CANADIAN HISTORY MATERIALS IN ROME.

Bishop Howley, of St. John's, Newfoundland, is in Rome investigating historical documents at the Vatican library, especially those which have a bearing on the early Norse settlers in America prior to the discovery of Columbus. He has in the course of his researches found valuable material, which shortly after his return home he will make public. The information the bishop will make known will serve to enlighten minds on the much-disputed situation of Vinland, and will go far to settle that question. Various conclusions will be drawn from this settlement of the question of an unexpected nature; and those who know the lucid style and convincing method of arraying his proofs with which Bishop Howley is endowed will look forward with expectant interest to this publication.

A SIDE LINE.

Here is a wrinkle for newsdealers from the other side that is worth taking into consideration. W. H. Smith & Sons, who control most of the stands at the railroad stations in England, have undertaken to supply photographic plates. I don't know whether camera fiends are taking to bicycles; if they haven't it is safe to assert that they will, and then the touring bicyclist will want the material for his camera in all sorts of out-of-the-way places.—N.Y.
