LANDS INCREASED OUTLAY.

Frederick conveyed the kindly greetings of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the gathering and then went on to defend the increased expenditure of the militia.

The agreement provides that the department of militia will furnish all the instructors free of cost from the permanent force for service in the schools of Nova Scotia.

Besides conferring a benefit on the youth of the country an arrangement of this kind would be beneficial to the men of the permanent force.

HORRIBLE MURDER UNEARTHED IN BOSTON LODGING HOUSE

Body of Woman, Cut in Pieces, Found in Trunk—Chester Jordan, Husband of the Victim, Arrested—Confessed to Killing His Actress Wife During Quarrel at Somerville Home, and Thought to Conceal Crime by Throwing Body Overboard at Sea, But the Plan Miscarried.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 3.—The most horrible and brutal crime committed in Greater Boston since the Susan Geary murder of four years ago, and much remembering it in its details, was disclosed tonight by the discovery of the dismembered body and mutilated pieces of flesh of Mrs. Honora Jordan, an actress, aged 23 years, of Somerville, in a trunk in a boarding house at 7 Hancock street, on Beacon Hill.

Chester Jordan, an actor, aged 29 years, of 500a Medford street, Somerville, is held by the police, charged with the murder, and made a full and complete confession of the crime according to the police.

Chester R. Jordan is a brother of Mrs. Jesse L. Livermore, wife of the well-known stock and cotton speculator. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phineas Jordan, and a sister, Mrs. Kendall, prominent in Somerville social circles, live in that city.

The discovery of the crime was due to the suspicions of the hackman, James Collins, who had in mind the numerous robberies which have taken place in and about Boston recently, and, believing the trunk he was carrying about, from its weight, contained silverware, notified the police early this afternoon.

Turning his head, Jordan threw up the cover of the trunk and then sank back on his knees, burying his face in his hands and sobbing.

While professing that he was in a dazed condition when the crime was committed, by the clearness and consciousness of his tale it seemed apparent that whatever preceded the actual killing, the most careful plans were laid for the disposal of the body and the covering up of the crime.

Chester Jordan's story of the murder, which was given the officers, was substantially as follows: "He was married in September, 1904, to Mrs. Honora Eddy, whose maiden name was O'Reilly and whose home was in Somerville. He did not know who his wife's first husband was or what had become of him.

Jordan declares that his wife struck him first and that he then knocked his wife down and was terrified to find that he had killed her. This happened at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The trunk was taken to the Somerville station and shipped to Boston some time Wednesday. Jordan came to Boston and attempted to secure passage for New York on the Harvard, but learned for the first time that the steamer was not running that day owing to an accident.

While professing that he was in a dazed condition when the crime was committed, by the clearness and consciousness of his tale it seemed apparent that whatever preceded the actual killing, the most careful plans were laid for the disposal of the body and the covering up of the crime.

For some weeks past "the Jordans" have been appearing in their sketch of the tramp and the nurse at a moving picture theatre on Washington street.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—This afternoon the Hydro-Electric Commission decided to ask for tenders for the construction of transformer stations and interconnecting apparatus.
