

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 10, 1904.

The street authorities have recently completed a piece of work on the east end of Main street, from the foot of Church Hill, west which from present appearance should prove a very satisfactory job. A large quantity of stone from the quarry has been used, evenly graded and rolled, giving a smooth and hard road, and one which should wear well. Work of this kind done by the committee last year on Front street produced a good road, and the continuance of similar street-construction will no doubt be productive of great improvement.

We are glad to see a considerable improvement in the appearance of Main street during the past week or so. The council has arranged to have a man go over the street every day and clear off waste paper and other rubbish. As a result of this work the street presents a clean and tidy appearance, which must be very pleasing to every citizen. We trust that this work may be continued and thoroughly done, and that merchants and others will assist by looking carefully after sweepings, which in the past have been frequently thrown into back yards and alleys, to be blown upon the street by the first gust of wind.

At a meeting of the School Board on Monday evening the matter of home study of the lessons was taken up and discussed at some length. It is proposed that in the near future the study of the lessons by the pupils up to and including the fifth grade be confined to the school-room, and that no books be allowed to be taken to the home. This method, while not in operation so far as we know in this province, is not by any means an experiment. In Massachusetts, where prevalent perhaps the best system of public schools in the world, this mode of study has been followed with good results. It is held that not only are the parents relieved of much work, but that property belongs to the teacher, and all pupils have the same opportunity for advancement, but that the following of this method conduces very much to the health and well-being of the children. We freely open our columns for the discussion of this matter by parents and others interested in the progress of our schools.

THE ACADIAN is glad to learn that another effort is about to be made to improve the condition of Willow Bank Cemetery. A special meeting of the lot owners is called for Monday afternoon of next week, to consider the advisability of assessing the lots to raise the necessary funds. We understand that several of the citizens have already agreed to subscribe generous yearly donations to a fund for the purpose. The condition of our cemetery is not at all creditable to Wolfville, and we trust that something may be done to improve it to such an extent that citizens may be able to look with pride upon their "city of the dead." As we have repeatedly pointed out, with a reasonable amount of money and care expended upon it Willow Bank would be one of the prettiest cemeteries in Nova Scotia. We hope that lot owners and citizens generally will do all in their power to assist the good work.

World Wide.
Mrs Samuel M. Clemens, wife of Mark Twain, died in Italy Tuesday evening.

The race for the Derby stakes of 6,500 sovereigns was won by Mr Leopold Rothschild's horse, St. Amant.

Parliamentary business was suspended one day last week because the members left to see a circus parade that was in town.

A touring automobile, containing a party from Rhode Island, had a narrow escape at Roundy Creek, N. B., a few days ago. The machine had just crossed the creek, en route from St. John to Moncton when the bridge it had passed on broke through. A minute sooner and probably a fatal accident would have resulted.

The silent monotony of a desert sometimes has the effect of making human beings insane. The utter soundness becomes awful for persons used to the busy hum of cities, and the symptoms come on without warning. Unless the person suffering is taken in charge he is pretty sure to die of death to some member of the party.

Two of England's ancient castles will pass under the hammer this spring. One is Kingwear Castle, in South Devon, built in the time of King John. The other, Hamwell Castle, Oxfordshire, under whose roof King James I was sometimes guest, was the home of Sir Anthony Cope, the Puritan leader.

A great military walking match was held in St Germain, France, on May 31. Two thousand soldiers participated and the spectators numbered many thousands. The race was won by a private who did the distance of about twenty-eight miles in six hours, forty minutes and two seconds. The competition was attended with fatal results, one man dying and several others being in dangerous conditions.

A New Yorker sends a letter to a friend, concerning American abolitionism, with the following: "With all their talk and how their flagging and hollow their business, these people of the United States are only half civilized; they talk like savages, eat like savages, drink like savages, and in every other way live and die like savages. They have their good points."

College Sports at St. John.

