Spraying.

(Experimental Farms Note).

If the fruit grower, vegetable grower, or flower grower does not spray nowadays, he is almost certain to have inferior products in his orchard, small fruit plantation and garden. There are so many injurious insects and diseases which affect a large proportion of the plants he grows that if they are uncontrolled there will either be no crop left or else the value of the crop will be very much reduced.

There are few of these insects and diseases which cannot be well controlled by using some of the remedies which have been discovered during the past twenty-five or thirty years and which have been well tested by many experiments.

Spraying must, however, be thoroughly done if good results are to be obtained. Materials are expensive, and the cost of labor is high, and money will be wasted if the work is improperly done or not done at the right time.

The early sprayings are, as a rule, the most important, and those who contemplate spraying, as all should who have orchards or gardens, should get everything in readiness to begin at the right time as delay may mean much loss. Spray calendars are issued by the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, in which several sprayings are recommended to be applied at certain stages in the development of the leaves, flowers, and fruit. In the case of fruit trees the spray should be applied so that every leaf, bud, and fruit will, if possible, receive some of the material, not only on one part of it but as nearly all over as possible. Every leaf, flower and bud or young fruit missed means a possible starting point for disease or insect pests. In the case of vegetables promptness in the application of a good spray is just as important as with fruits. One does not need to be convinced of the value of promptness in using poison in controlling the Colorado potato beetle as the results of the spray are immediately apparent in the death of the "bugs", but more faith is required when dealing with diseases and insects which are not so readily seen but which do much harm, and usually the grower is well rewarded for such faith.

The formulae for the mixtures and solutions recommended should be followed as closely as possible. If a man knows the chemical composition of the materials he uses, and has made a study of spraying, he may alter them slightly to meet certain circumstances, but if he knows little about them he should follow closely the instructions given on the Spray Calendar. He should, also, spray as nearly as possible at the time suggested. A delay of a few days may mean practically the loss of the mixture or solution used as there might be no return for the labor and expense. Write to either the Dominion or Provincial Departments of Agriculture for a Spray Calendar.

The Old Reliable.

I have taken "The Farmer's Advocate" a number of years. The older it gets, the better it gets. I take four others, but the old reliable for me.
