Langdon Ideal Automatic Self Feeder

Equip your Separator with a LANGDON Ideal Self Feeder. Its automatic governing system absolutely prevents stalling, choking and overloading the cylinder. Mechanically produces results almost human in action.

It Ably Takes the Place of Men

The LANGDON Ideal Automatic Feeder cuts down cost, eliminates help, increases feed, speed and life of the separator. It feeds the separator as if by hand. Wet, tangled or stack burnt grain always offers greater resistance. The LANGDON Feeder checks the intermatch, every bundle must be thoroughly divided and separated before it can pass to the threshing cylinder. You will need the LANGDON this year. It is the one safe way of overcoming the shortage of labor problem. Complete lines of repairs always kept in stock. You can depend upon Cushman Service.

PEERLESS PERFECTION

For Those Broad Acres

Vanstone & Rogers

We have, we believe, landed the best bunch of Belgian Mares that has ever come to Canada. These mares include a Top Mare that won 12 Grains at 12 different State Fairs, and several of her daughters. We have also landed a splendid lot of Clydesdale Mares and shall have Percheron Mares in shortly.

We are pricing these mares cheap for cash and do not want to winter any of them as we are short of feed. We have an exceptional lot of yearlings and two year olds as well as a full line of older horses. Anyone wanting an exchange, or wishing to purchase, should write us at once. We can deal with you much better in the fall than in the spring. Arrange time on any station sale.

though this may at first sight seem a weakness in co-operative organization it is not really so, for there are so many checks on prices owing to the work of the statistics bureau and the butter quotations committee, and there is such keen competition amongst the wholesalers that the creameries had no difficulty in obtaining the top price. For that reason they do not feel it necessary to market the great bulk of their butter through export societies. But should there be in the future any necessity to do so, they have the beginnings of an organization at their hand to deal with export for themselves. This consists of the Butter Export Unions which are federations of exporting creameries for the purpose of direct sale to the English markets. There are only about half a dozen in number at present, but they do quite a respectable trade, having handled in 1915 about $55,000,000 worth of butter, that is to say one-fifth of the total export. These unions increase the competition among the wholesalers so that now the middle profits of the latter are very small. They have had also another important effect. All Danish butter is sold f.o.b. at the Copenhagen quotation so that this figure is of great importance as can readily be seen. Before the unions started the wholesalers' quotation was a rule slightly below the quotation which the creameries fixed on the advice of the quotations committee. The export unions, however, always accepted the creameries' quotation with the result that the wholesalers had to follow their example and the creamery quotation now holds the field. The presence of six unions is quite sufficient to ensure that this uniformity of price should continue. The unions, moreover, help the quotations committee with their advice in making their prices as accurate as possible.

Influence of Technical Education

By the organized system of technical and continuation schools the Danes have not only made it possible to have perhaps the best-trained creamery managers in Europe, but they have made a peasantry which was not more than usually individual into a well educated rural community. The educational zeal of the Danish people has had its effect on the co-operative movement. Just as the co-operative movement has stimulated education so has the educational system by the force of action and reaction had its effect on the technical skill of co-operators.

In this country we are more particularly concerned with the technical aspect of Danish education. Not only is dairying taught in special schools, but in several of the rural high schools it forms a regular part of the curriculum. Courses are given in milk testing and bookkeeping for butter-makers, and in the schools of agriculture a thorough course is given to students who desire to qualify as creamery experts. A state subsidized technical dairymery education and its grants are administered either through the Danish agricultural society or through the county councils. This enables people of small means to qualify themselves through the agricultural schools for good positions as creamery managers or inspectors.

TO GRAIN GROWERS AND DEALERS

Mr. Robson, the North American representative of the firm which purchases all the cereal products for Great Britain and her European allies, has informed the board of grain supervisors that it is essential that the flow of grain to the Allies be maintained steadily and that if the supply for any one month is short the consequences will be serious. Further, Mr. Robson has informed the board that the Admiralty has placed vessels at his disposal on the Atlantic seaboard to be loaded with wheat during the current month of August. It is necessary, therefore, that he secure as much as possible of what remains of Canadian wheat. The board has issued an order prohibiting the export of Canadian wheat for the balance of the present crop without the permission of the board. The great majority of grain growers and grain dealers in Canada have loyally co-operated with the board in this respect and have sold their grain either to Canadian mills or to the wheat export company. The board earnestly requests the full and cordial cooperation of owners of wheat in Canada in this important matter, so that the quantity of wheat required for the loading of the vessels provided will be secured and a steady supply of grain to Great Britain and her Allies in Europe maintained.—ROBERT MAGILL, Chairman of the Board.