Dyspepsia Cured.
A SUFFERER TELLS HOW HE OVERCAME THE TROUBLE.
"Not only do I not hesitate to declare the benefit I have received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I feel it my duty to do so. These are the words which Mr Edward Lavoie, of St. Jerome, Que., lately addressed to the editor of L'Avenir du Nord, when relating the story of his cure. Mr Lavoie is well known in St. Jerome, and what he says carries weight among those who know him.

For a considerable time he was a great sufferer from dyspepsia, which caused severe headaches, pains in the stomach and sometimes nausea. Sometimes he felt as though he would suffocate, he would become dizzy, and experienced ringing noises in the ears. His appetite became poor, and his general health so bad that he found it almost impossible to work, and when the headaches attacked him he had to quit work. For six months, he says, he suffered both physically and mentally more than can be imagined. During this time he took medicine from several doctors, but found no help. Then one day he read of a cure of a similar case through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. He used the pills for a couple of months, and they have made him feel like a new person. He is no longer troubled with any of the old symptoms, and says he can now go about his work as though he never had dyspepsia.

The digestive organs—like all the other organs of the body—get their strength and nourishment from the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. This new blood strengthens the stomach, stimulates the liver, regulates the bowels and sets the whole digestive system in a healthy, vigorous state. Good blood is the true secret of good health. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always bring good health to those who use them. You can get these pills from your medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Wolville's Subscription to the Second Forward Movement.
DEAR MR. EDITOR: I beg to report through your columns to the many friends of the College and the affiliated institutions that the pledge list from Wolville subscribers has reached the sum of $5,362.50. Of this amount six persons have subscribed $3,500. Two others have subscribed $200 each. Eight persons have subscribed $100 each. Thirty-two others have subscribed in smaller sums $662.50. The total number of subscribers in town so far is forty-eight. Others have intimated their purpose to subscribe later. Doubtless others still have the matter in mind, and will shortly be heard from. When speaking to the Baptist congregation on the subject I expressed the expectation that Wolville would pledge six or seven thousand dollars. With the present list in hand it looks entirely reasonable to expect the final amount to reach $7,000.

Very grateful for the generous response already made, and bespeaking the consideration of those who have not yet pledged, I am,
Yours very truly,
THOS. POTTER

Bad Runaway.

A runaway attended by serious and what might have been fatal consequences occurred in town on Wednesday afternoon. Mr Harry Etter, of Greenfield, was in the store of Illsey & Harvey and his carriage, in charge of Mrs Etter, was standing at the door. In some way the horse succeeded in getting the bridle off and started to run. Mr Etter heard the noise, and running out caught the horse by the neck and told his wife to jump out of the carriage, which she did escaping injury. Mr Etter then tried to stop the horse, which ran up Main street, but was unable to do so, and when in front of Regan's harness shop was thrown down, the horse and carriage passing over him. He was picked up in an unconscious state and carried into Mr Regan's shop. Dr. Bowles was called and found the man badly cut about the head and face, but fortunately with no bones broken and apparently not seriously injured. A number of stitches were put in and the injured man made as comfortable as possible, and in the evening he was taken home by Mr Frank Gertridge of Gaspereau, who provided a suitable team for the purpose. The horse after running up Main street, turned off on Linden avenue, and was finally stopped at the stable of Mr Selfridge.

Hood—Best.
A pleasing event occurred at the summer home of Dr. O. F. Best, Silver Spring, Providence, R. I., May 29, at 5 p. m., when his sister, Bertha Blanche Best, formerly of Grafton, N. S., was united in marriage to Richard Sanderson Hood, of Waltham, Mass. The rooms were beautifully decorated with palms and red and white carnations.

The bride, attired in a handsome going-away gown of fawn and brown silk, and carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses, entered on the arm of her brother, Dr. Best, by whom she was given away. She was attended by her sister, Mrs John Jenkins, of Collingville, Conn., as matron of honor, and her little niece Gladys Payson Best. The groom, in regulation afternoon dress, was attended by Mr Jenkins. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Woodsey. After partaking of a luncheon the happy couple took the evening train for New York, en route for St. Louis, amid the congratulations and good wishes of a large number of invited guests and friends.

