LOCAL NEWS.

The best and cheapest buying tools will doubtless be found at A. Parish & Son's. Correct your spelling. Get a 100 page dictionary for five cents, at A. Parish & Son's. The Rev. Geo. Rogers leaves for conference on Thursday, and will be absent about two weeks. Mr. J. J. Corwell has returned from Toronto, and has resumed his duties in the high school. Rear Yonge and Escott Council met on Saturday. We shall report the proceedings next week. Mr. Geo. Hirstwell presented an excellent sermon in the Methodist Church on Sunday night. We understand a number of our citizens will attend the performance of Samson in Brockville, to-night. The B. & W. Railroad has promised us a car of $1.50 cedar shingles next week. W. G. Pattison, the pulpit of the Methodist Church will be occupied next Sunday morning by H. L. Hagerman, and in the evening by Mr. F. M. Porter. Mr. Anthony Preston, of Bastard, made this year 1,000 pounds of maple sugar from 290 trees. He wants to know who can beat this record. A few days ago Mr. A. E. Wiltse's little child fell from the veranda of its father's home to the ground, but fortunately escaped almost unhurt. Mr. Crawford, while engaged in his work at Fisher's Carriage Works, struck his foot accidentally with a heavy hammer three times, and was badly bruised, but no serious consequences followed. George Stevens, a young lad, who enjoys stalling a ride from a passing conveyance, the other day fell from a wagon to the ground, through a sudden jerk given by the team. He alighted on his head, and a doctor had to be called in to dress the wound. Some of the picnicers at Charleston Lake on the 24th were so anxious to get back to town early in the evening, that they took the road by Pine Hill, and thus got home no sooner than those who were not so anxious about the proprietries. The Queen's Birthday was celebrated here as a general holiday. Two large picnics and several private parties took in Charleston Lake, and from all accounts the enjoyment was as complete as a beautiful day and beautiful surroundings could make it. An accident occurred on one of our back streets last week. John Hudson, of Charleston, was driving along the street, when a little child of John Hollister ran out, and before Hudson could hold up his horses, the child was struck and three of her teeth knocked out. The returned collegian who blows his tin whistle with unwavering perseverance and never falling wind lines in danger of a dire calamity, was stopped, if he must have a plaything, let a public subscription be taken up wherewith a less noisy toy may be purchased. Many of our readers will remember a one armed man named Robt. J. Johnson, who used to visit this village occasionally. The Smith's Falls Record says that a short time ago Johnson went to the house of D. Donovan, near the toll gate, on the Brockville road. After eating some dinner he complained of a pain in his breast, and while attempting to walk across the floor he fell dead. In concluding an article on the centennial, Richard Holmes of the Kingston Whig says:—"The portrait at the head of this article, as well as the facts, came from Mr. B. Lovrin, of the Farmersville Reporter, a journalist of enterprise and ability, who is making his mark in the profession, even though the possibilities of a village paper are so small." It would be an excellent idea if in front of each of our churches were two thousand-candle power lamps in order that the young men who hang to the sidewalk, forming a gauntlet for ladies to run, might be enabled to move to a respectable distance from the doors, and at the same time save strain upon the eyes in looking up at their best girls. As a tribute to the skill of Dr. Cornell & Cornell, we might mention the case of Mrs. Case Brown's little child. It was very sick with bronchitis, and medical aid obtained at Donville, where its parents now reside, proved unavailing. With full faith in Dr. Cornell's skill, the mother brought the child here, and the result abundantly justified her confidence, for the suffering little one was speedily cured. A few evenings ago, while passing up Main Street, we noticed an unusual commotion in front of Thompson's grocery, caused by the arrival of another large consignment of Kingfish. Mr. Thompson was then engaged in piling up inside the store. On enquiry we found that he had sold over 3,000 lbs. of tea since the 1st of January last, his special line being a 40c tea which he retails for 25c. Attention is directed to the advertisement of the Brockville Greenhouse in another column. The greenhouses, which are situated on the corner of Main and Bethune streets, have long been noted for the fine quality of the plants and flowers grown there. This season the display of plants and flowers is of the finest description, and the garden plants are now ready for transplanting. Give Mr. C. Sibbald a call when wanting anything in the line of plants or flowers. A public dinner and entertainment will be held in connection with Christ Church, on the 28th of next month. The Rev. Messrs. Winton (Kingston), Worrall (Morrising) and Shaw (South Mountain), will be among the speakers of the day. Posters announcing particulars will be issued from this office in a few days. The committee are making every effort to ensure an interesting and successful celebration. The proceeds will go towards the church debt. The sidewalk etiquette of Farmersville is somewhat peculiar, and it cannot be expected that every duffer can become familiar with it in a few days. At least one young gentleman did not drop into the prevailing custom during his short stay here, and the other evening was brought up short by a young lady with whom he nearly collided, with the angry exclamation "Get out of my way, you idiot!" It was no wonder that he almost jumped into the street, in his eagerness to give the lady her coveted inside track. An exchange says:—"The time has surely arrived when 'pathmasters' and courtesy should be paid some attention to the formation of paths at one side of all the leading roads; for the accommodation of the public who walk. If there is one thing that gives the country roads a civilized look, it is certainly the one thing needful. To many farmers who never walk the road, it is an unnecessary luxury. But children have to walk to school, and sometimes farmers' wives have to walk short distances. The muddy or dusty road is no place for foot passengers, and the waste places between the roadside and the fence could easily be so fixed as to afford comfortable and easy walking." The ringing of the church bells for our principal national holidays, has become an intolerable nuisance. Peace loving citizens were aroused from their slumbers about 1 a.m. on the Queen's Birthday, and from that time until seven o'clock the maddening noise was kept up. A moderate amount of bell ringing would not be objected to, but this night racket is an abomination. The church authorities, having a laudable desire to humiliate the bells, have limited their access to the bells on the holiday occasions, but if the youngsters persist in abusing the privilege, we suggest that another time the keys be withheld.

