

FOOD ECONOMY

Every housewife knows the length of time it takes to prepare the most ordinary soup, the cost of fuel, ingredients, etc. But with a few vegetables, one or two Oxo Cubes, a little flour and water, a most excellent soup can be prepared in a few minutes at the cost only of a few cents.

So with entrées, savouries, sauces, invalid dishes, the Oxo Cube way is the quick, convenient, efficient way, and makes for economy every time.

Another point of great importance is the peculiar power of Oxo Cubes to increase the nutritive value of other dishes. For instance, Oxo and rice is much more nourishing than rice without Oxo. Hence when Oxo Cubes are used lighter meals can be indulged in

The War Week by Week.

The great events of the past summer have led us to look for a continuation as a matter of course, and the apparent ent uneventfulness that has lately marked the course of the war would give the impression that very little is going on. As a matter of fact, it is the other way, and it is precisely because so much is going on that so little occurs. On every point in Europe contending armies are flercely grappled, and so great is the effort put forth by either side that something approaching a deadlock results. Whether or not it will be broken before winter imposes a partial truce is a big question.

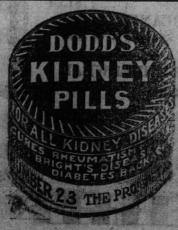

On the Somme our position has been slightly improved and some progress made. The British have drawn very close indeed to Bapaume, and we hear mention now of Warlencourt as the object of attack, a village not more close indeed to Bapaume, and we hear mention now of Warlencourt as the object of attack, a village not more than two miles distant. But this lies also in the way of a lateral advance by the British line, which is probably aimed at with the object of squeezing.

It is a little surprising that nothing by the British line, which is probably aimed at with the object of squeezing behind the Thiepval salient, rather than a frontal attack upon Bapaume. The operations under way by the French are more important for the moment. They have got as far as Sailly, on the Peronne-Bapaume road, and held it against heavy counterattacks. We may look any day for the assault upon Allaines and Mt. St. Quentin which will precede the attempt to take Peronne. South of the river our Allieg are beginning to draw the familiar pocket around a point almost as important as Peronne, the town of Chaulnes. If they can take it, they will command all the high ground between it and Peronne, and the railway line that runs parallel to the front and feeds it. Both sides are, in fact, being drained to it and wasted there, with the Allies far better able to stand the wastage.

Most comforting news comes from Roumania. Evidently Brussilon's faricular attacks and the Italian advance on the Carso plateau have had the desired effect. Mackinism has apparently fallen back in Dobrudja, though there is a strange silence about that region, while in several of the Translave again taken the offensive. REV. T. NANGLE, 23rd Division, B. E. F.,

We have been permitted to quote the following from one of his letters:

"On Sunday last I walked over to Achonville where the Newfoundlanders were buried after the 1st July drive. It is only about 7 miles from where my Division is stationed. I found two graveyards—7 of our boys lie in one, 28 in another, and still another mound in a separate plot near other mound in a separate plot near the larger graveyard. There is an other Newfoundland graveyard that lam looking for but have not found up to the present. . . . The grave yards are still under fire—the crosses are riddled with bullets, and there are shell holes even in the place itself. I have the names of all those who are buried in these graveyards. Several of them are marked thus:—just a peg stuck in the graving and "An University of the several of of them are marked thus:—just a peg stuck in the ground and "An Unknown Newfoundlander" written on it. An-other has: "Unidentified Sergeant Nfid. Regiment." Another: "4 Unknown Newfoundlanders." One grave has 14 bodies in it. Wilf. Ayre's and Billy Grant's are the only officers' graves I found. One plot has just "Reid" on it and the name of the Chapking who t and the name of the Chaplain who short time ago in Macedonia is still being pressed vigorously. The terse official news tells little of what is going on. The chief honors still rest with the Serbians, who are pushing nearer to Monastir with every victory. They have taken the arm of the articles of Councillor Morris now running through the columns of your morning contemporary the "Daily News." There is no doubt but he is very sincere in a good deal he says but I question very much if all his statements are correct.
