Prof. Anthony's Address.

Prof. Anthony, of Bates' College, Lewiston, Me., and representing the general Free Baptists of the world as well as the Free Baptists of Maine, was introduced by Rev. G. A. Hartley, D. D., and addressed the conference, expressing his pleasure at being present, and bringing heartfelt greetings from his people. He brought an invitation from the world's general Free Baptist conference, asking that we should join in affiliation with them in all branches of their Christian work, because in union there was strength and because often in numbers there was more zeal, and also that the host of Free Baptists might be accounted in one year book giving inspiration for greater things. It would also give the ministerial students of this conference, attending Free Baptist colleges in the United States a share in the general Free Baptist conference.

Marysville, Oct. 6-At the Free Baptist conference last evening, Rev. F. G. Francis, from the nominating committee, submitted the following report:

One hundred and fifteen churches reported this year, being eight more than last rear.

The reporting churches have 9001 members. The non-supporting churches are 41 with an estimated membership of 3,000, making a total of 12,000 members.

There are 223 baptisms reported, 27 more than last year; 36 churches reporting revivals.

Marysville, Oct. 7-The Free Baptist

Prof. Anthony was then heard in explanation of the invitation of the General Free Baptist Conference of the United States, that this conference should unite with them, urging that because of history, dootrines, aims and spirit the union should take place. The tendency of the times was towards co-operation as a means to more successful work.

It would not mean any change in method or doctrine, but would be an inspiration because the aims of all were one.

Already in foreign missions they were united. Why not in all other ways? The larger the body, the more economically
