POETRY.

LINES TO THE PRINCESS ROYAL. BY MAURICE O'FOHERTY.

Och ! blessins upon you, my swate little Highness, Good luck to the day that you came to the fore :--Bat sure I've forgottea my untional shyness, Thus rhyming away, like my croay, Tom Moore

In Frazer's last Mag. there's Sir Morgan O'Dohert Hastipped you some verses -- and so has Leigh Huni Thin, wby would'nt I, Mr. Maurice O'Foherty? Be aisy, my durlin', I mane no affront.

Sure, haven't all heerd what the great Duke of Sutherland Discorsed to the boys, at some mating, one morn "I have seed her" (says he), " and troth, in my m therland "A baby so beautiful nivvir was born."

Och ! bowld will you prove, for you've come amids fightio', And powderin', and blazin', and all war's alarms--Your nurse may look out for a squall, day and uight

For sure it's yourself that is now up in arms.

But troth, in conceiving which way 'ud be betther To sind you this Poem, I'm bothered almost-Will Istick on a pictur', or prepar the letther, And slip it gentalely some day in the post?--

Or will I, while walking down High-street, mal bewid of it, And dhrop it, by accident, that's by intint-Thim Editors, musha, are sure to get howld of it, And whip it convenient next morning in print.

It is thin your attindants, dames Lilly and Packer In the Papers to see it, will fair ! feel amated, Whew ! may be it work to rend off like a cacker, And thin it's myself will be mightily plased.

Now flourish, slanns, in years getting riper While we are divartin' at pattherns and rows-A female John Bull as you are, by the Piper, No wonder your nurse was silicited from Cowes.

That's all mighty well for a babby that's growin', But whin a bit oulder, now listhen to me, Jist take the laste diroop of the pure Ionishowan For that's the thrue mother's-milk,cushla machre

Tin stanzas complated !--troth sorrow another Will Indd, plase the pigs, to this illegant song--But jist tell me darlin', pray How is your Mother? We've not had a Bully Tin ivir so long ! Cheltenham Looker-on.

EDWARD VI.—Athis Coronation, when the three swords, for the three kingdoms, were brought to be carried before him, he observed that there was one yet wanting, and called for the Bible. 'That,' said he,' is the word of the spirit, and ought in all right to govern us, who use these for the people's safety, by God's appointment. Without that sword of that we are what we are this day; we receive whatsoerer it is that we at this present di-fight, to govern the people, and to perform all our affaire.—From that slone we obtain all power, virtue, grace, salvation, and what tare, that he was capable of thus thinking, and thus expressing himself.—Southey. ## BALDNESS.

A BEAUTIFUL HEAD OF HAIR A BEAUTIFUL HEAD OF HAIR Is the grandest ornament belonging to the human frame. How strangely the loss of it changes the countenance, and prematurely brings on the appear-ance of old age, which causes many to recoil at being uncovered, and sometimes even shun society to avoid the jests and sneers of their acquaintsmee, the remain-der of their lives is consequently spent in retirement. In short, not even the loss of property fills the gene-rous thinking youth with that heavy sinking gloom as does the loss of his hair. To aver all these unplea-ant circumstances, OLDRIDGE' BALM OF COLUMBIA stops the bair from falling off on the

THE HUMAN HAIR. Where the hair is observed to be growing thin, nothing can be more preposterous than the use of oile, grease, or any other fatty matter. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest igno-rance, as they hasten the fall of the hair, by increas-ing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted skin, and where the small blood ressels which carry nourishment to the bulb are ob-structed, then the oil, &c., may be good, as they tend to relax the skin is but alone they are of no avail. There must be a stimulous to rouse the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood.-Extract from Clickapits' Treatise on the Hair. The Baim of Columbia is the only preparation that can have that effect, being entirely free from any oily substance.
