Grops in Ontario are looking extremeis well. A trip overland across central was late, the conditions of growth have been good since and that the outlook for all the cereal crops is first-class.

There are no preventive measures against this bug. A large acreage is being grown for American and English firms.

Barley is perhaps the weakest crop of all the cereals. Barley cannot stand a cold soft and the delay in spring's work fold more against this cereal than against others. The white grub is working in some sections seriously and some fields show a sickly white eye to see how a poor looking catch has spread out and developed into a thick stand of deep green wheat. This next week the greatest miracle of the growing season will be seen by the observers of country fields. The ears of wheat are preparing to shoot and with wheat are preparing to shoot and with the passing of a few days the transformation will be complete. Shows rk and Northern Ontario Countles found excellent patches. Markham enship has a few as good as can be found in the province.

It is reported by a traveler from the County of Middlesex, that the farmers there are being canvassed for a sale of heir wheat fields in advance. It looks like a big price for the opening market. Already preparations are being made in Kansas and the Southern States for the wheat harvest and binders will be humming ther next week. The follow ing week the ripening area will reach up into lows and gradually spread the yellow gold until the consummation takes place when the fields of Canada will prove to a waiting world what the returns of this year are to be. Many are of the opinion that we will not see cheap wheat for a few years again.

and corn are so closely associated, and one so correlated with the other, that extensive hog raising is not seriously attempted outside of the belt where corn is produced. While it is possible to grow fat hogs, without corn, those who make a business of preparing swine for the general market have found corn not only an essential. have found corn not only an essential, have found corn not only an essential, but an indispensable product for pork development. Therefore it is natural that pork production should be greatest where the corn is the thickest and the price the most reasonable. That is the reason that Iowa is turning out the greatest annual crop of hogs.
