GOOD LIGHT NECESSARY

Keeping our sight is a most important thing. But many people's sight is in danger from poor lighting that could be remedied. The best lighting system is that nearest to ordinary daylight. The light should be evenly distributed throughout the room. The method of indirect lighting, by which the light is thrown to the ceiling and reflected throughout the room, is the best. This is now found in many places.

ROTARIANS PICNIC GREAT SUCCESS

London Members and Families at Port Stanley.

INTERESTING PROGRAM
Baseball Game a Feature of the Outing

Port Stanley has witnessed larger and more representative picnics, but none more joyous and enthusiastic than that which was staged on Invercote Heights yesterday afternoon by London Rotarians and their families. From the time that a special train unloaded its cargo of 200 fun-makers at the Lakeside the rotary wheel spun merrily and with increasing speed until the party was whisked home in another train at eight o'clock.

"Let's stick together" was the crisp motto chosen for the day, and to the heights, the longest list of sports on the program, the Rotarians and their families, both of whom admitted to having a "Chester" as a baby boy.

BASEBALL GAME.
By all odds the most important event on the day's program was the baseball game in which the Rotarians captained by Frank Harley. The latter claims a foul, however, in the fact that the winning team, the "Vines," favored the treated natives of the village to something new in the way of baseball two scrub nine went into a pitched battle which gave one idea of what must be commonplace sport in Dublin now.

George Wenige, who figured on the line-up of the "Victorious" team in the first game when he attempted to run bases with a Red Bird, Charley Wheeler played the first sack with the rare abandon of a talented musician, while Tom McFarland and Bill Yendall, made up their voices what they lacked in playing ability. For the losers, George Wesley bobbed into the line-up and shared premier honors with the mother with the prize for the worst. The conclusion of the spread in the cafeteria, and he used it by declaring that Rotary must have a similar celebration in which the members coincided with his statement.

The president then called for the mother with the youngest Rotarian baby and the field was closed when Mrs. Deacon announced that her little Mary had just passed her first four months.

THE CHESTERS
More competition was created, however, for the prize for the mother with the oldest Rotarian baby. Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Rowntree both contested this honor on behalf of their respective blue-eyed Chesters and a toss of the coin finally gave the honor to Mrs. Rowntree.

Flipping the coin also had to be resorted to in order to determine who was the Rotarian with the largest family present. Mrs. Lawson and Mrs. McConnell during the day, evening finds the dancing pavilion and amusement centers of the Victor Amusement Park with a gay throng, pleasure bent and happy. Springbank is an ideal place for picnics. And if the weather is all that it should be to-morrow, the spacious grounds will be thronged with merry-makers. There need be no particular scramble for tables in the grounds. If tables are not available then the green grass is most inviting. And, indeed, there is pleasure in eating picnic meals "right off the ground," as it were. Tables and seats are scattered throughout the delightfully shady groves and provide accommodation for many groups of picnickers. Springbank is generally regarded as an ideal place for a day's outing with its variety of things to do.

Visitors to the city who are taken for the first time to Springbank by their friends, revel in the sights which they see. To those who become frequent visitors a certain amount of the Rotarians wear off, but still Springbank is one of the leading natural beauty spots in Canada, and people who have come from great distances declare they have never before seen such marvelous natural beauty.

Take a trip to Springbank on Dominion Day and gain a new impression of this gem of nature.

GRADUATES OF L.C.M. IN RECITAL

Interesting Program Presented at St. Andrew's Hall

Licentiatees and fellows of the London Conservatory of Music appeared last night in the graduating recital at St. Andrew's Hall, seven graduates receiving diplomas at the hands of Mr. John Garbutt, speaker of the evening. Of the total 1922 class of twelve, two, Miss Evelyn Jarvis, of London, and Miss Celia Little, of St. Thomas, are taking post-graduate work, which will complete for their degree of fellows of the London Conservatory of Music, during the year.

The licentiatees highest proficiency medal fell to Ray Eden, London, who tied with Miss Joan Bartram (Parkhill) with a total of 90 marks. Miss Bartram has yet to complete her theory requirements for her L. L. C. M. Diplomas were presented to Winnifred Reeves (London), L. L. C. M., and Ray Eden (London), L. L. C. M., in piano; Gertrude Clement (London), L. L. C. M.; Madeline Fitzgerald (London), L. L. C. M.; and Irene Walls (Denfield), L. L. C. M., in singing, and Mrs. Myrtle E. Fenton (London), A. T. L. C. M., in the teachers' normal vocal course. Graduates who have yet to qualify for their degrees are Jean Bartram (Parkhill); Evelyn Jarvis (London); Celia Little (St. Thomas); Dora McConnell (Port Burwell); Lottie Ravin (Clear Creek).

MR. GARBUTT.
As our civilization advances, more attention is paid to the fine arts, which tend to the culture of life," Mr. Garbutt said, in addressing the class. "I know of nothing of greater importance in the life of any people than music, and nothing that will more quickly correct any tendency towards 'jazz' than the cultivation of the better class of music. Nor is there anything that differentiates between people than their musical taste."

Introduced by F. L. Willgoose, director of examinations at the London Conservatory of Music, now purely an examining body, a program of notable excellence was presented by a group of the graduates to a delighted audience. Outstanding possibly was the achievement of the medalist, Ray Eden, pupil of Miss Irene Burns, who, with Miss Burns at second piano, gave a brilliant interpretation to the Andante and Allegro Concerto in G minor, of Mendelssohn. Mr. Eden's playing is rich, broad and fluent, giving promise of a great future.

Miss Evelyn Jarvis, pupil of Thomas Martin, opened the program with a clever rendering of the Liszt No. 6 technique and a sympathetic appreciation of the work.

Miss Bartram, pupil of Sydney Martin, was heard in "La Truite," by Heller, played in a vivid and colorful manner, and Miss Little's two contributions to the program, a Chopin Nocturne and McDowell's "Etude de Concert" were also brilliantly executed. Numbers, showing finish, ease and fluency on the part of the player, who is a pupil of Thomas Martin.

Miss Winnifred Reeves, piano pupil of the Sisters of St. Joseph, played the Liszt Cantique d'Armour most effectively.

VOCAL PUPILS.
Vocal honors of the evening were divided between Miss Irene Walls and Miss Gertrude Clement. The former, a young singer, already shows marked poise and is the possessor of a soprano voice of great clarity and breadth, noted to advantage in two numbers by Leland Ronald, Miss Clement has a splendid voice and sings with ease, musical appreciation into her pretty rendering of "A Summer Night" by Goring Thomas, and "Love's a Merchant," a delightful bit of song by Carew.

Mr. Willgoose accompanied the singers.

A pretty feature of the evening was the presentation of lovely clusters, baskets, sprays and showers of flowers maidens in white, with fluttering ribbons of flower girls very pretty.

The examining board of the London Conservatory includes W. Caven Bartram, London; Leonard Farnham, New York; T. W. Hanney, Newport; Dr. C. L. M. Harris, Port Huron; Frederick Gillingham, Regina; Sydney Martin, London; Thomas Martin, London; Charles Wheeler, London; and F. Linforth Willgoose, London.
