GET BUSY, GENTLEMEN

In an interview in the Times yesterday, Mr. Piers of the Canadian Pacific spoke of the great future of the port of St. John—a future that could only be marred by the failure of the citizens to see to it that the port is fully equipped for the growing steamship business pointing this way.

Mr. Piers, as a man with a thorough knowledge of transportation matters, confirms what hopeful citizens and a portion of the press have for years contended.

What will the city do about it?

The government has shown its friendly disposition by making provision for more dredging. Provision is already made for enough dredging for one more new berth; and, as soon as Mr. Mayne completes the little that remains to be done on the site of No. 4 crib of the berth now under construction, he will go to work on the site of the next one. But the city has not as yet taken any action to call for tenders for the wharf. The work should be begun early in the spring.

Should the port be nationalized at an early date, account would be taken of all the city does in the meantime, and there should be no delay on account of any expectations in that regard. More wharves are needed. Let us provide them.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The announcement that Mr. Eddy's Magazine will in January begin the publication of the story of the life of Mary Baker G. Eddy and a history of Christian Science, beginning with the birth of Mrs. Eddy in a farmhouse in New Hampshire and following her through the vicissitudes of a long life until the present time, shows how much more seriously the new cult is regarded by the general public. Whether they praise or denounce it, Christian Science has become a factor to be reckoned with.

As Mr. Eddy observes, it has the most costly churches in New England, and some six hundred churches in all; and is distinguished in its methods. Mrs. Baker is a very rich woman, and very powerful. Practically her word is law to the church. Whatever other people may think of her pretensions, the members of the church have unbounded faith in Mrs. Eddy and in Christian Science. For example, at a Thanksgiving service in the church at Boston last Thursday, a portion of the time was given up to individual testimonials. We quote from the Boston Globe's report:

"A woman said her greatest cause for thanksgiving consisted in the fact that God had given to the world such a woman as Mrs. Mary B. G. Eddy and such a book as the Christian Science text-book, 'Science and Health'."

A man from Sydney, Australia, said that far away from the headquarters of the Christian Science movement and who was deprived of Mrs. Eddy's personal help and the aid of Christian Science teachers and lecturers was able of a strong appreciation of Mrs. Eddy's writings. He said that he knew of many in his far away country who had been re-converted and healed by the understanding of true health gained from the perusal of 'Science and Health'."

A young man declared that during the past year he had entered unusual trials and temptations but had come off victorious in every instance through the spiritual strength afforded him by Christian Science.

Whatever may be thought of the value of such testimony, or of the claims of Christian Scientists, the evidence here involved a notable human movement, centering around the life of a remarkable woman. Mr. Eddy's announcement that the preparation of its history has been carried out in the historic spirit, a saving nothing, but presenting facts—or as near to the facts as history can get when those most concerned are either silent or driven by bias. Such a story will be read with pleasure by many, who without the facts are not able to form what is even to themselves a completely adequate estimate of the proper place of Christian Science among modern religious movements.

The United States congress is in session. What President Roosevelt will say in his address tomorrow is a source of interested speculation. Recent developments are accepted by most people as an indication that in his remarks about control of the trusts the president will be even more emphatic than before. Henry Clegg, the well known financier, says: "President Roosevelt's coming message will be awaited with unusual interest in order to see how far it supports some of the so-called radical tendencies of the day; and the disposition of congress also upon such issues will be important to ascertain. Fortunately, the coming session will be a short one, and probably unproductive of important new legislation; but discussion may be active and significant, owing to developments in public opinion shown in the recent election."

ATTAINMENT

We sigh for things we scarce may hope to have, and which, if all our own, would give no pleasure. We really all and struggle to release To knowledge nature's secrets; we complain That we not given us to break some chain, To reach some peak, to win some crown.

To do some mighty deed whose light shall come
Only wash means no longer was and wane.
The task we empty all the springs of life,
For faith and love, with glory as of sun,
Hence we path to peace through every strife.

No work a battle that is nobly planned;
No deed is little if not grandly done.
—Edward Robinson Taylor.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

NOT HAMPERED BY HIS AFFECTION.

Benevolent Old Lady (to small boy who was "Dear and Dumb" boy by his side)—"Is it you who are deaf and dumb, little boy?"

Little Boy—"No mum, it's father, but I'm managing the place for him just now."

Benevolent Old Lady—"Where is he then? In a saloon?"

Little Boy—"Oh, no, he is selling comic papers and calling out the winners."

—Pete McLe.
