

evidently been a marked success. As the city has grown, and the population increased, his trade has enlarged and his facilities to manufacture have multiplied. In his extensive show rooms may be seen a magnificent stock of plain and elegant cabinet furniture, comprising walnut parlor and chamber suits, bedsteads, lounges, mattresses, side boards, bureaux, looking glasses, toilet stands, dressing tables; chairs in great variety, with every other article, useful and ornamental, connected with the trade. As will be seen by advertisement on page 118. A leading feature in the house is that of Undertaking, and here will be found at all times a large assortment of the goods necessary when the mantle of gloom is thrown over the domestic circle. It is only right to say, in this brief notice, that the prosperity of this house is the legitimate fruit of upright dealing, patient industry, prudent enterprise and untiring perseverance.

JAMES HOBBS.

The furniture factory of Mr. James Hobbs is situated on Prince Street, near the new Baptist Church. Mr. Hobbs' large experience together with his practical knowledge of the business enables him to turn out such work as cannot fail to give satisfaction as to price, style and quality. It should be remembered that he does not confine himself to any one branch of the business, but embraces all, including that of Undertaking, to which he gives his most particular attention. Mr. Hobbs has recently fitted up a most elegant hearse, and has constantly on hand a supply of caskets and coffins of all sizes, thus making the Undertaking Department—which is personally superintended by himself—in every respect complete.

Parties will therefore find that, under all circumstances, their wants may be well supplied at this establishment. The young beginner may have his home economically furnished—the older veteran, whose growing wealth justify him in furnishing more costly and elegantly, can be suited here, and when the stern and painful realities of domestic life make their appearance—in all cases Mr. Hobbs will be ready to attend to the wishes of those who may favor him with their orders. Read page 206.