Doan's Kidney Pills.

How Do You Know?

A Kingston Man Says So.

Mr. W. J. Pappa, 112 Barrie St., Kingston, Ont., writes as follows: "Having been troubled with kidney disease for years, and not having received any permanent relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, I take great pleasure in letting others similarly afflicted know of the wonderful curative properties possessed by Doan's Pills. Before taking them I was troubled at night by having to rise, but can now sleep, and do not feel weary in the morning. I hope that this may induce other sufferers from kidney or urinary troubles to give Doan's Kidney Pills a faithful trial, for I know that no other remedy could have acted so well as they did in my case."

The Habit of Interrupting.

A few days since I was present at a small luncheon party of ladies, and I noticed with some surprise the scant courtesy they showed to one another during conversation. One of the party would start to say something, and before she had finished another would break in with another topic, only to be interrupted in turn. I must confess that I was a bit surprised, for all these women were supposed to be well-bred, and yet they were disregarding one of the simplest rules of polite behavior.

A little later I was calling on some friends and I noticed the same thing. Each member of the family would interrupt the others, and the interruption was considered quite as a matter of course. Then I understood the situation better, and put the blame just where it belonged—on the lack of home training. If the mother grows careless and allows her children to contract the habit of interrupting one another constantly, she must not be surprised if this habit is carried beyond the home circle, and her children show in society the result of indulgence of thoughtlessness.

The habit is one of the most unpleasant that can be contracted, and the fact that it is such a common one does not make it one bit the better or the more excusable. It is a habit that grows on one unconsciously if one does not keep close watch. It should be the care of the mother in the home to teach her children respect for one another, and insist upon that courtesy of treatment which she expects them to give to strangers. Unless politeness is a habit it will never be a grace. It must be ingrained, and the teaching cannot be begun too early.

I wish the girls would keep a little watch upon themselves to see whether they have fallen into the pernicious habit, and, if they have, just set to work to break themselves of it at once. It may seem a little thing, but it is one of the indications of fine breeding to treat any one with the respect due to him as an individual.—Golden Rule.

A Housekeeping Experience Abroad.

Housekeepers who have worried along through this trying summer may be interested in the following description of summer housekeeping in Italy. It comes in a personal letter from a young American woman of limited means, who nevertheless wandered from one end of Europe to the other; and even beyond, for she spent one summer in Finland and Iceland. She says:

I have become a padrona with seven enormous keys, so heavy that I have to carry them in a basket. I am not only a padrona: I am also cook, art student, scribbler, and should be studying Italian. Also, it has been very hot—so hot that one felt as if there was little worth doing in this world, and one didn't care "tuppence" who did it. Did you ever keep house in hot weather, with no ice and no screen, and in a land where the insectivora abounded? We have the pestilence which hopped in darkness, and flies by the 500, and many, many mosquitoes, and harvest lice, and green and blue beetles, and harvest bugs that bite, and long-nosed gray beetles that plunge into the milk, and big grasshoppers that come zipping in through the windows, and a few centipedes, and rumors of scorpions, and a mighty orchestra of cicadas that drone and buzz among the olive trees under my window.

Every day brings fresh discovery in the stinging and biting line. Fifteen minutes at a stretch of peaceful comfort has been impossible. With this wall finished, I will remark that the insect enemy is the worst thing about San Gimignano—short for San Gimignano. For my quarters, five rooms and a garden across the lane, I pay about $6.40 a month; and for my beloved Maria, my servant, who comes for an hour and a half every day, $1.60 a month. We are delightfully behind the times here. Everything is done with hand labor; distaffs, ploughs, spinning wheels, farm implements, are as they were in Virgil's time. I shall go to Venice for the winter—a queer winter resort, but I have a chance to rent a nice little apartment there for $6 a month.—Harper's Bazar.

Proper Treatment for Dogs.

It is very cruel to keep dogs in the house all the time. They want to run and play just as much as boys do, and if kept in the house all the time will soon become sick. They should always have a comfortable place cold nights, and plenty of good water as often as they want it, and they should not be fed so often as to make them fat and unhealthy.

Some dogs that have been badly treated become cross and dangerous. Some men and boys treat them cruelly; but when they have been treated kindly they soon show how much they feel it. There is no animal that suffers more when spoken to unkindly, or that is more happy when spoken kindly to.

The active dog requires drink frequently during the hot day, as does also the cat; and a dish of fresh water should stand where they can have access to it. Undoubtedly many a dog is driven to madness through lack of water; and the testimony is that hydrophobia is almost unknown in those localities where dogs can drink when they wish.

Provide water—fresh, pure water. Think, reader, how you are refreshed by a drink of cool water on a hot day. The lower animals are equally in need of the means of quenching thirst.

Every city, village and country town should be liberally supplied with drinking fountains for animals, and they should be so constructed that even the smallest dogs can drink from them.

Muzzling dogs in hot weather is a form of extreme cruelty, preventing their free respiration, perspiration and drinking, which are essential to their good health. The muzzles tend much rather to increase the danger of hydrophobia than to diminish it.

I do not believe there has been any instance of a man committing suicide when he has had a dog to love him.

"There can be no doubt," writes Mr. Darwin, "that dogs feel shame as distinct from fear, and something very like modesty when begging too often for food. A great dog scorns the snarling of a little dog, and this may be called magnanimity."

Dogs and other pet animals are often subjected to prolonged torture when sentence of death has been pronounced by their owners. The common practice of making an inexperienced boy the executioner causes torture to the once-loved pet, and has a pernicious effect upon the sensibility of the boy.

When it is necessary to kill such animals because of old age and sickness, then they should always be killed instantly, without knowing that they are going to be killed, and without pain.

A Small Workbench.

A small workbench is very convenient for doing small jobs of repairing. Get a long, deep, but narrow, empty grocery-box and mount it upon legs upon its side. This provides not only a workbench, but a shelf below it for keeping tools. The cover of the box can be hinged to the front for the purpose of keeping the tools more secure. There is not a farm in the country that can afford to be without at least a small bench on which to make repairs and to construct the small articles needed in carrying on farm operations.—(D.)
