English Liberalism To South Africa

R. S. Ward-Jackson Addressed Members of Canadian Club Last Evening—South African Journalist Proved Very Interesting Speaker.

The application of the best principles of English liberalism to South Africa in the granting of complete religious freedom, and the placing of the Dutch and English languages on an equal footing, in the schools, the parliament and the country, were responsible for the loyalty of the Boers to the British Empire.

The yachtsmen of the R. K. Y. C. and their friends are enjoying themselves in the very best way on the river this week, it being the annual cruise.

Word has been received from one of the yachtsmen to the effect that the cruise this year is even better than any held previously; there are not so many yachts in the squadron as there were a few years ago, but there has not been one moment of dullness, and it is proving a joyful week of real pleasure to all.

The yachts will arrive at Crystal Beach this evening and tomorrow morning will be dressed in drag and every yacht will be made to look her best in holiday attire. The cruise will come to an end tomorrow when the annual service is concluded. Rev. Dr. J. A. Morison will preach an appropriate sermon, and a large crowd from the city in motor boats and automobiles will join in the service with the yachtsmen.

Returned From The Conference

Hon. Dr. W. F. Roberts Attended Conference of Canadian Union of Municipalities at Quebec, Also Trip to Ottawa.

Hon. Dr. W. F. Roberts, Provincial Minister of Health, returned to the city last evening. He had been attending the conference of the Canadian Union of Municipalities at Quebec and on his way to Ottawa to interview the Postmaster General on behalf of the Provincial Government in regard to the franking regulations put through the Federal House at its last session.

To a Standard reporter last evening the Provincial Minister of Health said that the Postmaster General had put through these franking regulations in order to stamp out the abuse that had been made of the franking privileges. The regulations were extremely drastic, and unfortunately, interfered with several important federal services, among which was that of vital statistics.

The Deputy Minister, Hon. Dr. Roberts said, had no idea of the far-reaching effects of this legislation and was quite willing after a conference to bring the matter to the attention of the Minister of the department. He felt satisfied that some form of remedial measure would be brought about to provide until amended legislation could be brought down.

While at Quebec, Dr. Roberts had addressed the Canadian Union of Municipalities, in response to a special invitation, on "Latest Ideas on Public Health." He divided his subject under three heads. The first was that of education, as it was most essential that the public should become receptive of the importance of public health.

He then dwelt on the subject from the housing standpoint. There was no subject, he said, of more importance in settling the present chaotic conditions than the question of the proper provision of housing. Its place should be under the Ministry of Health. To back up this statement, he cited the authority of the British Government, which has placed housing under the Ministry of Health and 23,000 houses are being built in the British Isles under the stipulations of the health department. The reason that housing should be included is because the people spend three-quarters of their time in their homes, and it was his ideal to build houses in such a way that the occupants would be surrounded with an atmosphere that would make for their moral and physical well-being.

The third and last idea that Dr. Roberts presented to the Conference was the necessary control of Public Health by the Government through the Ministry of Health. He argued that this service should be given a status and be put on the same footing as the other services of government. It was at least of equal importance with the various other services of government, because it pertains to the health and the very existence in fact of the people for whom these other services are being carried on.

Speaking further about the question of housing in the city and province generally and its prevailing evils, the Minister of Health said that it was his intention of putting through legislation which would not allow a house to be built unless it had first been provided with water and sewerage.

The C. N. R. officials said last evening that the debris would be cleared and the torn up stretch of track replaced and the main line open for traffic by early this morning. A special stretch of track had been laid yesterday to allow traffic to pass the scene of the wreck.

The funerals of the engineer and the baggage master who lost their lives in the wreck will be held tomorrow afternoon from Knox Church and members of the Railway Employees' Association, as well as the Knights of Pythias, will walk in a body. It will be a double funeral.

College Inn Has Moir's Bread

It's true enough that there was a little row between the College Inn and the Bakers' Union. However, an error is an error. And when one is made, it should be corrected.

The College Inn, through the columns of The Times, in which paper the mistake was made, did call the public's attention to the typographical omission. And so 105 Charlotte Street still handles Moir's, at 16 cents, without causing strife locally. An error is an error. And it should, at least, be remedied.
