

A COMPLETED SACRIFICE.

some rough places smooth. Brave with the inspiration of faith and hope, she found happiness in identifying herself with the needs and claims of others.

If she were conscious of a wound which throbbed and bled, of unquenchable longings, of memories which never were to be forgotten, she contrived to carry her cross in such fashion that no other heart should be saddened, no other's joy shadowed. And the world was purer and brighter for one woman's faith and courage.

THE END.