The Ballycannon picnic, under the auspices of St. Charles, C. O. G. T., has become one of the most popular fixtures of the county of Leeds. The picnic has, year after year, been patronized by immense crowds, whose maddening and dusty road is no place for foot passengers, and the waste places between the roadside and the fence could easily be so fixed as to afford comfortable and easy walking. The ringing of the church bells for our principal national holidays, has become an intolerable nuisance. Peace loving citizens were aroused from their slumbers about 1 a.m. on the Queen's Birthday, and from that time until seven o'clock the maddening noise was kept up. As just as the shades of evening were falling on a fine and pleasant day, a horse belonging to Silas Hamlin, attached to a milk wagon, shied at some object in front of Williams' Carriage Shop and made a lunge for Dr. Cornell's office, but found its progress barred by a hanging post of the fence. Uncle Smith Wiltsos was on the rear end of the wagon, holding a five gallon can of molasses. When the horse made the spring Smith tightened his grip on the handle of the can, and both landed right side up in the middle of the road. When our devil arrived on the scene he found the horse had come up under one of the shafts of the vehicle, and as the harness was good and new it held together, and he laid the horse to the carriage. Willing hands soon got everything fixed up, and the only serious damage was that two lengths of the doctor's fence were somewhat demoralized, but were soon put to rights by the editor in chief.

Mr. Duff, who has filled Mr. Cornell's place in the high school during that gentleman's attendance at the Toronto University, leaves for the west to-day. Yesterday afternoon the pupils of the school, with whom he was very popular, presented him with the following farewell address:—"To Mr. Duff:—Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Farmersville High School, we desire to convey to you, through this very brief and imperfect medium, an expression of our appreciation of the many kind services you have rendered during your short sojourn in our midst. It is a privilege to have known you, and we regret that we cannot express our appreciation in any other way. Your talents speak for themselves, and your departure will be sorely missed. We will remember you with affection and pride, and we trust that you will continue to prosper and be happy in all your future undertakings. We are, Sir, your obedient servants, the pupils of the Farmersville High School."

Decorative Day. The years that have elapsed since the close of the civil war in the neighboring republic, have served to obliterate all sectional feeling, and the united and prosperous nation joins in keeping green the graves of all its beloved dead. It is in this spirit that the publisher of the New York Family Story Paper has had written a thrilling and pathetic romance, peculiarly appropriate for Decoration Day, entitled 'Faithful Lovers; or, His Grave kept Green.' In the same paper will also be found a weekly installment of the 'Life and Adventures of a Showman of P. T. Barnum,' written by himself, and equally interesting to young folks as well as heads of families. These are rare literary treats, and those of our readers who are not already enjoying them will do well to obtain No. 766 of the New York Family Story Paper of their news dealer, or send direct to the publisher, Munro's Publishing House, 74 and 76 Valderwater St., New York, and receive the paper four months for one dollar, postage free.
