

or representatives, by name or descent, of families long resident in the city, requesting their attendance at a meeting to be held on November 19th, 1895.

Twenty-nine responded, expressing sympathy with and interest in the project. Of these, seventeen attended the meeting.

The aim and objects of the proposed Society were explained by Mrs. S. A. Curzon, as subsequently set forth in the preamble of the Constitution; officers were appointed and resolutions passed preliminary to the formulating of a constitution and by-laws for the organization and government of a Society to be known by the name and title of the Woman's Canadian Historical Society of Toronto.
