eave to Appeal Granted In Famous Saunby Case

Plaintiff to the Privy Council.

The important announcement made today that the application in the case of Saunby vs. the water commission of London, for leave to appeal from the decision of the supreme court at Ottawa, has been granted by the Privy Council. Thus the water commissioners will be compelled to defend themselves once again, this time in England, against the action for damages instituted some years ago by Mr. Saunby. The action dates back to 1897, when

Mr. Saunby instituted proceedings, claiming damages from the water commission for maintaining flashboards on the waterworks dam, thereby backing the water up in the north branch, so that his dam was incapable of furnishing proper power to turn the wheel at his mill. The case hung fire until 1992. when it was tried before Judge Falconbridge at London, and a verdict in favor of the plaintiff was rendered, and the commissioners were ordered to remove the flashboards, and a reference was also made to the master in chancery to assess the damages, the defendant had suffered during the years the flashboards had been maintained. The water commissioners appealed and the water commissioners agree and carried the case to the court of appeal at Toronto, but the judgment given at London was upheld. Once again the commissioners refused to accept the verdict, and appealed to the supreme court at Ottawa. In this latter appeal the commissioners beat Mr. Saunby, and all appeared plain sailing for the commissioners. This was, however, reckoning without considerng what Mr. Saunby might do. Messrs. Hellmuth & Ivey, acting for the plaintiff, after considering the case, decided to appeal, and made application to the Privy Council, for leave to appeal, which has now been granted. Mr. Ivey said today to a reporter that in the face of all the facts, he felt thoroughly justified in carrying the case to the highest tribunal in the Empire. Of the ten judges who have passed upon the case in Canada, seven have been in favor of Mr. Saunby's contentions, the plaintiff having won in the trial at London and in the court of appeal at Toronto, but lost at Ottawa, though two of the five 16 to 20 lbs, strong, 44s; clear bellies, 14 judges of the supreme court upheld the blaintiff's case, and one of the three judges who went against the defendant judges who went against the defendant had stated that if it were within the power of the supreme court to do such a thing he would issue a mandamus guaranteeing the plaintiff damages igainst the commission. The whole case is one of great in-Receipts of wheat during the past three does, the expenditure of many thousand the standard of terest to Londoners, involving, as it sands of dollars by the city in case Mr. Saunby wins his ease. The reply of Mr. Ivey to this is that the flash-boards was brought against the city in 1897, or eventeen years later. Mr. Ivey also points out that he has submitted as evidence the minutes of the proceedings of the water commis sioners, which go to show that the flash-boards were put up in 1880, not by the commissioners for pumping purposes, but to accommodate the Thames Navigation Company, which then operated a line of boats on the river. The water, being very low, the boat owners agreed to pay a license of $25 pe boat if the flash-boards were put up to the proposition, although a clause was inserted that the Thames Naviga tion Company would be called upon guarantee the city against all claims for damages which might be entered, a year ago as the result of the boards being placed boards were put up, and claims for damages were entered by Mr. Saunby for alleged loss of power at his dam, and the secretary of the water commissioners was instructed to issue orders to have the flash-boards on the dam reduced a foot in height. Then claims for damages were presented by Messrs Barrett and E. W.
