A word is the symbol of an idea. One may have the most original and forceful ideas—but without words to express them, they are utterly valueless. It might be said that there are no new ideas under the Sun. In the earliest recorded writings from the Sanskrit, the Chinese, the Hebrew, the Greek or the Latin tongues, we find the same thought again and again. It is the expression, or symbolism in its literary art. The universal mind in this way frees itself by the individual genius Thus.

Incipal Orchestra gave the inhabitants a full program of American airs and melodies. It was refreshing to sit in a feeck chair under bright blue English skies, and listen to the familiar strains of "Way Down South," "Washington of "Way Down South," "Washington of the tree, and the the quiet moan of the first notes of "The Star Spangled Banner" in the King's uniform standing strictly at "attention," while grey-haired veterans stood bareheaded in the spring sunshine, as a token of respect to America, Perhaps it was only our imagination, but it seemed to us as if the generous sized "Old Glory." floating from a flag pole on the nearby pavilion, proudly spread itself out in the seq breeze to its last inch, as American-born citizens temporally resident in this vicinity, enturing the land of the free, and the home of the brave."

each nation must evolve its own form of expression, or symbolism in its literary art. The universal mind in this way frees itself by the individual genius which has caught its meaning. Thus words may be said to be the tools of thought. Word study, therefore, is one of the most important elements of education. And the dictionary which gives the derivation, the different shades of meaning, the transition in modes of spelling: in short, the history of the word, is the one indispensable workshop for the worker in words. Among all the eras of dictionary making, the present excels. And there is no excuse for anyone not to possess a valuable dictionary. With scarcely a pause the orchestra swung into "O Canada," and it would have done your heart good to have seen Canadian soldiers wearing the gold stripes denoting wounds received "in the presence of the enemy." earnestly singing, "And with our lives defend the present would hesitate to accuse those lads of suffering from war fever. You may take it from us that if a man is suffering from war fever."
