In Russia the latest speeches delivered by Lloyd George have been censured and Lloyd George is a gentleman compared with Keir Hardie and Grayson. These two last named patriots seem to make it their business to foment trouble wherever they go and their chief ambition in life apparently is to put constitutional authority out of business.

Constitutional authority in Great Britain has done a good deal for the world as well as for the empire and these men, in their efforts to upset it, are engaged in a work that deserves the condemnation of all level headed, right thinking people. Reformation of many existing conditions in Great Britain as well as the world generally may be much desired, but reformation as these men would work it by revolutionary methods, is not what is wanted or what is necessary.

Put Lloyd George at the head of a government and Keir Hardie and Grayson, M. P., members of his cabinet would be about as fit a revolution as if Mount Hope, or its inmates were given charge of a government of the empire. We have no faith either in their honesty or sanity.

FREE SPEECH.

While there is something magnificent about the principle of the liberty of the subject as we see it exemplified in British practice, there is also something in it that is highly disquieting. Free speech is one of the privileges guaranteed to every man in Great Britain, and is a privilege that is taken full advantage of. No where else in the world would it be possible for men and women to openly attack constitutional authority as they do in London, and remain unpunished.

The latest illustration of this sort of thing comes in recent news from England telling of socialist and labor gatherings in London, when thousands of these people marched to Trafalgar Square and endeavored to make a demonstration in front of the Spanish embassy in protest at the execution of Professor Ferrer.

Red flags bordered with crepe were numerous, and fronting Nelson's monument was a great placard containing the words 'To hell with the murderer, Alfonso.' The Countess of Warwick, she of the babbling brook fame, lent her aid to the movement by sending a telegram of sympathy, and we read Mr. Greason, a socialist member of parliament for Manchester, in a wild flight of socialist oratory, declared that 'if the head of every King in Europe was torn from his body it would not pay half the price of Ferrer's life.' The Russian Emperor he classed as a dirty monster, and of King Edward he said that he could have prevented the execution and that he would be responsible for whatever might happen in England as a result of it.

Some years ago great freedom was given to the people in the matter of free speech and it was an unconcomon thing to hear the authorities denounce in most extreme language by men whose sole object was to incite public feeling and to work misguided men up to the murder point. Then came the hay market riots in Chicago, and the troops made an end to these lunatics, and since then our quick witted American cousins have not been willing to permit such freedom of speech.

In London the custom has been to let the people talk, trusting to the incomparable efficiency of the London police to keep the mobs within bounds and prevent any blood letting. There is no doubt, but that the London policemen is a wonderful power, but who can say just when the time will come that the mob worked into unreasoning frenzy by leaders will break the spell of police authority and gratify its passion for revenge and blood.

In Russia the latest speeches delivered by Lloyd George have been censured and Lloyd George is a gentleman compared with Keir Hardie and Grayson. These two last named patriots seem to make it their business to foment trouble wherever they go and their chief ambition in life apparently is to put constitutional authority out of business.

Found in the Traveler's Grip. The means by which he cured a very severe case of piles.

Very many traveling salesmen know what it is to suffer from itching piles and will read with interest the following letter:

Dear Mr. J. Saunders, salesman for the Sawyer, Massey Co., and who lives at Killarney, Man., states: 'After having suffered for three years with a very bad case of piles a friend recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment and I cannot speak too highly of same. After having used two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment I can truthfully say that I am cured of piles, and am entirely free from itching piles. It seems to have no rival in this regard and the record of cures is simply wonderful.'

Nearly any druggist can tell you of scores of cures that have come to his notice. Some of these effected even after surgical operations had failed. 50 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Broken Promises. 'Yes, I would like one of your pictures ever so much. I haven't any of myself at present to exchange, but expect to have some taken soon, and then I'll remember you.'

'Now be honest. To how many people have you told this old, old story? And how long ago were some of those promises made?'

'Count them up carefully, then write in as not enough returns to "square" yourself.'

'After keeping your friends waiting so long, it might be advisable to get something extra good.'

'We have it.'
