MONDAY EVG. DEC. 14, 1874

Town and County News

Mr. A. D. CAMPBELL, formerly of Georgetown Academy, has started a similar institution in Owen Sound.

GRIP investigated at Day's and Anderson's. The Rylort Festival is the basis of the cartoon. A splendid number.

THE MAYORALTY.—We are requested to state that Mr. George Hood is in the field as a candidate for the Mayoralty.

THE "HERD LADDE."—Jas. Wylie, the "Herd Laddie," champion checker player, has permanently taken up his residence in Detroit.

POSTLUCH.—Mr. Chas. Skinner, of Puelich, has purchased a very fine one year old Clydesdale stallion from Mr. T. R. Armstrong, Markham, for $1,250.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—As will be seen by advertisement, the time for receiving tenders for seating the Baptist Church, has been extended to the 16th inst.

The Guelph Herald's Dr. O'Brien is canvassing around the Rocky Mountains. Now, if he'd climb up and slide down the other side and stay there, what a blessing it would be to his constituents and the country at large!

"THANKS."—We have received from Mr. John A. Miller, of Good Works, with a Christmas card, a copy of the Guelph Herald's Sunday Magazine, with a copy of Peace's Holiday Supplement. Much appreciated. For sale at Anderson's book store.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The friends of Mr. Melvin and the other candidates nominated with him, are requested to meet at the Wellington Hotel to-night, at half past seven o'clock. Let there be a full attendance.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON.—Yesterday the Rev. E. H. Dewar, of Toronto, preached both morning and evening in the Wesleyan Church. The attendance in the morning was large, the church being well filled with attentive listeners. The text in the morning was from Proverbs, "And there is one that sticketh closer than a brother." The speaker illustrated his subject with some of the most touching instances of a mother's love and a father's affection, yet how infinitely they fell short of the love which our Heavenly Father evidences in giving his only begotten Son to die for a guilty world. In the evening the speaker took his text from Isaiah, "Ye are my witnesses," &c., showing the necessity that existed for Christians to be always doing something for the cause of Christ, in whatever sphere they moved, giving some noble examples of the results arising from those devoted servants of Christ who had given their lives in defence of the truth. The sermons evinced great depth of thought, and were delivered in that clear and distinct manner that at once claims the attention of his hearers, and we doubt not that the re-appearance of Mr. Dewar will be hailed with delight by those who had the pleasure of listening to him yesterday. This evening there will be a tea meeting in the church, after which addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Dewar and others, and the choir will give some of their choicest anthems.

POLICE COURT.
(Before the Police Magistrate.)
Dec. 14.
Jas. Irwin and Jas. Griffin charged by Chief Kelly with vagrancy, were sent to goal for 20 days each.

WRONG AS USUAL.—The Herald of Saturday was sadly astray in its remarks about Mr. Melvin and Mr. Elliott, and betrays great stupidity when it states that at the meeting at the Wellington on Thursday night, no decision as to the Mayoralty was arrived at, and yet that Mr. Elliott was assured of the nomination. How could Mr. Elliott be assured of the nomination when no decision was arrived at? It next states that Mr. Melvin and his friends packed the meeting on Friday night. This is altogether untrue. It also in effect says that Mr. Elliott was dissatisfied with Mr. Melvin's nomination. How will it reconcile that with the fact that Mr. Elliott, acquiesced in Mr. Melvin's nomination, and pledged his support. It furthermore talks about Mr. Melvin being twice beaten, and sneers at him for trying it a third time. We cannot see any disgrace in that, no more than there is in Mr. Chadwick, after being twice beaten for the Reeveship, trying it also for the third time. What is sauce for the goose must be sauce for the gander.

NORTH PARTY.—At a meeting of the Reform Convention for the North Riding of Perth, held at Milverton on Friday, Mr. D. D. Hay, of Listowel, Canadian Immigration Agent, was unanimously nominated as their candidate for parliamentary honors at the coming election in that constituency.

EAST TORONTO.—At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Reformers of East Toronto, Mr. John O'Donohue, the late member, was unanimously chosen as the standard bearer of the party at the coming election.

The Conservatives of the county of Peel have nominated Mr. J. W. Beynon, barrister, of Brampton, to contest the Riding for the Local Legislature.

Bishop Coleman.

Loma's Death Unconfirmed.

Explosion.
The War of Races.

The First Drowning Accident.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Bishop of London has prohibited Bishop Coleman from preaching in his diocese.

A correspondent of the Daily News at Bayonne, telegraphs that a report is in circulation there, that Loma has died of wounds received in the last battle with the Carlists; but despatches from San Sebastian, to the General's headquarters leave the report unconfirmed. Telegrams from Carlist sources assert that he was killed on the field.

