THE ASH POOL.

The wet wind o'er the sodden sea,
And waits through the branches of leafless trees,
As morning dawns in the fallow low,
And the pale birds peeping to the front,
When winter asserts his lingering reign,
And his scepter glitters on hill and plain,
Drearily muffled and unshaded,
Yea, the low long sweep of fallen sea,
And sad and still as the hushed ground 'neath
Steady the struggling struggle like the Great Ash Pool.

Black and cold, and stagnant and deep,
No silver fads from his waters leap,
No leaves whose fluttering patter and pelt,
Till that life in its banks finds safe retreat;
No lily-beds to its surface cling,
But broken and high-backed around it spring:
The very trees that about it stand,
Are twisted and gnarled as by witch's hand,
And the ghost of a story of the dead,
Like a mist hangs over the Great Ash Pool.

When June's soft rags in the earth,
And the rose and the violet spring to birth,
And the bright birds dance 'neath the bright
leaves shade,
And the wild birds call from plain and glade,
Not a sobbing sigh from the Great Ash Pool,
Not a murmur welcomes the golden day,
Not a child's laughter beside the brink,
Not a sky where lingers its way to drink,
Not a child's laughter beside the brink,
Not a sky where lingers its way to drink,
Not a child's laughter beside the brink,
Not a sky where lingers its way to drink,

Yet once by its waters wild vows were spoken,
In passion heard, and in falsehood broken,
Two bright beads over its margin best,
When the moon to its depths soft radiance lent,
A little while, and one for lay there,
With its blue eyes closed in their last despair,
Roe that stared upwards, through weed and slime,
With their story of sorrow, and shame, and crime,
So, in story number, or glances of Yale,
A care hangs over the Great Ash Pool.

NOTES AND NEWS.

UNION STATES.

Miss Georgia Snow has been nominated by the Governor for Territorial Librarian of Utah.

A toy balloon set loose by a Cincinnati gentleman with his card attached, made a voyage of thirty miles in two hours.

The Grand Trunk is going to run a "lightning express" train through from Boston to Chicago, without change, in seven hours.

Fort Wayne has a home in which four suicides have been committed. The owner offers to let it cheap to anybody desirous to depart this life.

"New Bedford has a wife not yet fourteen years old," says an exchange. We are glad to hear New Bedford is married. But let the bridegroom pretty old!

The editors of the Cincinnati Enquirer are growing fractious. Speaking, doubtless, for themselves, they say "next to pork, whiskey is our main dependence."

Ex-Governor Coburn, of Maine, has given $500, Mrs. Mary H. Flagg $10,000, Mrs. A. C. Dummett $2,000, and the Legislature $12,500, for an industrial school for girls.

The Kilkree recently met their match in Alabama. They ordered a New York man to leave his farm, but instead of doing so he shot three of them, and his militant neighbors elected him county clerk.

A rural New York lassie recently sent the following loving epistle to her swain: "Dear Theobald: I've got the mumps and can't cum and marrie u e I gred t'ret I will suite u ex sune ex I can't in the epav the mumps."

When a sheriff in Vermont, in opening the County Court, cried, "All persons having causes or matters pending therein, draw near, and they shall be heard, and God save the people!" he was a satirist and didn't know it.

The wind is sometimes a very practical joker. The other day in Brooklyn, old Boreas took an undertaker's sign from its fastening and laid it down in front of a grog shop where it informed passers by that "caskets and coffins were available at the shortest notice" within.

The New York Custom House Seizure Bureau went into the field last business day, and seized on the steamer America, into whose folds were folded 950 "cigarettes" weighing 80 pounds. Only 300 of them were enough to have evicted nearly a thousand fashionable females.

"A Sumner," writes an occasional correspondent at Washington, "gave one invitation to his own funeral. A young man from Massachusetts last week called on the Senator. He told Mr. Sumner that he would like to see the inside of the Senate Chamber. Sumner gave him a line requesting the doorkeeper to admit him. On the day of the funeral his card was admitted to the door."

Believers in the "cyclic" theory will find much to fortify their opinions in the remarkable prevalence of fires just now. Reports from all parts of the country tell of destructive fires in nearly every State in the Union. In many instances, as in Hartford, Elmira and Indianapolis, the losses amount to hundreds of dollars; and these disasters are spread over several days. Possibly, the light winds which have prevailed may have had something to do with this unusual destruction of property by the flames, but the period will pass for a "fire cycle."

The Albion for April opens with a marvelous collection of beautiful illustrations. A tender and beautiful full-page spring-time view, which is printed in tints, has all the richness of a steel engraving. Five great and remarkable pictures of Lake George and its glorious scenery embellish this number. A full-page picture shows Lake George; another fine picture is "Fourteen-Mile Island," and the rest all new and elegant designs.

A letter from Coomassie, dated Feb. 5, says that after the place was captured, everybody strolled about the streets and searched every house to discover the vast loot. That was reported to be in the city. The King's palace and some other great chiefs' residences contained valuable plunder, but there was much care taken to guard it against the unconscionable rascals who always accompany an invading army. One of the King's messengers, entered the city about 2 P.M., and informed Sir G. that the King intended to come, but that he had been seen giving arms and ammunition to some of his followers to carry away, the consequence of which was that G. was obliged to travel to Coomassie with 300 followers in his train; and three other chiefs were also seen prisoners taken in the city under suspicious circumstances. The Prince of the Royal Body Guard narrowly escaped capture, and had efficient precautions been taken the King himself would have been made a prisoner. After G. had captured Sir G. and had taken possession of the city, a special messenger was sent to the palace during the night, and ordered to be packed up in sixteen bundles, to be conveyed to Cape Coast, where they will be sold for about $7000 in gold. About 1200 of the best soldiers of the 6th city were drafted out of Coomassie on the road home.
