CRITICISM DELAYED TOO LONG.

The silence of the Liberal press throughout the province is perhaps as remarkable as the plain speaking of The Toronto Globe and The Ottawa Free Press. It looks as if many newspapers that are not unfriendly to the government would be rather relieved if the burden of supporting it any longer was taken off their shoulders. The Woodstock Sentinel-Review comments on this apathy, and gives its own opinion. It sees some faults in the government, and declares that the refusal to hold an election in North Renfrew can hardly be justified by honest Liberals, "who remember how severely such violations of constitutional practice were criticised." On the whole, however, it is not disposed to abandon the government to its fate, and it wants its Liberal contemporaries to speak their minds. Their silence is a mistake, "for the constant clamor raised by the opposition leaders and their newspaper allies is having a decided effect on public opinion."

If the Liberal press six months ago had demanded the issue of the North Renfrew writ, it would have done a good thing for the government. But it must be said that governments are not usually grateful for these services and the candid friend receives little encouragement.

STILL DRIFTING

A week has passed since the Globe declared that the Ontario Government must be reformed and re-organized, and that the ship could not be allowed to drift. "A negative attitude and an uncertain control would give opportunity to corporate and capitalist plunderers to feed fat on the public domain. And from the party point of view, to drift would be the part of fools for the day of reckoning would come, a day of swift and certain judgment."

The Government is drifting. None of the reforms advocated by the Globe have been begun. The barnacles have not been treated with an iron hand. The Government shows not the slightest intention of responding to the Globe's appeal. Its attitude seems to be one of sullen defiance of public opinion. Condemned alike by the Conservative Independent and the Liberal press of the province, with a popular majority against it, with the by-elections going against it, it can have no hope of ultimate recovery. But it can delay the final stroke, and of the power of delay it is availing itself to the utmost. North Renfrew has now been vacant a year and a half, and the case pending in the courts will be delayed as long as possible.

The Globe has not followed up its attack of last Monday, but it has gone too far to recede. It has declared not only that the Government is infested with parasites and barnacles, but that it is incompetent. It has declared that it is the first duty of Ontario Liberals "to give Ontario a vitalized and truly practical and comprehensive educational service, to secure the public domain for the public benefit, to husband the resources of the province against wanton waste and unjust private monopoly, to man public offices with efficiency and integrity of service—in a word, to give the province a thoroughly competent, aggressive and honest business administration."

As Mr. Whitney has pointed out, this is an admission that Ontario has not now a practical educational service, that the resources of the province are not protected against waste and monopoly, that public offices are not efficiently and honestly manned, and that the province has not a competent, honest and aggressive business administration. Either the campaign literature of the last few years is a bundle of falsehoods, or mortification has set in with a vengeance. The Globe cannot break the force of its own indictment, nor can the Government do more than delay the inevitable collapse. One would imagine that even another general election would be more tolerable than a session in which the condemnation of its own friends would be dinned into the Government's ears day after day. From the public standpoint, it is surely bad for the province to be in the hands of a Government that has lost the confidence of its own friends. The sooner it goes the sooner the inevitable reconstruction will begin.—Toronto World.

Distress After Eating

Nausea between meals, belching, vomiting, flatulence, fits of nervous headache, pain in the stomach, are all symptoms of dyspepsia, and the longer it is neglected the harder it is to cure it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Radically and permanently cure it—strengthen and tone the stomach and other digestive organs for the natural performance of their functions.

Accept no substitute for Hood's. "My appetite was gone; nothing tempted me to eat, and what little I did eat felt annoying and unpleasant in my stomach. I tried many remedies without any benefit whatever. Finally, Hood's Sarsaparilla having been recommended, I began its use. After taking one bottle my stomach would retain food, and my appetite began to improve. After taking three bottles I was completely cured." William Ross, Wellington street, Sarnia, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

What is said to be a new world's record in long-distance train running has just been made in the Baltimore and Ohio road out in Ohio and Indiana, where 128 miles were covered without stops in 125 minutes. In the course of the run a speed of 85 miles an hour was reached, and much of the distance was run at the rate of 70 and 75 miles an hour.

Shortly after he was elected President of France, M. Loubet offered a large sum for the Castle of Mezeze, which once belonged to Diana of Poitiers, the favorite of Henry II. His offer was refused at the time, but recently he succeeded in getting the castle, which is most picturesquely situated, near Montargis, and has a waterfall, three ponds filled with trout, and a large park with plenty of game. The price paid was one hundred and seventy thousand francs. From his tower the President can now see his birthplace, Marsanne, where his mother still lives.