St. Louis, Dec. 14.—A large iron tank in the purifying house of St. Louis Gas Light Company, exploded yesterday, instantly killing Thos. Pratt, Chief Engineer of the works.

New York, Dec. 14.—A Vicksburg dispatch to the Times says business of every kind is resumed. The white men are on the alert and well armed. They have sent scouts into the country districts and every movement of the colored people is closely watched and reported. The Legislature meets in extra session next Thursday, to discuss questions arising out of the present state of affairs and a heated debate, if not actual violence is expected.

At Peckness, N. J., a small village near Patterson, five children of a dairyman named John Datterich, four girls, aged 16, 15, 13, and 8, and a boy six years old, ventured with a sleigh upon a small pond in which the ice was thin and had formed. The pond was near their home and the mother of the children was watching their sport from a window when the ice gave way and all the children were drowned before their mother's eyes in spite of all efforts to save them.

County Court and General Sessions, Dec. 12.

BYRDEN vs. McKELLAR.—This case came on this morning, and after the necessary number of jurors had been sworn the rest were permitted to leave for their homes.

The defendant resides on F 2 of lot 7, in the 1st con., Pasluch; and the plaintiff was represented as the owner of a saw mill.

The litigation between the parties emanated from an alleged damage to the plaintiff in consequence of a fire having been set out by the defendant and by the wind conveyed to certain saw logs and cordwood owned by the former. The plaintiff endeavored to show that the fire in question had been set out on the 1st of July with a view to establish that the defendant acted imprudently in setting it out in one of the driest months in the year. This was contradicted by several witnesses for the defence, who fixed the date of the fire as the 12th or 13th of June, and that this was the time when farmers usually burn. The defendant also gave some evidence to show that he exercised a fair degree of caution before putting out the fire. He consulted his neighbour Mr. Neil McCormack as to the propriety of putting it out, and they both agreed that as the morning was calm no danger was apprehended. It appeared that after the fire had been lighted the wind increased, and in the course of two hours it was sufficiently strong as to carry sparks of fire for some distance through the air, which resulted in the damage complained of. Mr. Dunbar, of Dunbar & Merritt conducted the case for the plaintiff, and J. P. MacMillan, of MacMillan & O'Connor for the Defendant.

These gentlemen, as the case progressed, warmed up to their work and displayed much energy; each, of course, exercising his utmost ingenuity, to present the case to the Court and Jury in the light most favorable to his client. Late in the afternoon, when his Honor had commented upon the evidence and the legal points involved, the Jury retired and in the course of two hours returned a unanimous verdict for McKellar.

The Court then adjourned to meet again on Tuesday the 22nd inst., for the transaction of general business.

Santa Claus.

What parent looking back to the days of his infancy does not remember the pleasurable excitement conveyed by the anticipation of a liberal donation from Santa Claus on Xmas or New Year morning. How carefully was the stocking looked out for and how anxiously was the long looked for morning expected. At length it arrives, almost before day light peeps through the frozen window panes, patter, patter, goes little naked feet across the room, the door is opened, down comes the stocking and amid shouts of laughter the several bequests are examined and in childish prattle commented upon. We are quite sure that the happiness felt by the children on this occasion is reciprocated by the parents and a whole household of happiness is the result. Cast aside the stern realities of life and don't let one of your children be minus a present this year any way. Septimus Worne has opened out his stock of Toys, etc., at his new store and will be glad to assist parents who desire to convey happiness to their little ones by every means in his power. Everything new, nice, and cheap. Quebec Street. Remember the address, opposite Chamber's Church.

Mr. Wm. Heesler, of Winnipeg, is on his way for Ontario.

In the election in Montreal Mr. Fred. Mackenzie polled 2,030 votes against 2,028 for Mr. White.

The Toronto correspondent of the Stratford Beacon says that Mr. Wm. Macdougall has been hovering about the city, renewing acquaintance with his old admirers, and paying his way to a seat in the front row of the Opposition ranks in the Local House.

He does not like the way Mr. M. C. Cameron leads a party, and he endeavors to impress upon all dissatisfied Tories that their case might be greatly improved by having a new head to lead the party. It may be safe enough now to put "Wandering Willie" at the head of the Local Tories, where he has no opponents who would be willing to buy him up. His falling is that he cannot resist any attempt to lead him into temptation.

Temperance.

