. glorious grave! Oh, what a glorious thing it is to die! Oh the love of Christ, the love of Christ, What did Mr. Tonk dy, the creat hymnaker, say in his last hour? "Wh soul! I shall soon be gone, for surely FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL no one can live in this world after such glories as God has manifested to my soul.

What did the dying Janeway, say? "I can as easily die as close my eyes r turn my head in sleep. Before a few hours have passed I shall stand on Mount Zion with the one hundred and forty and four thousand, and with the just men made perfect, and we shall ascribe riches and honor and glory and majesty and dominion unto God and the Lamb." Dr. Taylor, condemn ed to burn at the stake, on his way thither broke away from the guards men and went bounding and leaping and jumping toward the fire, glad to go to Jesus and to die for him. Sir Charles Hare, in his last moments, had such rapturous vision that he cried, "Upward, upward!" And so great was the peace of one of Christ's lisciples that he put his finger upon the pulse in his wrist and counted it and observed it, and so great was his placidity that after awhile he said. 'Stopped!' 'and his life had ended here to begin in heaven. But grander than that was the testimony of the wornou first missionary, when in the Mamer-tine dungeon he cried: "I am now ready to be offered and the time of my the good fight. I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; hence-forth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will give me in that day, and not to me only, but to all them that love his appearing!" Do not see that Christ is chief in dying alleviations?

Toward the last hour of our earthly residence we are speeding. When I see the sunset I say, "One day less to live." When I see the spring blossoms scattered, I say "Another season gone When I close the Bible forever.' Sabbath night, I say "Another Sab-bath departed." When I bury a friend "Another earthly attraction gone forever." What nimble feet the have! The roebucks and the lightnings run not so fast. From decade to decade, from sky to sky, they go at a bound. There is a place for us, whether marked or not, where you and I will sleep the last sleep, and the men now are living who will, with solemn tread, carry us to our resting Aye, it is known in heaven whether our departure will Le a coronation or a banishment. Brighter than a banqueting hall through which the light feet of the dancers go up and down to the sound of trumpeters will be the sepulcher through whose rifts the holy light of heaven streameth. God will watch you. He will send his angels to guard your slumeth. bering dust until, at Christ's behest, they shall roll away the stone.

So also Christ is chief in heaven. The Bible distinctly says that Christ is the chief theme of the celestial ascription, all the thrones facing his throne all the palms waved before his face, all the crowns down at his feet. Cheruto cherubim, seraphim to serahim phim, redeemed spirit to redeemed spirit, shall recite the Saviour's earthly sacrifice.

Stand on some high hill of heaven and in all the radiant sweep the most glorious object will be Jesus. Myriads gazing on the scars of his suffering, in ilence first, afterward breaking forth into acclamation. The martyrs, all the purer for the flame through which they passed, will say, "This is the Jewhom we died." The apostles. all the happier for the shipwreck and scourging through which they went, will say, "This is the Jesus whom preached at Corinth, and at Cappadocia, and at Antioch, and at Jerusalem." Little children clad in white v. "This is the us in his arms and bless us, and, when the storms of the world were too cold and loud, brought us into this beautiful The multitude of the bereft will say, "This is the Jesus who comforted us when our hearts broke." Many who wandered clear off from God and plunged into vagabondism, but were saved by grace, will say: This is the Jesus who pardoned We were lost on the mountains and brought us home. We were guilty, and he has made us white as snow Mercy boundless, grace unparalleled And then, after each one has recited his peculiar delivernaces and peculiar mercies, recited them as by solo, all voices will come together into great chorus, which will make the rches echo and re-echo with the eternal reverberation of triumph. Edward I was so anxious to go to the Holy Land that when he was about to expire he bequeathed $160,000 to have his heart, after his decease, taken to the Holy Land in Asia Minor, and his request was complied with. there are hundreds to-day whose hearts are already in the Holy Land of heaven. Where your treasures are, there are your hearts also. Quaint John Bunyan caught a glimpse of that place, and in his quaint way he said: "And in my dream, and lo! the bells of the city rang again for joy, and as they opened the gates to let in the men I looked in after them, and lo! the city shone like the sun, and there were streets of gold, and men walked on them, harps in their hands. praises withal, and after that they shut up the gates, which when I had seen I wished myself among them!"

The whole Philippine archipelago is the smoker's paradise. Quantities of tobacco of the finest flavors in tropic luxuriance on the uplands, and everyne is an adept at smoking. Boys and girls of 10 use the weed hourly and roll their own cigars with the deftness of their parents. It is a common sight to see in the streets of Manilla father and mother sauntering along with enormous cigars in their mouths and followed by five or six children, varying in ages from 10 to 20, all smoking. At the little theatre in Manilla, where a few performances are given in each winter's season, everyone smokes, and the roof is so arranged that the smoky air can pass quickly away. In every home, whether in the country or in the heart of Manilla, there re always heaps of dried tobacco leaves, tied in bunches, upon the floor or in a shed near the house, and the provident Tagal lays in a stock of tobacco for house hold purposes several times a year as carefully as the American does the family supply of potatoes or flour Strange as it may seem, very little to bacco is exported, and the rolling in en is that the Spanish, for the party research, have discussed in the spanish for the party research. the exportation of the wad

Globe. Toronto railway earnings for Augist were $92,402.45, as against $87, 743.61 in August, 1894, showing an increase of $4,658.84. The operating expenses will show a saving of pro-bably $3,500, and the net earnings will show an increase of about $8,000, or perhaps a little more.