The presents were numerous and valuable, including several handsome pieces of cut glass, silver, and china, also a handsome brass bed, and music cabinet from Dr. Best and Dr. H. H. Best.

Upon their return they will reside at 224 Robbins street, Waltham, Mass.

Supreme Court.

The June sitting of the Supreme Court opened at Kentville on Tuesday, Judge Townshend presiding. In his remarks to the grand jury Judge Townshend congratulated the county upon the completion of the new court house, where everything was convenient for the conducting of the business to be brought before them.

Addressing the grand jurors he referred to the criminal cases that would be brought before them, one of them being of a terrible character, where evidently a woman had been murdered. He then referred to two charges of perjury and one of assault. Subsequently the grand jurors reported a trap bill against James Robinson for perjury (he is a brother of William S. Robinson, charged with wife murder.) He was found guilty and sentenced to a short term in the county jail.

The grand jurors also presented a true bill against William S. Robinson for assault. At the afternoon sitting the justice addressed the grand jury in regard to the murder case, pointing out the enormity of the crime and the terrible nature of the dispositions taken before Mr. Justice Rockwell and the statements therein contained of the various witnesses and also spoke of the story as told by the prisoner.

He complimented the magistrate, the crown prosecutor and the coroner for the thoroughness with which they had performed their duties and the manner in which the preliminary examination had been conducted. After examining some of the witnesses a true bill was reported against William S. Robinson for the murder of his wife. A special sitting of the court will be held on the 19th of July for the trial of the prisoner.

The assault case was not tried at this sitting, pending the result of the trial of the prisoner, now charged with the great crime.

The present sitting closed with one day's work, as no civil cases were entered for trial.

Laid to Rest.
Mr and Mrs William Chipman returned to Wolfville on Saturday morning last, with the remains of their little son Jack, whose death occurred at Pasadena, California, on May 12th. They have the deep sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

The funeral took place from their residence on Prospect street on Sunday afternoon last, and the service held at the house was of a very touching and appropriate character. A large number of friends assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to the bright lad, who by his many lovable qualities had endeared himself to all who had made his acquaintance and who now at the early age of twelve after a heroic struggle with an insidious disease had, in the far away lands that are bathed by the Pacific, yielded up his young life.

His brother, Walter Chipman, M.D., is travelling in Germany, and unable to be present at a distance were unable to see him after the return from the west. The casket was covered with beautiful floral offerings, expressive of the love and affection cherished for him by his numerous friends.

The Rev. L. D. Morse, pastor of the Baptist church, read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer. Favorite hymns of the deceased, "Jesus take me in" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul," were sung by young friends from the Sabbath School clad in white—a very touching scene.

President Trotter, of Acadia College, and a former pastor of the Wolfville church, gave the first address. He remarked that the company had met under circumstances of peculiar sadness. But no one, who had known the dear lad that had passed away, or the family which was in sorrow, and had followed the circumstances into a picture for him; the picture was vivid before the mind of each one, and was full of pathos and appeal. It would not be kind to dwell upon those painful circumstances, it would be better to look for the light if light there was, and to seek for grounds of comfort and hope.

To sight there was nothing but a bright and disheartening light; but the Christian walks by faith not by sight, and the eye of faith a world of gracious reality becomes visible. However painful the circumstances of human experience, if faith can see in all the working of eternal love the expression of the Father's will, the soul will be greatly stayed and comforted. One is tempted to divorce God from the catastrophes of life, but that is to plunge into the forest and be lost in the darkness. God is in the blast of winter as truly as in the life-giving breath of the spring.

The tragedy of Calvary was by the 'determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God' as truly as the rapturous birth of Bethlehem. The rest by faith which grasps the eternal love as over all, and through all, was illustrated by reference to two pictures in the Pitti Palace at Florence, and the beautiful hymn was quoted beginning, "Peace, perfect peace."

