S OWN TABLETS

The baby who is always plump, always has a good appetite, always has a clear eye and a rosy cheek and is sys active and playful is the choicest treasure this life affords.

the medicine which keeps babies in such a condition or which restores them to it when they are ill is rtainly a priceless boon to humanity. There are many medicines which produce sleep but their action upon the and is similar to that which whiskey or opium has upon a full grown man.

They deaden and stupefy and are the most injurious thing which can be given to children. The only safe course is to use Nature's own remedies. Nature has provided a vegetable cure for every ill and her remedies for children's disorders are found scientifically compounded in Dr. Williams' prescription, Baby's Own Tablets.

FOR DIARRHOEA.

Constipation, colic, fever, croup, irritation when teethng, indigestion, sleeplessness and all the childish disorders so familiar to mothers this remedy is conceded the medical profession to be without an equal.

In hundreds and thousands of homes this remedy used to the exclusion of all others. Its effect is gentle and soothing, promptly curative and never failing. It should have a place of honor in every home where there are children and it will prove its worth many times over. It will save pain, anxiety, doctors' ills and perhaps a life.

You will find Baby's Own Tablets at all druggists they will be sent direct to any address postpaid upon

SEVENTY-FIVE POUND COD.

Big One Sets the Dealers Talking -- One Hundred and Thirty-six the Best.

Boston, Jan. 3-A 75-pound codfish caught last week from the little fishing steamer Vigilant, off Provincetown, was heralded far and wide as the king of the cod tribe, as one of the largest, if not the largest fish of its kind ever found in these waters or in the vicinity of Massachusetts

A letter was received here yesterday om J. J. O'Neill, of Provincetown, in hich he says: "I had a codfish landed co on my wharf a month ago by Captain Wareham, of the sloop Carrie Tyler, that weighed when dressed 63 pounds, or about 85 pounds alive. I have bought many that exceeded the weight of the fish landed by the steamer Vigilant."

a fish weighing 122 pounds had been received at his warehouse, and that within the last five years several exceeding 100 pound had been bought. The same story was told by other dealers, who all claimed that a 75-pound cod was not un-

Further investigation revealed the fact that the report of the United States commission on fisheries reported the capture of a codfish in 1886 off George's Banks, 50 or 60 miles from Cape Cod, by Captain Stephen Mar, of Gloucester, which weighed when dressed 136 pounds. Other cases of codfish weighing 130, 122 and 111 pounds were also given.

Philadelphia, Jan. 7.—The Spanish stmr. Ballasteros I, from Bilbao via Meteghan, N. S., with iron ore, which arrived here yesterday, reports having emoounted heavy weather during the entire voyage

[Concluded.] "If only Uncle Dick comes back," she kept saying, 'but he doesn't mind rain a bit, and he's mad about golf." "I'm afraid you are very wet," said I. "I don't mind that," she faltered, "here mes the train." We hastened on board. The car was filled with men, women and golf sticks, but no nice, elderly gentleman, with hook nose, such as Miss Sands decribed. However, he might be in the smoking car, and leaving Miss Sands be-

"It must be father. Yes, he was going with Uncle Dick, I remember, and he must shall I do?"

"I know your uncle slightly," said I; "he's your mother's brother, R. M. Hastings, isn't he?" She nodded.

"We're graduates of the same college, and sat side by side at the fraternity dinner ast week. He's a jolly old chap. I didn't | Sands." see your father there."

"He's a Harvard man." "Ah," said I, "Miss Sands, I am going back if you will excuse me, I think I see a olution." As I reentered the smoker, Mr. Hastings looked up and nodded, cordially, "Glad to see you, sir," said I; "been at

"No," said I, "too tame after football; hat always will be the only game for me."
"Humph!" said Sands, "I don't believe n too much athletics. Young men went to college to be educated in my day." "Nonsense Jack. Football is science."

are you coming?" "Oh, my dinner!" murmured Mr. Hastings, following obediently.

"Yes, mamma is better," said Bess, as we sat hand in hand upon the beach two months later and thought platitudes about the sea. It was a golden day, and I was sure she loved me, in spite of my peeling nose. Of course I was sure, but I asked her, nevertheless.

"Don't be silly," said she, running the sand through her fingers. "What's the matter? Nobody's looking.

What is it?' For she continued to stare reflectively at a pile of rocks to the left, from which rose a thin line of smoke. "It must be that adorable little boy who calls you 'my beau.' He's very entertaining. Let's go see."

I followed obediently. She really detests little boys. But with Bess the only method is patience, and—well, she has not been herself since she returned from Europe. But no little boy was building a fire.

Bess produced from her blouse, where she carries everything, a number of letters, which she fingered lingeringly.

"I have here," she continued, "six different versions of your affair with Miss "Feminine versions?"

"Feminine versions. Miss Lambert's is the best." "I have nothing to say."
