

plan, which Mark Burton had laid to Swindle Colonel Blair out of large property in the funds by forgery. She communicated her discovery to the Colonel's agent under a promise that, being the husband of his niece, he should be allowed to escape. In consequence of this information and agreement, Colonel Blair's property was saved, and the criminal spared an ignominious punishment.

The sudden and unexpected appearance of Helen Burton's uncle had unstrung the nerves of Maria Moreland, in general not very easily moved; but for the poor drunkard it was too much. Doubtless, the sudden appearance of the man whom he had bravely attempted to ruin, hurried on that closing moment which, under other circumstances, could not have been far distant. He died evidently suffering all the horrors of remorse of conscience, beyond this we cannot, and dare not, say any thing.

Colonel Blair and Maria Moreland recognized each other; mutual explanations took place; and soon afterwards, Helen and her children were removed by him to his house in the country, there to spend their days beside him, and afterwards to inherit his ample property, for he was unmarried. They were accompanied by Maria Moreland, whom they revered as an example of faithful friendship rarely to be met with in this wicked world; looking upon her as a brilliant comet in the moral hemisphere, which may pass away, but whose striking and wonderful appearance can never be forgotten while the pulse of life continues to beat.

LATE AND IMPORTANT FROM SPAIN.—The ship Empress arrived at New York, on Saturday, from Gibraltar, and among the passengers was Mr Neilson, editor of the Quebec Gazette, who states that on the 11th May a steamboat arrived at Gibraltar, from Lisbon, bringing accounts of a severe engagement, which had taken place between the Queen's troops and those of Don Carlos. The result was, the defeat of the Carlists, with the loss of six thousand men.

LATEST FROM TEXAS.—By the arrivals from Galveston last evening, we obtained information that the Indians had murdered several persons on the frontiers of Texas, particularly near the town of Nashville—that they had attacked a train of wagons, killed five persons, and carried off all the oxen.—N. O. American.

From the Halifax Gazette.

The New York and Boston Papers, received since our last, have furnished some late European intelligence—from London the accounts are to the 23d May.

His Majesty it is stated, was labouring under an attack of Asthma. Preparations were making for the splendid celebration of the Birth-day of the Princess Victoria.

Several extensive failures had taken place in Liverpool, and also in some of the principal manufacturing Towns—indeed the embarrassments in the United States appear to have deeply affected the Commercial Interests of the Parent Country.—Halifax Gazette.