The earnings of the Montreal street railway for the month of August were $109, 316.30. In the corresponding month of 1894 the earnings were $90,202.66; an increase of $19,113.06 for the month just passed. The largest receipts for any single day in Augwere Saturday, 17th, when the total was $4,104.04.

THE SUGAR MARKET. Says Wednesday's Montreal Star: For granulated sugar 4c. is still the factory price, but for a round lot it is not improbable that 1-16c less might be accepted. Yellows range from 3c to 35-8c. The demand improves, but more slowly than hoped for. Of the situation in New York the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin says: "Refined sugars are confirming the favorable indications shown at the close of last week. Business opens up after the holiday in board and active form, a large scope of territory being heard all classes of buyers represented and a general assortment called for, making altogether a healthy quick market. The influence is strengthening on values all around and at the close anticipations of a speedy advance are entertained, as the demand seems to be swelling rather than abating."

Willett & Gray say: The beet crops of Europe now amount to almost 4, 000,000 to 5,000,000 tons, an amount sufficient to control the price of sugar all over the world. These crops reach maturity in October, and are mostly gathered from October to January, hence the same changing weaconditions occur and cause fluctuations on the sugar exchanges of Europe just the same as the weather conditions of the United States cause violent fluctuations on produce changes. It should not therefore cause great surprise when a sudden decline or a sudden advance is made CROPS IN ONTARIO. The harvest in this district and most parts of the province, says the London Free Press, will be pretty well through with this week, and every cereal crop is better than the ed in the early part of the season. The fall wheat crop was never better and is yielding from 25 to 35, and the Huron district as high as 75 to 80 the season. The pea crop is one of cially the late planted fields. The acreage is one of the largest for some and this years. Corn is immense, crop, too, has received a larger attention from the farmers than any previous year. There are some patches in the county of Middlesex, the stalks of which are fourteen feet high, and such prolificacy has seldom known in this district. With such a crop as we have in Ontario and in the Northwest, in fact in Canada all over, if any kind of fair prices prevail, there should be a boom in the country and good times be general among all classes. THE MEDICO-LEGAL CONGRESS.

Judge Palmer of This City Acts as Presiding Officer at the Afternoon Session.

New York. Sept. 5.-Sociology and criminology formed the subjects dis-cussed during the first portion of the morning session of the second day's meeting of the medico-legal congress Dr. T. D. Crethers read a paper on Legal Responsibility in Inebrity. He held that inebrity was a disease that excess of alcohol paralysed the nerves and brain. In the discussion of the paper, Albert Bach said that the courts very properly held the inebriate responsible for crime, because he knew what the effect of his taking of alcoholic drink would be. Dr. Forbes Winslow said the only for the habitual drunkard was to lock him up. Dr. Crothers said criminology was in a state of chaos at the time.

Dr. Forbes read a paper on Suicide Considered as a Mental Epidemic. He said all human actions were under the influence and power of example more than precept and consequently self-destruction had often been justified by an appeal to the laws and cus toms of past ages History was replete with examples of moral and criminal epidemics during the past centuries.

RODE A TANDEM WHEEL.

The Lady Fainted and Both Riders Received Serious Injuries.

San Francisco, Sept. 3.-Miss Marion N. Hall and George McCloud, while riding a tandem wheel in Golden Gate park today, met with injuries which may result in the death of both. They were going at great speed when Miss Hall fainted and fell from the wheel. Her misnap caused the rear wheel to sheer, unseating McCloud and throwing him violently from the saddle. Both were picked up unconscious. McCloud's skull was fractured and Miss Hall's right collar bone was broken, and she is also suffering from concusion of the brain.

MR. HENDERSON'S COLLECTION.

Among the amateur photographers in St. John is George Henderson, sitting magistrate and clerk of the police court. Mr. Henderson has some good pictures of the Prince Rupert Monticello, and has obtained fine views of the picturesque scenery about Brookville. It is suggested that Mr. Henderson proposes to add a rogues gallery to his museum of curiosities in the police building. The present exhibit includes pistols and revolvers, from the large and primitive flint lock to the deadly and dainty weapon of the present day, with one specimen of the pocket pistol intended for liquid ammunition. There are knives other cutlery, sling shot, steel knuckles, loaded canes and whips. But there are as yet no portraits in this gallery of the men and women who used these labor saving implements. Noted criminals and suspects sometimes have their pictures taken, but the common disorderly, and even the assaulters and Elie Chiasson to be justices of and batterers have been neglected
