

M. WILKINS

Prominent in the legal profession of Arthur is Mr. M. Wilkins, who came to this town in 1886. He received his education in Orangeville. He has the most extensive business of any lawyer in the town. He takes a deep interest in education, being a member of the High School Board.

J. D. CALLAGHAN

There is no better known citizen of the town of Arthur than Mr. J. D. Callaghan. Mr. Callaghan, we need hardly state, has taken the lead in the building line of this flourishing town for the last quarter of a century. There are few houses where Mr. Callaghan's handiwork is not manifest. And wherever his hand is seen we see also comfort and stability. It is hardly necessary to state that Mr. Callaghan has been in Arthur for twenty years. We have not very far to look for the reason of his success. We

H. J. OLARK

The leading and representative jeweler of Arthur is H. J. Olark, who came to Arthur about eight months ago from Tweed, where he was engaged in a similar business. He carries a choice stock of gold and silver watches, plated and solid gold jewellery, plated and solid silver tableware, also diamonds and most beautiful and bewildering mazes of things pretty and useful, in crystallized show cases, and hanging upon the walls.

R. MARTIN

As old as Arthur itself is the hardware business conducted by R. Martin. A nephew of a pioneer, Mr. Martin has joined his interests with this municipality's business circles and has climbed steadily up the ladder of success. He carries in stock a full line of hardware and his store is brightly and systematically arranged. The stock embraces everything kept in a first class hardware store and the facilities enjoyed by Mr. Martin enable him to sell as cheap, if not cheaper, than the establishments of the large cities. Mr. Martin is a thoroughly hustling business man, shrewd, keen, systematic and thoroughly upright and honest. He has built up a very prosperous trade and one that yearly is extending. No one in Arthur deserves a greater measure of success than he, and none enjoys to a larger extent the esteem and goodwill of his fellow-citizens. He has been Secretary of the Public School Board for ten years and is President of the Arthur Liberal-Conservative Association. In each of these organizations his fine executive ability and general, manly disposition, have made him a conspicuous figure. As one of Arthur's leading citizens Mr. Martin well deserves an honorable mention in any work that aims at giving a business resume of this village.

CLIFFORD WOOLLEN MILLS

There is probably no branch of industry that is of more importance to a community than a woolen mill, both from an industrial and commercial point of view. As being the only mill in Clifford engaged in the manufacture of woolen goods, the establishment of Mr. Jas. Scott, will not escape proper mention in this work. The business was established by Mr. Scott in 1883, who had a wide experience in the business and it has increased with a steady and prosperous development. The work turned out of this establishment has acquired a reputation for first class quality. The premises occupied include a main building 30x50 ft. in dimensions and three stories in height, containing machinery and appliances of the best modern description. In the rear, 24x24 feet in dimensions, are the engine house, dye house and fulling room. The premises are furnished with steam power, and the weaving is done by the skilled mechanics of the town. Mr. Scott does almost everything in the manufacture of wool, including tweeds, flannels, custom carding, spinning and knitting, special attention being given to dyeing in all shades for the display of the roads, while the rear is used as a storehouse for wool. The building is a strictly first class character, enabling him to offer special advantages to customers, and to execute all orders in the promptest and most satisfactory manner. He does the very best class of work, and his goods are unexcelled for durability and finish. He sustains an excellent reputation for honorable dealing, and is well known as a liberal and conscientious business man. Through his own efforts he has achieved success, and he well merits the esteem and respect in which he is held. We might add that the highest cash price is paid for wool the year round.

THOS. SMITH

The business of this house was inaugurated 16 years ago in this place by Mr. Thomas Smith, who had run a sun bar store and was practicing in the law for years previous. It is now one of the most popular and best known dry goods and clothing establishments in Clifford, and is well occupied by the store of its frame two stories in height, and is large, well arranged and admirably adapted to the business. No house in the town offers greater inducements to the purchaser than this. Its popularity is due to the liberal policy and prompt business habits of the proprietor, and to the fact that in all cases the visiting establishment is treated by him as well as the general excellence of his stock, and the complete assortment that is at all times displayed, consisting of a full line of dry goods, groceries, millinery, boots and shoes, hats and caps, millinery, etc. The millinery department is a roomy and good business, and is operated by Mrs. Smith, who has taken it as the natural result of well directed effort.

