The Fatal Chair.

Preparations for the Electrocutions at Sing Sing.

A "Comfortable Looking" In strument of Death.

Capable of Killing Twenty-Five Mer in an Hour.

The Deadly "Figure Four"-The Code of

NEW YORK, July 6-8 a.m.-The execution has not taken place at Sing Sing. The warden is not at the prison.

The chair in which the condemned men

The chair in which the condemned men will suffer the death penalty is substantial as well as comfortable looking. It is conceeded with the dynamo and was designed by Captain Hilbert, the prison machinist. The seat is broad, and the back, on which a heavy head-rest is constructed, has a slight curve above the rest, and fastened so the back by a long strip is which is intended to rest on the head of the occupant. It is through the wire in this that the current passes. Besides this there are a number of straps used to secure the prisoner in position after he has taken his seat in the chair. The chair faces the sast, and directly behind it is a low cabinet for the use of the man who turns on the intent, who is thus out of sight of everybody.

The following directions are posted up for the benefit of the operators: Five bells, get ready; one bell, turn on current; two bells, turn on more current; three bells, less current; one bell, shat off current; bells, less current; one bell, sant on current; six bells, all through. Underneath the directions is a little electric bell button, which is pressed to give the signal to the operator. Next the placard is the test switch. This switch turns on the current into a dozen or more meandescent lights at the top of the switch beard and also into the ammeter and voltage. neandescent lights at the top of the switch board and also into the ammeter and voltincter, which are in the side with the reistance box. All these are arranged to test the strength of the current before it is put in operation on the condemned man.
There is another switch by which the current can be directed connected with the wires leading to the chair.
The man at the switchboard, however, can be true the current through the occurant.

The man at the switchboard, however, cannot turn the current through the occupant of the chair. This being entirely the province of the man who stands behind the cabinet and operates the switch located there, by which it is connected directly with the occupant of the chair.

PROUD OF BIS WORK.

Capt. Hilbert, the designer of the chair, is proud of its completeness, and especially if the code of signals. The failure of this in the Kemmler execution was one of the things that made that electrocution such a horrible affair. The captain, in speaking things that made that electrocution such a horrible affair. The captain, in speaking of his device, asserts that it is able to kiil 25 men an hour. He has made an improvement on the arrangement of the electrodes, which differ materially from that of the Kemmler case. In the latter the current was passed directly through the body and heart. The inventor of the Sing Sing chair has a new plan for applying the electricity to the wrists, or to one wrist and an ankle.

SIX CONDENNED MEN.

$500 FOR A VOTE.

A Sarnia Town Councilor Said To Have Been Purchased.

Startling Developments Expected-A Newsy Budget from the Lamb-ton Capital.

"The end justifies the means" seems to be the principle on which some Sarnia men do business. Late developments in the Sarnia Town Council prove the assertion. For some time there has been a division in the council regarding the construction of a fire alarm system. Eight of the councilors have been in favor of contracting with the Boll Telephone Company, and have endeavored to pass a necessary bylaw to give them power to so contract. Seven of the councilors seemingly subject to some outside agency, have opposed every move of the majority. The bylaw was brought up at last week's meeting, and on going to a final vote, it was found that one of the bylaw eight had gone over to the enemy. Therefore, the bylaw was defeated by the treachery of one who had been its supporter on two previous votes. But why did the councilor desert his colors at the last moment? is the question that many people are asking. Was the "almighty dollar" at work? Later developments seem to prove that it was. It is said that the councilor who defeated the bylaw has placed a scaled envelope in the hands of two proment citizens. The envelope is said to contain $500 and a written statement, the latter containing the name of the man who paid the money for the vote. The councilor got frightened, as bribery is a crime, and gave up the money. Now, who will claim the money and therefore face a man who paid the money for the vote.