Dr Trotter pointed out that there was also ground for thankfulness and joy in that the sweet young life which had passed away had been given, and continued for twelve years. He knew that those years seemed oh! so short, and yet what a wealth of riches they had brought. What a loving, quiet, radiant presence it had been, feeding, life, deepening joy, broadening life, and giving richness and significance to every hour of the day. It is true that "Sorrow's crown of sorrow is yet remembering happier things," and yet the memory of such happy things must ever be a precious grateful memory.

And then, faith sees the life not ended, but translated and continued on and on and perfect conditions. "He that liveth and believeth in me shall never die." There is no death, what seems so is transition. This is the transcendent word of Christianity, and is charged with mighty comfort. And last of all there is the confident assurance of reunion in the Father's home above.

Dr Trotter closed with a reference to a beautiful poem by Archbishop Trevelyan entitled "In a Churchyard" illustrating how radiantly faith can walk among the graves of the dead:

Oh on the glory earth pass on,
The child's uncheered delight,
Both witness to a triumph now—
(If we but read aright.)
A triumph won o'er sin and death.

From this the Saviour saves.

And, like a happy infant, "Papa Can play among the graves."

He expressed the deep sympathy of the friends present for those who were in sorrow, and their hope that faith might do her gracious work and fill them with comfort and strength.

After singing, the Rev. Prof. Keirstead at the request of the pastor gave a very helpful address. He said that the sympathy of all present, as well as of their many friends elsewhere, will be given without measure to Mr and Mrs Chipman in this time of their deep sorrow. Some of us who have known them well for many years will especially enter into their feelings. Events like this one that brings us together today bind us most closely in a fellowship of sorrow.

When we lay the bodies of our parents in the tomb it seems as if we who are sharers of their lives are drawn into the grave with them. And when our children pass within the veil it seems almost as if we attended them in their journey and were already risen into the life that is yet unseen. We can rejoice that since Jesus rose the tomb can never be closed; but He broke the seal and forever, True, we cover the body with a few handfuls of earth; but this covering is only like a screen door we make for our house, that may secure privacy for the one sleeping within but through which one can pass when the brief rest taken in sleep is over. Jesus has left the graves where their bodies rest wide open, and He has opened the gates of heaven into which they have passed wide open also.

This great truth joins us all to-day, not only in a fellowship of sorrow, but in a fellowship of faith and hope. "For if Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." So our friends and we do not suffer as others who have no hope.

It is given to our friends to cherish these hopes and to confidently rejoice while they mourn; for their beloved who gave evidence through many months that he was taught of God.

Phillips Brooks, if I mistake not, says that however early you speak to your child about God you find God has already spoken to him. I am told that the dear boy who has found his way into many of our hearts had found his way also into the heart of his Lord, as was shown by his words and prayers and the spirit of his life and conduct. He was an illustration of Wordsworth's view that "we come from God who is our home," that "heaven lies about us in our infancy."

"Thou, whose exterior semblance doth belie Thy soul's immensity;
Thou best philosopher, who yet dost keep Thy heritage;
Thou eye amidst the blind,
Thou deaf amidst the deaf,
Thou silent amidst the noisy,
Thou mad amidst the sane,
Thou mad amidst the sane;
Thou little child, yet glorious in the might Of heaven-born freedom on thy being's height,
While here, its darting of the house-hold was surely 'Christ', now he is, we believe 'with Christ'."

And may not the passing to the other shore of this bright boy start in us all again the "truths that wake, to perish never?" May not "Your souls have sight of that immortal sea Which brought us hither,
And see the children sport upon the shore,
And hear the mighty waters rolling evermore?"

At the grave as our dear young friend was laid to rest pastor Morse offered prayer. In reference to the refreshing showers which were then descending he said: "As the rain cometh down from heaven and returneth not thither but watereth the earth, causing it to bring forth and bud, so may the lessons of this day remain in our memories and hearts a continual incentive to right thinking and living."

Nothing Like Experience.
"One truth learned by actual experience does more good than ten experiences one hears about." Tell a man that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will cure cholera morbus, and he will most likely forget it before the end of the day. Let him have a severe attack of that disease, feel that he is about to die, use this remedy, and learn from his own experience how quickly it gives relief, and he will remember it all his life.
