PROVIDE FOR PATROL WAGON AND EIGHT NEW POLICEMEN

The Safety Board at its meeting, yesterday afternoon, decided to ask for an appropriation of $144,181 for 1911, as against $129,500 for last year. A motion was adopted that eight additional policemen be engaged, and that $1,000 be voted to maintain the patrol wagon offered to the city by the Local Women's Council. Money to instal 13 additional street lamps was asked for.

Ald. Vanwart presided and there were present Ald. Elkin, Potts, Sprout, McLeod, White, Russell, Willet, with the common clerk, Director Wisely, Chief Clark and Chief Kerr.

Estimates were submitted as follows:—

Table with 3 columns: Item, 1911, 1910. Fire Dept. $66,278.50 $65,000.00. Police Dept. 44,937.75 48,000.00. Street Lights 30,955.25 26,500.00.

Need of Policemen. Chief Clark was heard on the question of increasing the number of men on the police force. He has for years urged the installation of a police signalling system and the maintenance of patrol wagons. He stated that the police force today was numerically weak. It was in 1890, and more men would be needed to provide protection demanded by the citizens. He said that he had only one call man on duty at night, whereas in Halifax they had five call men. He had only 13 men for day duty.

Carleton, he said, was not properly protected. If the police did not keep the drunken men from going over on the ferry there would be fighting on the West Side every night.

Continuing, the chief said the crowds were becoming more difficult to handle. The police had no trouble with the drunkards, but with a rowdy element growing up in the community. He thought the courts were too lenient and that the police did not properly support the police authority.

In reference to the New Year's disturbance, he said that a few minutes before midnight there were not ten people on Charles street. The mob was unexpected and the police had been taken by surprise. None of the law-abiding citizens had taken the trouble to telephone him or his deputy. He thought he would be that way for the best. He would have been inclined to wound some of the rioters.

The chief said the police were not so rough when making arrests as in other cities. If a policeman used his baton on a blackguard here, there was always a great outcry.

Ald. Potts moved that $5,110 be added to the estimates for the purpose of employing eight additional policemen.

EDWARD TERRY HAS PLEASANT HOME LIFE

The home life of Edward Terry, the distinguished actor, who is to delight St. John theatregoers next week, is much that of any other prosperous professional man of domestic as well as artistic tastes. His residence, at Barnes, Surrey, is a delightful estate with a dozen or more acres of charming gardens, a tennis court, an orchard, a tiny poultry farm, hot house and long tall trees, famous for their peach trees. There is a quaintly picturesque old smoking den hidden away in the shrubbery, empanelled with curious Dutch tiles.

These are some of the attractions outside the house and within its pleasant walls there is the same air of home, made a little piquant and fascinating by the host of interesting relics of the stage and the spoils of travel. Mr. Terry is quite a globe trotter, in a modest way, gathered together during the years of an energetic career.

Aside from his many professional activities Mr. Terry finds time to devote himself to the administration of numerous charitable organizations in his native city.

The following is a list of some of the afore mentioned to which he gives much of his time: Member of the council of the Fordingham Hospital; treasurer of the Royal General Theatrical Fund; vice-president of the Actors' Church Union; Governor Hobart Estate St. Clement Danes Charity; member of the council (Charling Cross Hospital); member of the Primrose League. He is also a magistrate of the County of Surrey, sitting at Mortlake; visiting magistrate for Brixton Jail; a past master of the Worshipful Society of Turfmen, and a Freeman of the City of London.

Mr. Terry has held various important offices in Freemasonry including that of grand treasurer of the grand lodge and is a member of the governing committee of the Masonic School for Girls.

CANADIAN CLUB

Very few towns in Canada are without hope, and every town of size should have plans worked out by experts to provide for its growth for at least twenty years to come. These plans should provide for plenty of park space and good wide streets with two ends to them. In New Brunswick it looked as if there would be but one big city, and St. John was that one consequently it should be up to the people of St. John to consider these problems as very real ones in their existence.

He believed in the creation of town planning commissions which could work in harmony with the Conservation Commission, and would do great good.

Patrol and Signaling.

The chairman said that the city would have to take up the question of securing a patrol and signal system.

Chief Clark observed that the question had been investigated before and that it had been estimated that the city would save about $300 a year, because it would be able to close up the lockups.

Ald. Potts thought the chief's request for two mounted police should be granted.

Taxes High Enough. Ald. Russell—"The people are taxed too heavily now."

Ald. Potts thought the taxes should be levied on land values. He knew of a property assessed $10,000 for which the owner had refused $24,000.

The motion to ask for $5,110 for extra policemen was adopted.

The Director said it would cost between $9,000 and $10,000 to install the signal system.

It was decided to secure further information as to the cost and possible saving.

Ald. McLeod—"What would be the cost of a patrol wagon?"

Chief Clarke—"Why the Women's Council offer us a patrol wagon for nothing."

Ald. Potts thought the patrol wagon could be used as an ambulance, and that one of the extra drivers of the fire department could be told off to run it.

On motion it was decided to add $1,000 to the estimates to maintain a patrol wagon.

A motion was adopted to accept the offer of the Women's Council to provide a patrol wagon.

Chief Clarke asked that the city set aside a room for prisoners being held on gentle charges. The Director was asked to report on the request.

Chief Clarke said that he had the right to create sergeants, notwithstanding the opinion of the Director. He did not have as many as he ought to have.

Street Lights.

