PARIS, Nov. 7.—The French took German prisoners on a front of four kilometers (2½ miles) extending from the Wood to the southeast of Ablaincourt, says an official statement issued by the war office to-night. Villages of Ablaincourt and Poutna Rivers. We have arrested within two days 7 machine gun officers and 800 men. On the Caucasus front we repulsed the Turks and captured the village of Aymur to the east of Katku. We have arrested Turkish offensive in the direction of Redjar. No change occurred on the

ISLAND OF LEROS OCCUPIED.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Entente Allied forces have occupied the arsenal and Island of Leros, one of the Sporades off the coast of Asia Minor, according to a despatch from Athens.

RUSSIAN CAPTURE.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 7.—In the region east of Keshli, the Transylvanian front, says a Russian statement from the headquarters, a Russian attack resulted in the dismounting of two enemy guns and the capture of trenches with 100 prisoners and two machine guns. South of Dorna Watra, says the statement, we continue our successful operations in the Valley of the Danube and Poutna Rivers. We captured within two days 7 machine gun officers and 800 men. On the Caucasus front we repulsed the Turks and captured the village of Aymur to the east of Katku. We have arrested Turkish offensive in the direction of Redjar. No change occurred on the

The Hat All-Important.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The Best Dressed Woman I know came into my yard the other morning with a hat box. "Want to see my new hat?" she asked.

There ever a woman who didn't want to see a new hat? The other feminine members of the family, scenting excitement, flocked about her.

The Best Dressed Woman carefully untied the tape and produced the hat. It was a beauty—tiny, smart, graceful, and of an odd color and unusual material. A single, stunning little ornament was the only trimming.

But He Would Be Much Mistaken. It was the kind of thing a man would expect to cost two or three dollars because it was so simple.

The Best Dressed Woman put the hat on. Immediately it became more charming.

When we had raved for several minutes, someone said: "I thought you told us the war had affected your husband's business."

The Best Dressed Woman laughed. "It has," she said, "and since you ask me point blank, I paid twenty dollars for the hat."

We opened our eyes in astonishment. Twenty dollars for a hat may spell poverty in some circles, but it doesn't in ours.

Instead of a New Suit.

"My dear, this hat takes the place of a suit," she explained. "I was due for a suit this year, but I had to have a hat and shoes and some other things. At first I was going to try and scrimp and get them all in, and then I decided that I'd go without a new suit."

and put it into the hat and shoes. I studied it out and I've come to the conclusion that they are the things that count the most. You see a woman's hat before you see anything else and remember it longer. It's a frame for her face. If a woman has a well-tailored, conservative suit and a chic hat and smart-looking feet, she makes a much better all-round impression than a woman in an expensive, up-to-the-minute suit, if her hat is commonplace and her feet are unattractively shod."

She Was Still "The Best Dressed Woman"

"Wait," finished the Best Dressed Woman, "until you see my shoes." I saw her yesterday on the trolley. Her last year's suit was pressed and freshened. She wore the hat and the shoes, and she deserved her title.

Perhaps some of the women who cannot find money for a fresh outfit this season will find her clothes philosophy interesting.

A Reply to the "Hymn of Hate."

London Chronicle: Most of us have heard of the "Hymn of Hate," and of how the British and French troops quickly learnt it, and then astonished the Germans by yelling it triumphantly back to them across the waste land between. At a well-known and popular seaside resort the other day the band was asked as a favor to play it to the audience, who were curious to know what it was like. The band did so, and at the end a notice was put up, bearing the words "Our reply." Everybody, naturally enough, got ready to stand up, expecting to hear the National Anthem, but were much astonished and amused when the band began to play, softly and tenderly, "Two Lovely Black Eyes!"

Who Obeys in Married Life.

