

without a Treasury, will be able to wrest the executive Power out of the Hands of those who constitutionally enjoy it.

AND now upon this General Review and Muster of the Forces on the Malcontent, as well as the Government Side, let every one consider well within himself, what he ought to do at the present Crisis, as a constitutional Patriot, an honest Englishman, a loyal Subject, and a prudent Man.

THE END.

CORRECTIONS

- P. 19. l. 10. for Cacas read Polyphemus.
 P. 62. l. 17. after Labour add and.
 P. 62. l. 19. dele and.
 P. 65. l. 8. before Sailors add and.
 P. 72. l. 21. after Produce add of the Excise.