On Sabbath evening, the Rev. E. Middleton preached a sermon on the above subject, in the Congregational Church, to a large congregation. The preacher selected for his text, Rom. xiv. 21, "It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine," &c. He said the duties of the Christian Minister and the Christian Church were to clear every obstacle that stood in the way of the spread of the Gospel. This was the best work they had to do. Christ sent a herald to prepare the way of the Lord and make his path straight, and as John prepared the way for Christ, so must the ministers of his people. Among the hindrances of the age were greediness, selfishness and bigotry, but one more powerful than all the rest was intoxicating drink. The law of Christian ethics says, give up that which is perfectly lawful if a brother is offended or made weak thereby. Does wine or strong drink make our brethren stumble, then give it up. He then referred to the men in the Bible, whom he described as some of the brightest heroes that ever trod the earth, but who had fallen through strong drink, as Noah, the friend of God and the preacher of righteousness; Lot and his revolting crime; the priests offering strange fire on the altar of God. He then asked, is it better today? What has rebuked the pupil of some of its brightest ministers; the bench of some of its greatest ornaments? Strong drink. The social and domestic miseries caused by strong drink were very graphically described. The minister of Christ could not sympathize, because God had said that an impenitent shall not enter the Kingdom of Heaven. How shall we remove the evil? Shall we stand by and fold our arms and say it is no business of ours. God forbid. It is as easy to tell the sun to stop, or the ocean to stand back as to place wine in the way of a brother and him not to be injured by it. To remove temptation out of the way could only be done by personal abstinence and the prohibition of the liquor traffic. After asking what account they would render at the last day before the judgment seat of God; he concluded a very able sermon which was listened to with profound attention.

Rev. J. Howie in Zion Church, and Mr. J. Ryan in the Church of the British Episcopal Methodists, also preached suitable sermons on the subject of Temperance, the attendance at both services being large.

Agricultural College Committee.
December 11th.

The Committee met at 10 a.m., Mr. Buttane in the chair.

Mr. McCandless was called. He said that he could not ascertain the exact date of Mrs. Hamilton's appointment, but he thought she had been appointed in March; he wished to correct an impression which might be conveyed by his evidence yesterday, namely, that Mrs. Hamilton's appointment was cancelled because he objected; this was not the case; he had not opposed Mr. Stirton's appointment; he had acquiesced in it on the understanding that he (Mr. McCandless) should assist him in his duties; he did not consider Mr. Stirton a competent book-keeper; there was no understanding with the Government that he (Mr. McCandless) should appoint the officers, but he expected to have done so, as it was the custom in such cases in the United States; he did not consider Mrs. Petrie a proper person for the position; he had heard in the neighborhood that she was a gyp person, fond of dress, and he did not think she had had the proper experience for such a position.

He recommended Miss Dunn, who had had four years experience in the position. Mrs. Petrie was recommended as a suitable person by the Hon. Mr. Gow, Mr. Innes, of the Guelph Mercury, Mr. Massie, and other prominent gentlemen in Guelph. They had all spoken in very high terms of her character, but he did not approve of her appointment because he could not leave that she had had any experience in a similar capacity before. In reply to a question by the Chairman he said he did not know whether he had decided on the recommendation of Miss Dunn before he had made enquiries respecting Mrs. Petrie or not. Miss Dunn had had experience in the similar position before, but his charge of the rooms and linen in the upper part of the Queen's Hotel. Referring to the Commission appointed to make enquiries, he said they had laid down a programme for the management of the institution, to which he had objected, but his objections were overruled, and a programme he had laid down was not recognized; the foreman had insisted on discharging certain duties which had been assigned to the director, such as making purchases of implements, &c.; he had first noticed that the officers were pulling against him about the 20th inst., he had communicated verbally with Mr. Mowat in reference to these; he believed Mr. Clarke, the rector, had been the original cause of the want of harmony among the officers; he (Mr. Clarke) had begun complaining continually about Mrs. Petrie, and he (Mr. McCandless) had found that there was double-dealing in the matter, while Mr. Clarke was continually coming to him with complaints about Mrs. Petrie; he had found that he was on intimate terms with that lady, and that they were up in his rooms playing cards; he had seen Mr. Clarke coming from his rooms on one occasion, and the servants had told him that they were playing cards together between 11 and 12 o'clock; he had not seen Mr. Clarke come out of the room, but he (Mr. Clarke) had not denied it when he had accused him of it. The blinds were drawn on one occasion, and he had seen parties in the room; he did not think at the time that there was anything improper on Mrs. Petrie's part, but he thought Mr. Clarke had not paid sufficient attention to the rules of the institution, which required the doors to be closed at 9.30; Mr. Clarke and Mrs. Petrie, as officials of the institution dined at the same table; he had never told any one he had seen Mr. Clarke coming from Mrs. Petrie's room at three in the morning, though he may have said that he heard so.
