—Those who are disposed and have the means to show charity and goodwill to their less fortunate fellow-creatures at this season have an excellent opportunity to do so in the case of Mr. Gus Green. His grandson, 16 years of age, is doing his best to provide for the wants of the old man, but cannot make enough to keep the wolf out. Mr. Green is 90 years of age, and up to the present has always been able to earn a living at his calling, but being now ina living at his calling, but being now in capacitated through illness it is to be hoped that his friends and former patrons will see that this deserving old man is not allowed to suffer want at his advanced age. But for the alertness of a watchman named James Clark the express might have met with a terrible fate. The bridge at St. Marys is under repairs, and temporary trestles had been erected to carry the trains. Late on Friday evening the westbound train passed over this safely, but shortly afterwards the watchman heard a sound of straining timbers, and on proceeding to the spot found that the trestles had collapsed and the track had sunk several feet. He at once crossed the bridge and flagged the Detroit express, which, thus warned, escaped the danger. Nellie Jacoby Gets a Year.

Katharine Rogers and Nellie Jacoby treet. Their a sociates were never of the est, and the neighbors soon comme cost, and the neighbors soon commenced to complain to the police. Periodical drunker squabbles used to take place, and their residence was recognized to be nothing but a resort of ill-repute. All this was proven in the Police Court yesterday. The a resort of ill-repute. All this was proven in the Police Court yesterday. The Rogers woman, who, since her arrest some time ago, is said to have somewhat reformed, was allowed to go. Nellie Jacoby's reputation was shown to lack any redeeming features, and she was for the third time consigned to the Moreer Reformatory for one year. This announcement drew from her a volume of vituperation on all the cflicials present, particularly Chief Williams, on whose head she poured buckets of wrath, John Palmer, an indolent person, who was John Palmer, an indolent person, who proven to have been convicted of alm every crime on the calendar, inc wife desertion (he was arrested as while desertion (he was arrested as an in-mate of the Bathurst street resort) was sent to the Central Prison for six months.
