Climate In Chicago. What makes Chicago a summer resort is the fact that its hot spells are of short duration and that they alternate with seasons of refreshing coolness, but this is also a reason for special care in our living habits during the summer. The people of some climates need to change their habits at the most twice a year, but in Chicago they occasionally need to change them twice $12.00 Going $18.00 Returning in a day. This instability of the temperature, while it is something that we would not for any consideration part with, is at the same time a source of danger to many and suggests that our people, where they can afford it, ought to keep some means of re-enforc-ing their clothing always at hand. One ride on a street car in thin clothing when there is a lake breeze has proved the last ride of a great many Chicago people.—Chicago Chronicle.

"I feel as if I should fly to pieces."

"I feel as if I should fly to pieces."
How often those words are on a woman's lips. They express to the uttermost the nerve racked condition of the body, which makes life a daily martyrdom.

If this condition had come suddenly it would have been unbearable, But the transition was gradual. A little more strain each day on the nerves, A little more drain each day of the vitality. Any woman would be glad to be rid of such a condition, Every woman tries to be rid of it. Thousands of such women have been cured by Dr. Pierce's treatment with his "Favorite Prescription," when local doctors had entirely failed to cure.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no pium, cocaine or other narcotic.

Success often means the ease with which principle was put aside.

It is just barely possible that the woman who wouldn't marry the best man on been asked to leave her happy home for him.

Some people are honest because it is troublesome to be otherwise.

If poverty is a blessing in disguise, the disguise is so perfect that you would never suspect it.

Never judge a man by his clothes. He may have another suit at home, but the chances are, of course, that he

One trade that follows the flag is naturally the fighting trade.

It makes the man who is afraid he will yield to temptation sore if none is thrown in his way.

The man who invented the fountain pen has just died, but the fellows who invent words to fit the occasion when it won't work are still with us.

When a girl is about sixteen, she thinks the reason all men do not work at soda fountains is because they can not get the jobs.

It is a thrilling and joyous sight to see a dignified man who is some pumpkins at home trying to push his way through the crowds in a strange city.

Scmetimes a man does not see an opportunity that almost bumps into him because a pretty girl is passing on the other side of the street.

After a man has learned the ways of the world it doesn't increase his opinion of the world to any alarming extent.

All In the Business.

The drummer in the country town Speaks highly of the little place. He thinks that when he settles down And quits the high, nerve killing pac That he will take his child and wife And settle with them in the woods— In fact, be one of them for life, Because he wants to sell them goods.

He thinks their water is the best
That he has tasted anywhere,
And he has traveled east and west
And knows the finest draft is there.
He doesn't drink it to excess
If amber fluid is not shy,

But he is willing to express Opinions that will make them buy.

The girls, he thinks, are far more fair
Than in the next jerkwater town;
The men are handsome, true and
square;
The scenery should bring renown;
The town a future great will find,
Has prospects, any one could tell,
Forgetting not to keep in mind
That he is there with goods to sell.

When he goes home he says, alas,
That life is dull and commonplace
Out in the tall and uncut grass.
He doesn't say it to their face—
Oh, no; he lies with might and main
To make the business come his way
While longing for a friendly train
So he can make his get-away. Saw Her First.

"She never kissed a man in her life." "She doesn't know what she has "Possibly, but the men know what they haven't."

Knew the Marks. "The girls cannot fool him in regard to their ages."

"No?" "He is on to all of the latest wrinkles."

To juggle the railroads out of a fare;
You can beat them for money, marbles o chalk.
Would you know how to do the trick!
Well, walk.

Acrobatic Feat. "He thinks he is eligible to member ship in the turners' society."
"On what grounds?" "He always turns his cuffs."

Wins the Jobs. "She is fitting herself for a position to apply for a job as typewriter." "Patronizing a shorthand school?" "No, a beauty doctor."

Things that are free are little worth—
At least so we are told—
But, oh, the only thing on earth
Worth having is not sold;
The lover's kiss is always Tree,

Why She Hitched Up. "What in the world did she ever macry that man for?"
"Well, she thought he would be s good man to tie to."

Skilled Designers Produce Ives' Metal Beds.

The production of beautiful aesigns in metal is a fine art distinct from all other branches of decorative work. It requires the highest kind of metal-working skill and a most complete equipment of appliances.

The H. R. Ives Co. have all the skilled metal artists and the means of producing such goods and that is why Ives Metal (Brass and Iron) Beds are so artistic in design and so handsomely wrought. An Ives Brass Bed is a beautiful creation, one that will be a source of satisfaction to its owner for a lifetime—ask your dealer for an Ives Metal Bed.

According to Scripture. A certain tailor of very strict prin-ciples was in the habit of excusing the faults of his assistants only in they could justify themselves by Scripture. One day a woman entered his shop and asked to see some material, but refused to buy it because it was too cheap. After showing her some other the assistant brought back the same material, this time asking a higher price, whereupon the customer bought it. Afterward, the proprietor, who had witnessed the transaction, reproved his assistant severely. The lat-ter, remembering the rules of the establishment, replied: "Oh, it's according to Scripture all right. She was a stranger and I took her in."

Diarrhoea

MAY attack you at any time of the year, but it is more prevalent during the summer months. When this trouble attacks you, it does not pay you to experiment with untried remedies, but always procure one that has stood the test of time. Such a one is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It has been on the market for 60 years and is considered by thousands of people as the best cure for all bowel complaints.

MRS. WILFRID TOMLINSON, Victoria Harbor, Ont., writes: "I always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house, knowing from past experience that it is a sure and efficient remedy in diarrhoea and kindred bowel complaints."