MANSION HOUSE

The Mansion House, situated on the main corner in the town of Clifford, offers to its patrons the finest of comfortable quarters, which can but commend it to the attention of the traveling public. The house was built 18 years ago by Mr. John Macdonald, and passed into the hands of the present proprietor in 1880. It is a large white brick, and has a frontage of 100 feet each on the main and side streets, and is one of the most excellent accommodations in the town. On the ground floor are the office, dining room and kitchen arrangements, and a fine bar well stocked with the best wines, liquors and cigars. On the second and third floors are the parlor and sleeping rooms, of which there are 31, for the accommodation of guests, and are well furnished and have an air of comfort about them that is pleasing to the weary traveler. Mr. Merrier gets the lion's share of the commercial trade, and has two large, well lighted, sample rooms, fitted up for this class of patrons. The dining room is capable of seating 60 guests at a time, and the tables are always supplied with the best of the season. The house is supplied with all the most modern conveniences, is heated with hot air, and has a general air of comfort and homelike feeling. In the rear are large and commodious, being 75x60 feet in dimensions. Since Mr. Merrier has assumed the management, the trade of the house has grown considerably, and it is now one of the best known and widely patronized houses in Western Ontario, and is attracting a large trade, and is being deservedly rewarded with a gratifying success.

J. HILLHOUSE & CO.

The only merchant tailoring establishment in Clifford is that of Mr. J. Hillhouse & Co., and is thus worthy of special mention in this work. Mr. Hillhouse has built up a very prosperous trade and one that yearly is extending. No one in Arthur deserves a greater measure of success than he, and none enjoys to a larger extent the esteem and goodwill of his fellow-citizens. He has been Secretary of the Public School Board for ten years and is President of the Arthur Liberal-Conservative Association. cription required in any branch. Mechanic tools can be obtained here at the lowest rates and guaranteed excellence of temper and edge. The firm also deals largely in paints, oils, glass and sporting goods, and has a stock to select from that is seldom to be found in country towns. The firm makes a specialty of heating, erecting and putting up machinery, and also all kinds of mechanical work on new buildings. Orders are executed in the promptest and most satisfactory manner. The firm also manufactures largely all kinds of sheet iron, copper and tinware, and has a large stock of hardware, and is kept constantly employed. Mr. Hillhouse has been manager of the banking office of J. W. Scott in Clifford for the past twelve years and enjoys the reputation of being successful in this line also, not having lost a dollar for the last five years, and in all that time. The firm always takes a deep interest and give calculated to advance the welfare and prosperity of the village and surrounding country. Personally, standing deservedly high in both social and commercial circles, while their educational ranks as a leader in his line.

W. H. SCOTT

Among the tailoring establishments of Clifford, is that of W. H. Scott, located in the Bascom Block on the corner of the main street. Mr. Scott is a practical man of wide experience, and has been engaged in business here for a large and ever growing business. His general manners and high accomplishments, and his prompt and careful attention to all business entrusted to his hands, and to the wants of the people, has won him a steady and large circle of acquaintances and patrons, and greatly enlarged his business. The present shop and work room embrace two stories, 24x35 feet in dimensions, and are large and commodious, while the establishment is in a very central and well adapted to the business. Five skilled hands are employed and customers can rely on having their suits made in the latest and most fashionable styles. Mr. Scott, being a practical cutter himself, is able to understand every detail of the business, but to give perfect satisfaction. He occupies an excellent position, and the complete assortment that is at all times displayed, consisting of a full line of dry goods, groceries, millinery, boots and shoes, hats and caps, millinery, etc. The millinery department is a roomy and good business, and is operated by Mrs. Scott, who has taken it as the natural result of well directed effort.