When the North German Lloyd steamship "Kaiser Wilhelm II." reached New York recently and disembarked her cabin passengers at Hoboken, one of them, a United States citizen, addressing himself to a policeman on the pier, caused him to arrest a fellow-traveler, also a United States citizen, on a charge of swindling, the fraud, according to the accusation, having been perpetrated by means of unfair play at cards during the voyage across the Atlantic. The officer, after having conveyed his prisoner to police headquarters, subsequently arraigned him before the acting recorder. The latter informed the prisoner of his rights, and the matter, and referred him to the United States commissioner, who also declined to deal with the case, on the ground that it was beyond the competence of the Federal court. The prisoner, however, was communicated with the German consul-general at New York, and on receiving from him an intimation that he knew of no prisoner, were obliged to set the latter at liberty, much to the disgust of the plaintiff, who complained that he and some of his friends had been victimized to the tune of some ten thousand dollars.

A Story of Pius X.

In Tombola an amusing story is told of the present Pope and the mourners' candles. A wealthy resident of Tombola died, and his funeral ceremony was the most elaborate ever known in that humble village. A great many mourners were hired, whose office was to bear the lights of the funeral procession, and the progress of the candles was carefully watched. The candles were of the clearest wax, and the men in size, having been specially brought from Venice for the occasion. Thus far had never been seen in Tombola their size exceeding even the large candles on the church altar. During the solemn procession the Don Giuseppe, now Pius X., noted how often the candles were extinguished. He could not account for it, as the day was a still one. He watched an old woman nearest to him, and saw her furtively blow out the candle which her right arm could scarcely carry. "How did you come to put out that candle, Giacomina?" he queried sternly. The crone turned a properly sorrowful face to him, replying: "My tears have put it out; they fell on the flame." The excuse caught Don Giuseppe's sense of humor. "Well," said he, free of the fine taper, "see that your tears fall to the left of you after this." The old woman's light held out to the grave though no doubt it seemed a pity not to save as much of the candle as she could use in her home.

Football Tactics in the Ballroom.

The American Society of Professors of Dancing, which recently met in New York, has decreed that football tactics on the ballroom floor must stop. There must be no more "Yale glides," no "Harvard dips," nor distorted attempts to tread a measure in two-four time when the music calls for three beats in a bar. The dancing of the two-step to waltz time and the grotesque positions assumed by the dancers are evils attributed to the college fads that have vitiated the public taste. "Some of these students," said one professor, "invent a series of Simian contortions and football tactics and give it a college name, and the public thinks it is all right because the college men do it. Now, we want to stop all this, and bring dancing back to the old style of graceful carriage and enabled the dancers to express the beauty of motion to music. A majority of the people now seem to dance a two-step to waltz music. This is not right. The two-step is easier to teach, as it is in common time, and dancing it to waltz music is not a correct movement." Attention was also drawn to the neglect in the large cities of the old square dances, which are still taught in the smaller cities.

GET SURE RELIEF

They Use Dodd's Kidney Pills for the Troubles Brought on by Their Work

They Profit by the Experience and Advice of Mr. Low Dake, of the Dake House, St. Thomas—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

St. Thomas, Ont., Nov. 15.—(Special)—Mr. L. Dake, the well known proprietor of the Dake House here and one of the most popular men in this railway district, is completely cured of Backache and Kidney Disease of five years standing and he has no hesitation in stating that the cure was effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Yes," Mr. Dake says speaking of this cure, "I am perfectly satisfied that the two or three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, as I have not been troubled by my Kidneys since I took them."

"I had been troubled with my Kidneys and pains in my back for over five years and nothing I used gave me any relief till I took the advice of a friend and tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. I advise all my friends to try them."

Many of the railroad men have taken Mr. Dake's advice and are using Dodd's Kidney Pills. This work is particularly hard on the Kidneys and they find Dodd's Kidney Pills bring them sure relief.

"While picnicking with a crowd in the country the other day," says The Joplin News-Herald, "Arch Shadac accidentally dropped his watch in a spring, and quite naturally it has since refused to run. He took the time-piece to a jeweller, and the following conversation ensued:

"Here's my watch; can you fix it?"
"What's the matter? Did you break the spring?"
"No; the spring broke the watch."

"The man wondered, but proceeded to examine the injured article."
"The spring is broken," he finally announced.

"No wonder," said Arch; "I dropped the watch in it!"
"It began to dawn upon the jeweller that the young man was certainly insane, and just as he was glancing round for some avenue of escape Arch explained the situation."
