Editor and Manager,

TO OUR READERS

The Advocate comes to its readers this week, the first time since our fire on October 28th last, the product of our own office, and has been produced under difficulties, but we trust soon to be able to publish a paper of which our readers will be proud. Our newspaper press, which we thought had been only damaged by water at the fire and which we had hoped to use collapsed yesterday when some of the most important parts, which had evidently lost their temper with the heat of the fire, broke off like toothpicks, and now we find that we will have to install a new newspaper press. In our Job Department practically everything has been renewed with the latest and most improved materials, and we now have one of the most complete job printing departments east of Montreal. Our new equipment includes new type, steel run dust proof type cabinets, and type cases, two 1918 Model, Gilding Job presses, and a complete line of new printing papers. In this department we can guarantee quick delivery, and superior workmanship. Our newspaper department will be in good running order in the next few weeks, and we trust will be as well equipped as our Job Printing Department. To our friends who have stood by us in our trying times of the past few months, we desire to express our heartfelt thanks.

NORTH'D COUNTY COUNCIL DOES NOT LIKE NEW HEALTH ACT

now exist under a proper health act would not exist.
Coun. Watling asked that if the Board were appointed would there be other appointments under them. There are men needed in every parish to look after health matters. There had been no "flu" in Black River, and would never have been any if there were proper precautions taken, but the school had been opened when there were numerous cases there. He wanted men appointed so that when a house was placed under quarantine to see that the quarantine was kept. Three men cannot give the County justice.

Coun. Baldwin did not think the Government should load the responsibility on the County. The Government has the whip hand in the matter and personally he would not vote for the measure.
Coun. Williams thought the motion was a little drastic. He would like more information on the matter regarding the working of the act, and thought Dr. Desmond, who was present would explain it.

Dr. Desmond in reply to Coun. Watling said that the County would be divided into Health Districts, as near the parish lines as possible, and each district would have an inspector whose duty it would be to quarantine, keep quarantine and properly fumigate after the disease.
Dr. Desmond continuing said that one of the greatest advantages of the new Health Act, was Medical Inspection in Public Schools. At the present time out of every twelve children attending school eight were diseased in some manner, and handicapped in the race for education. Under the Health Act, doctors would be selected to look after a number of schools. They would be paid a salary to be fixed by the Board, and also provide free vaccination. Compulsory vaccination in schools would also be insisted upon. Another feature of the new act was that serum for all diseases would be available at a few hours' notice, whereas now it takes days to get it, and all doctors would be provided with tubes, so that in cases of contagious diseases they could send to the laboratory at St. John, and find out all about the disease in question, whether it was dangerous or not. The three members appointed by the County and the two by the Government, would not be paid any salary, but they would only be given mileage for the services rendered.

Coun. O'Shaughnessy asked what the Health department proposed doing with children found diseased in the schools, to which Dr. Desmond replied that the doctor making the inspection notifies the parent of such pupil that such disease exists, and the parent must have the disease remedied and the pupil present a certificate that it was cured before being allowed to go to school and mingle with other children. He tuberculosis everyone would oppose a child with that disease in school, but with proper treatment in its first stages it could be cured.
To Coun. Williams Dr. Desmond said that the salary of the secretary, and fifteen sanitary inspectors was fixed by the Board.
To Coun. Powers he said that medical inspection of schools would be made twice a year, once shortly after the term started and again at Christmas.
Dr. Desmond said that a rough estimate of the cost of the new act was about one dollar for every family of five.

Coun. Anderson was glad that they were looking into the matter of costs. They were custodians of the County's finances, and were now $12,000 behind and the finances were a serious question, and before we put any more assessment we should look into the matter. The County was worse off financially now than for the last thirty years.
Coun. T. Parker contended that it would not be necessary to appoint another medical man, as Dr. Desmond was ex-officio a member.
Coun. Vanderbeck said that with the appointment of another doctor and two members by the Government was only a scheme to get control of the Board. He had not seen the bills incurred by the Board of Health since July, but noticed one for $400 had passed without being certified to. This had been contracted by order of the local Government and should be paid by them. The Government might just as well appoint the five men and run the Board as they would run it anyway.
Coun. McKnight said that the money question was important, but the question of health was more so. Medical inspection of schools was most important to everybody. Dr. Desmond and Dr. Roberts had both said that was where disease started. Diseases had been hid in the past that would be found out in school inspection. Money questions were very important but not nearly so important as health of children going to school. He knew the County was in debt, but was in favor of adopting the act. We should take an interest in it and see how it would work.
Coun. D. Doyle thought that the Council would make a mistake if it took no action. The Government would then contract bills and they would have to be paid, as had already been proven out in the county, and the County should have a say in the matter.

Coun. T. Parker asked what opponents of the new act proposed doing if they rejected the act. If they anything else to offer.

Coun. Lavioie—"Let the Government run it."

Coun. L. Doyle said that the question to decide was what was to be done. The principal items were safeguarding the public health and the ratepayers. If the Council took no action the Government had power. It might be better to let them try it. The Government appoint the principal officers on everything, so let them have all action.

Coun. O'Shaughnessy was in favor of Medical Inspection of Schools, but let the Government do it. Let the government run the Board of Health for one year and see how they make out. They would have all the say and the County lose. The County would have to pay the big end and the towns get off easy. What would the ratepayers say to the electors if they pay $5,000 or $10,000 more assessment on them. He knew they would be defeated.

Coun. Williams said Chatham paid about 29 per cent. of total assessment of County.

Coun. Watling said to give the Government no money and then they would not need to say how it was to be expended. Let the Government run it for a year.

The Warden said that if Council rejected the act they must have something to offer in its place. If the law does not go into force there would be nothing to protect the health of the County. He cited instances where the new act would have remedied matters.

Coun. Doyle said that the County had been running the Board of Health for years and the Government were not satisfied, so let them run it a year and see what they can do.

The Warden thought that the Council were taking a rather speedy action. Coun. McKnight moved that a committee of five be appointed to look into the matter of the Public Health Act and report back to the Council.

Coun. Watling said that the Council were taking too much time to discuss the matter, if it had to be discussed again the Council would be in session until Sunday.

On the amendment being put it was lost. Original motion that no action be taken was carried on the following vote: Yeas: Couns. Sinclair, Somers, O'Shaughnessy, Powers, O'Donnell, Mersereau, Vanderbeck, E. J. Parker, Hayes, Schofield, LeBlanc, Lavioie, Baldwin, Harriman, L. Doyle, Anderson, Fowle, McKnight, Watling, Nays: Couns. McKnight, Allard, D. Doyle, Gill, Tweedie, Williams, Thos. Parker.

On motion Council adjourned until one o'clock, for Committee work, and on resuming further adjourned until two o'clock for dinner.