The Director's estimate of $29,980.25 for lights were passed, and a motion of Ald. Potts it was decided to ask for an additional $975 to instal thirteen new lights. The new lights would be placed as follows:

Queen Square, Carleton; St. John street, Carleton; St. James Extension, Carleton; Windsor, cor. Lindlow, Carleton; East end Princess street, corner of Pitt and Duke streets; corner Alexandra and Edward streets South Queen Square; corner Sydney and St. James streets; Millidgeville Road; Military Road; Bridge street.

She must say hands off to any man or power to attack her. Who is going to attack her?

The grain is part of the problem of industrial development, and the unprecedented development of population. Japan which had lain dormant for forty years, had an industrial awakening and had to find room for her rapidly increasing population in Manchuria and Korea, even at the expense of war with Russia. Germany at present with a population of 70,000,000 people, and increasing at the rate of 1,000,000 a year, is looking out for colonies, and it is not impossible she may try to find her Manchuria or Korea in Canada.

The speaker however, said he did not regard war with Japan or Germany probable, but Canada must be prepared for possible enemies. One power he refused to regard as a possible enemy that was Great Britain and the United States. It would be part of the mission of Canada to see that friendly relations were ever maintained between Great Britain and the United States. He would never consent to political union with the United States but would favor an ever growing friendship. There was such a thing as paying too much for the ability to protect one's ideals.

"Sort of a high premium on our fire insurance," and he believed the working along the lines of connection with the British Empire would afford the cheapest and best fire insurance Canada could get.

The speaker's quarrel with Mr. Bourassa was that Bourassa seemed to look on Canadian independence as "Canadianism" and was ready to pay for it. "I believe we could prevent any nation in the world from conquering us but we would have to pay so much for our fire insurance that we would have nothing left for food and repairs to the house."

One Head for Navy.

The speaker said he was predisposed in favor of a Canadian navy, but he also recognized that a navy of any force in war must be under one head. A navy that consisted of territorial contingents working out separately in time of war was most inefficient. Not only was there but one head but the chief head he could see at the present time was the British admiralty. Of course in time there must come constitutional changes. Canada will always consent to share the danger without sharing the direction of the danger, but these things would be better able to work out constitutional changes than the British government.

If Canada has to have a navy there must be absolute and complete standardization. Ships, guns, signals and men, must be exactly the same as the British navy so that in time of war they could if necessary be manned by British tars or repaired in British dockyards from British parts.

In closing he said it was not enough to wish to build up a great civilization by great manufactures or resources. The first requisite was a great Canadian citizenship and the second the willingness and the ability to say hands off to anyone who interfered.

After a few words of appreciation from the president the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

TREASURY BOARD

Continued from page 1. A letter was received from the recorder in reference to a number of bills of the late C. N. Skinner and the chairman and the recorder were appointed a committee to deal with them.

The estimates for 1911 were then taken up. After the appropriations asked for by the various departments, had been gone over, the chairman stated that the increase over last year was $40,540, and that this would entail an increase in the assessment of $2,000,000.

The chamberlain said that his statement might put a better face on the situation. By anticipating revenues from the West Side harbor facilities, the city might save $13,000 of interest charges.

The mayor—"What provision are you making for sinking funds?"

The chamberlain—"That is provided for in my statement."

Street Estimates. The chairman suggested that they might cut the street estimates. He said the street and police expenditures had doubled in the last ten years, though the population had not increased very much.

Ald. Potts moved that the Board of Works be allotted $73,000. He thought they should put their money in permanent investment and not spend so much patching the streets.

Ald. McGoldrick said about $25,000 had been added to the estimates to repair streets which different aldermen were working on.

Ald. Potts said he did not want to bleed the citizens, as he had to pay taxes himself, but the streets aldermen were interested in cost not in properly repaired without money.

Ald. Willet moved in amendment that the appropriation be $87,000.

Ald. Sprout moved that $30,000 be allotted the streets.

The mayor said he was surprised to see that the Board of Works had asked for $100,000 for scattering repairs. He thought the city had adopted a policy of doing permanent work on the streets and not to spend so much without a comprehensive plan.

The increase of the expenditures was startling, he added.

Ald. Lively said the citizens wanted good streets and were ready to pay for them. Good streets were an advertisement for the city. He thought they should make a bond issue for the repair of the streets indicated by the engineer.

The Mayor—"A bond issue for repair work."

Ald. Vanwart thought the street appropiation for last year had been well spent. He thought $75,000 would be sufficient for this year.

Ald. Sprout agreed to amend his motion to allot the streets $75,000, or he came as last year. This was adopted.

The fire department asked for $66,278, or about $1,000 more than last year. Ald. Vanwart said the increase was an account of the maintenance of the West Side engine house and salary increases.

Ald. McGoldrick wanted to know whether the amount would not suffice for the permanent brigade. At present the department was run on the same basis it was 10 years ago, when the expenditures were much less.

Ald. Potts moved that the estimate for the fire department be approved.

Ald. Vanwart said the call men were getting $150 as against $75 ten years ago. The estimate was passed.

Police Appropriation. $75,200 was then taken up. Ald. McGoldrick moved that the police appropriation be the same as last year or $48,000. He thought that if some of the older policemen had been on the beat on New Year's there would not have been any trouble.

Ald. Potts moved that the amount asked for $51,047 be approved.

Ald. Lively said that if the Chief of Police or his deputy had been in evidence last Saturday to direct the men, there would have been no riot. The Chief must have known from past experiences that there would be a crowd out on New Year's Eve, and should have been on hand.

Ald. McLeod said they had no adequate police protection on the West Side.

Ald. McGoldrick scored the police force. He thought it rather strange that with 41 police officers in the city, nobody had been arrested on New Year's.
