The annual meeting of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the First Methodist Church was held Tuesday evening in Wesley Hall. The results of the year's work were most satisfactory and the progress made encouraged the members to renewed effort. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Eaton; first vice-president, Miss Gurd; second vicepresident, Miss Hobbs; recording secretary, Miss M. Stevens; corresponding secretary, Miss Bishop; treasurer, Miss Field; delegate for convention, Miss Fowler, alternative Miss Matthews.

EDMISON --- CHARLTON

A very quiet wedding took place this afternoon at the residence of Mr. John Elliott, 75 Bathurst street, when his second daughter, Alice Elliott Chariton, became the bride of Mr. Geo. Edmison, son of Judge Edmison, of Peterboro. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Johnston, was witnessed only by immediate relatives of the parties. The bride was charmingly gowned in gray. Mr. and Mrs. Edmison left on the afternoon express for a honeymoon in New York and other eastern cities. On their return they will reside in Streetsville, where Mr. Edmison is at the head of a large manufacturing concern.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers have been thrust upon him. Oh no Fight.

But, to drop the gay and flippant (and there's little flippancy in the long-suffering citizens' attitude towards the change), the coaled facts are that anthracite coal was yesterday advanced in price by the local dealers from $7 to $8 per ton. That is, it was advanced by those half-dozen or so dealers who have coal to sell. The price of coal stepped into its Those dealers who have no coal are no immediate need of it. Many people, fearful of a famine, or at least of an inordinately high price, have been ordering one or more tons of coal for immediate delivery. If all these orders were filled, the supply would soon be exhausted, and it is to discourage the placing of rush orders that the dealers have tacked on the extra dollar. "I don't think there's any need to worry," said one coal dealer this morning. "You know, we are in possession of information that the press do not get, and despite the present tone of the dispatches, I think the strike will be settled in three or four weeks at the outside. People really do not need coal for a month or more yet, and by that time there should be a fresh supply. Of course, there will be no surplus this winter, but on the other hand there will be no famine. It will be a sort of hand-to-mouth sup ply, if we may so speak of it.

Were Put Up by Unlicensed Bill-City Engineer Refuses Street Railway Company Permission to Repair.

> City Engineer Graydon has refused to let the London Street Railway Company begin its repairs on the asphalt pavement before the fair. Not that the company yearned to begin before that auspicious event. They would probably be just as well satisfied if they were never allowed to start. But Mr. Graydon doesn't want the pavement torn up while visitors are in town. From this, however, no one need infer that the condition of the pavement on Dundas street east of Wellington will be improved at all. Neither is there any prospect of the beautiful and sensible signs up there being removed. These will still remain as illustration for fair