Rockwood

Rockwood justly claims distinction for its natural beauty. Situated around by an irregular succession of rugged hills, through which the River Speed threads its way in quiet majesty, with its "The Devil's Well," "The Needle" and other romantic bits of scenery at its very threshold Rockwood has reason to prance itself on the lavishness with which nature here scattered her picturesque treasures. Rockwood is old, not as old as the hills around it, but older than Guelph, if the first invasion of the white man be taken as the birth of settlement. Somewhere about the year 1823, John Harris settled near the site of the present village. He was a bachelor and after living there a few years he moved away and returned with his mother and two sisters in 1829. In 1830 the Misses Harris opened a school in Ermosa. Rockwood is situated on the main line of the Guelph and Toronto, and is a large and commodious village. It has extensive water power and a very material extent of its manufacturing industries. There are four churches and two hotels, a Mechanic Institute and a Public Library, in which the citizens take an active interest. Rockwood people are thoroughly enterprising and progressive. The cultivation of the soil is a happy little community.

J. W. KNOWLES

One line of business that no regulated village can dispense with is a first-class hatter. The gentleman whose name appears at the head of this article is one who is well known throughout the surrounding districts. His 34 years in business as a manufacturer and repairer of hats, and the very excellent quality of the work turned out has gained a record that many men in his calling would feel proud of. His store is centrally situated in the pretty little village of Rockwood, in a large and handsome brick building, the property of Mr. Knowles. The stock he carries is large and varied, including light and heavy harness, blankets, robes, hats, and a full line of house furnishing goods. Mr. Knowles is very ready to identify himself with any project that had for its ultimate benefit the Rockwood. A progressive, broad-minded business man and stands deservedly high.

HARRIS & CO.

An enterprise that has done more than all others to advertise the picturesque little village of Rockwood is the woolen mills conducted by Harris & Co. In common with all the other branches of trade the woolen industry of the country is buoyant or depressed in harmony with the condition of the commercial world at the time. Yet it may be said, and truthfully, that through the warp and woof to use an appropriate simile—of good times and bad the Rockwood woolen mills has pursued the even tenor of its way. The business was founded in 1828 by John R. Thomas and Joseph Harris. It immediately demonstrated the room and desirability for its existence. Trade, small, 'tis true, at first, grew gradually year by year and in 1887 new and more modern premises were erected and fitted with the latest machinery that could be procured. Since then the mills have been running steadily, catering to a large trade and gaining many customers from far away places. Very complete facilities are here to be found for the manufacture of tweeds, winceys, flannels, blankets, sheetings,

Conspicuous as a leading tailor in Rockwood is Mr. J. Innes, at whose store may be found a most complete line of selected wools and woolens, both of European and domestic manufacture, made up in the most artistic manner. Mr. Innes is a man of more than ordinary ability and skill, so that every garment leaving his store in fit, finish and workmanship is perfect, while at all times the prices are as reasonable as good goods and artistic workmanship will allow. Mr. Innes has been in this business for nine years, and has ever held the even tenor of his way, winning an excellent reputation as a broad-minded business man and a merchant thoroughly understanding the requirements of the public.

S. GRIEVE

A well conducted bakery where all the breadstuffs are manufactured in suitable form, is always a place of interest. Prominent in Rockwood is the store of S. Grieve, who has been in business here for two years. He is a practical and experienced baker and manufacturer of the most wholesome ingredients in the market form. Here you may find the lightest and nicest of bread, cake, pies, biscuits and confectionery. He is a thoroughly experienced baker and has earned the highest encomiums for his enterprising methods, while the superiority of his goods has gained for his store the prominence it so well deserves. He is liberally patronized by the community. His trade is constantly increasing, thus his future success is assured. In fact, already he finds his present room insufficient and intends to build a more commodious store and bake room that he may accommodate his growing trade.