Washington Post: It is not provided in the marriage ceremony that the husband shall obey the wife, but somehow or other it usually works out that way. He may not think he is doing it, but he usually does. And as for the wife, if she obeys her husband it is usually a mark of respect to her tact and diplomacy rather than recognition of any right he may have. The problem of successful marriages goes much deeper than vows or promises at the outset of the great adventure. It is largely a matter of character, and it is not likely to be changed by the omission of the word "obey." Nor would it be changed if the man promised everything and the woman promised nothing. The growing number of divorces indicates that something is wrong, but the cause is not to be found in the wording of the marriage ceremony.

THE GERMAN PECKSNIPF.
Westminster Gazette: "I weep for your depravity, sir," said Mr. Pecksnip when he took farewell of Martin Chuzzlewit. "I mourn over your corruption, I pity your voluntary withdrawal from the flowery paths of purity and peace." Martin was as little affected by the condemnation as Dr. Woodrow Wilson will be by the line taken by the German Pecksnip. But we have kept to the last, crowning Pecksnipianism. "It is a pity," said the Crown Prince, "that all cannot be gentlemen and sportsmen even if we are enemies." We do not pretend that at any time we have ever had any great admiration for the Crown Prince, but this new pose is a thousand times worse than his old role of fire-eater. We none of us want the war to last a second more than is necessary, but we are none the less resolved to be put off with no German peace, such as it is, now desired to secure. We are sure that those who are expected to mediate quite well understand the game that is being played.

THE DEFEATED.

Since all the campaign flags are furled, the last spellbinder's bleated, the saddest thing in this old world is one who was defeated. Until the last he hoped to win; now drearily he hikes it, and wears a weird and wintry grin, and would pretend he likes it. "I did my best while in the game," he says, his eyes a-brimming; "there are no sore spots on my frame, since in the soup I'm swimming." Will he get back to honest toil, to wise and sane endeavor? No! One campaign's enough to spoil a patriot forever. The lust for office in his blood he'll never quit his run, although he meets a nasty thud whenever he goes gunning. To save the dear old spangled flag, and serve the darling people, all through his years he'll chew the rag, on forum, stump and steeple. For weeks and months our weary ears to piffle have been treated; now for the winners we have cheers, and grins for the defeated.

AT THE CRESCENT.

"Beyond the Law," a strong drama of the Canadian Northwest, is the headliner at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day, produced in three reels by the Essanay Company featuring Marguerite Clayton and E. H. Calvert. "The Son," a Lubin Society drama with Octavia Handworth. "Miss Sticky-Mouth-Kiss," a Vitagraph-Drew Comedy with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew. Professor McCarthy playing the newest and best music; Douglas J. Stewart featuring the latest English song successes. Go to the Crescent to-day, the show is fine.

A Pay-Your-Bills Week

"We have a good many 'Weeks' nowadays—'Baby Week,' 'Old Home Week,' 'Clean-Up Week'—and the danger is that we shall have too many. But the town of Rock Hill, South Carolina, through its Chamber of Commerce, has added a week that is in every sense an excellent addition. It is a week when everybody is urged to pay his bills," says Collier's Week.

"To those who have a financial conscience and the proper moral responsibility for debts incurred in this may seem, at first glance, unnecessary; but all tradesmen and merchants, to say nothing of professional men, know how widely needed is such an urging of the public conscience. And Rock Hill gets out a 'stamp' that it affixes to every envelope during that week and prior to it. It is printed in black and red."

Mother! Don't Take Chances If Child's Tongue Is Coated

If cross, feverish, sick, bilious, clean little liver and bowels.

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Fads and Fashions.

Evening slippers are in two tones. The great preference seems to be for the straight line silhouette. The smartest collars are finished around the edge simply with a hem. Occasionally mink, that old standby, is seen in small furs and coats. Velours de laine is a good material for the suit for many occasions. Jumper or smock blouses are Russian in style and richly trimmed with fur. A white blouse gains much distinction with striped blue collar and cuffs. The shoe with top of gray buckskin and vamp of black leather is very smart.
