Weekly Cribn e. WITH SUPPLEMENT.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 2, 1874. To Our Friends.

The success of the WEEKLY TRIBUNE, since its first firste, has exceeded our most sauguine expectations, and we feel compelled to make some acknowledgment to our many friends for the kind interest they have taken in extending its circulation. Our subscription list shows a steady increase, and from all parts of the Province we are continually receiving Enough for God to know their light afar In the soul's sky. complimentary letters in regard to the policy and management of the paper.

But our Government does not content itself with making monetary sacrifices and engagements, for the securing of privileges for which it offers equal privileges, but it has actually wiped out, in a sneaking manner, the 'order in Council that levied an extra duty of 10 per bent on tea imported from the States to long as the United States continued to discriminate in a similar way against to discriminate in a similar way against tea imported from Canada. The Pretea imported from Canada. The Premier and the Finance Minister assured the tea delegations, when the new tariff was under discussion, that the ten percent extra duty on tea from the United States would be kept up, that the Government had no intention of repealing it, and, at the last moment, inserted a clause in the bill under which it is decided that the extra duty cannot be levied. Montreal merchants, irrespective of party, seeing that the importation of tea will now be confined to the States, are very much excited against States, are very much excited against the deception that has been practised by the Premier, and have been holding meetings and passing resolutions in reference to the matter. The solution of the Government's duplicity is that the form his duties. There are between one the Government's duplicity is that the form his duties. There are between one thundred and two hundred checks awaiting his signiture, and all payments are suspended. repeal of the retaliatory discriminating tax is another sacrifice in the cause of reciprocity, and more than the merchants of Montreal are asking whether reciprocity is so valuable that all things else should be sacrificed for it. The country has prospered without reciprocity, is prospering without it, and why should all manner of sacrifices be made for the purpose of securing it?

The June number of Old and New well maintains the character of the magazine for interest and significance. Doctor Leonard Bacon, of New Haven, has a short, bold paper on the use and abuse of political parties; Mr. Hale's introduction gives some plain and healthy truth about our currency; Turguenieff's strong story of "The Fatalist," is concluded; the series of forward as usual; there are two our currency; Turguenich's strong story of "The Fatalist," is concluded; the serials go forward as usual; there are two poems; Mr. Tyrwhitt's bright series of art papers goes on; Dr. Marsineau begins to discuss the Protestants claims to church authority, in contrast with the Reman ones which he has been discussing so powerfully; we shall see how much better one form of ecclesiasticism fares with him than another. There is a delightful stetch of country life in France, by T. G. A. whose lively prose and poetical contributions have become a feature in the magazine. And the facts in the case of Jacques Guyot, of Marseilles, deceased, are wrought into a very fair little story. The usual selection of informing in Columbus, Ga., is the proud father of story. The three weeks' trial of Brinckley vs. Brinckley, in which the plaintiff claimed the establishment of marriage relations, separation and alimony, on the ground of abandonment, terminated in the New York Supreme Court Thursday. The defence was that no marriage contract took place. The plaintiff claimed there was such a contract and they cohabited as man and wife, under the laws of New York. The jury found on all issues for plaintiff, and the Court granted temponary stay to enable the counsel for defencant, Hugh L. Brinckley of Memph.s, Tenn., to prepare a bill of exceptions.
