In the House of Commons last night, Premier Lloyd George said, the best British. hurt. They believed that Home Rule might be on the statute books, before Conscription is operative, and indeed the Government intended to secure that, if it could possibly be done. Amid Irish exclamations Mr. Barnes said, that if that could not be done, every man would have to reconsider his position. Sir Edward Carson, interrupting, asked if the Government meant that before the Irish were called to the colours, Home Rule would be passed. Mr. Barnes repeated that the Government would introduce the Bill. Mr. Devlin pressed Sir Edward Carson's case, but Mr. Barnes said he could add nothing. Timothy Healy Carson's case, but Mr. Barnes said he could add nothing. Timothy Healy then asked whether if the Lords failed to pass the Bill, the Government would resign. Mr. Barnes replied, he should certainly say they would. Premier Lloyd George here exclaimed, hear hear Mr. Barnes was subject—

Doubtless he would be asked to go over and make things smooth, but it would not be an easy job after Ulster had been promised by the Government and Parliament, that if they entered the Army, Home Rule would be suspended for the dur-

On Soldiers' Day, April 12th, the people of St. John's proclaimed the spirit of the country towards the War. On the evening of that day the city spoke in a way no one who was present will ever forget.

A new chapter is opened in the story of our Native Land. A new spirit is passing over its length and breadth.

Its is more than a Recruiting Campaign that has been begun. It is a Crusade calling through the voice of conscience to each one of you who is free to go.

You hear it and it will not be still. You will offer yourself. Whether accepted or rejected you will have peace of mind from the knowledge of duty done.

You can find it in ne other way.

THE SOLDIERS and THE REJECTED MEN. (Signed)
