REDISTRIBUTION.

The announcement made yesterday by Premier Dunsen that the government would bring down a Redistribution Bill next week, shows that the government does not mean to fight shy of any issue that concerns the country. There are anomalies in the distribution of seats in this province which ought to be resolved. The present government is prepared to remedy them. We only hope that all parties in the House will show a proper appreciation of the interests of the whole community and use moderation and discretion in reference to a necessary and legitimate reform, and will not set aside the first of sectional jealousy and ambition, although by resension of the composition of the opposition we doubt it.

THE DRAFT CONTRACT.

The people of British Columbia now know all about the negotiations between the government and Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann, which have been slowly unfolding since last July. It might be argued that it was hardly proper to bring down such a document as is now in possession of the government, that the right way for such a matter to come down was for the contract was embodied in a Bill for ratification. But whatever the course adopted. Insinuations were freely made in the House and elsewhere that the government had nothing to offer the country in the way of a railway policy, and that the arrangement with Messrs.
Mackenzie & Mann was a mere speculative dodge which had no foundation in fact. The action of the premier in giving the people the full confidence of the government is in line with his character and intentions, and will meet popular approval, even if some might say that strict etiquette had been disregarded.
The government has nothing to be afraid of, and nothing to conceal. To give this draft of the agreement to His Majesty's Legation (we mean Legation) is the slip of the tongue is becoming habitual. Opposition to ponder over, is the throwing a bone with meat on it, to a pack of hungry dogs. The more they wrangle over it, the more they will have to say about it, they cannot convince the people of British Columbia that it does not mean the speedy construction of the road, and the speedy construction of the road under circumstances particularly favorable to British Columbia. The advantages gained by the province are:

1. The speedier construction of the road than otherwise possible.
2. A say in the questions of route and terminus limited only by the physical possibility or impossibility of locating a railway line along the route chosen by the province.
3. The construction of the road from West to East, thus giving to British Columbia trade centres a great advantage they would otherwise lose.
4. The filling up of the country from West to East as the road progresses, thus keeping the incoming population in touch, both in trade relations and more

Piles

To prove to you that Dr.
Chase's Ointment is a cure for hemorrhoids, and absolute cure for each case, we have prepared a booklet, "Hemorrhoids and Piles," which is sent free in the daily press and ask your dealer or Dr. Chase's Ointment Dr. Chase's Ointment

sentimental matters, with their fellow citizens in the province of British Columbia.

These are great and notable advantages, so great that interested criticism will not prevent the people of British Columbia from endeavoring to obtain them. They are so valuable to the province that they are worth paying for and paying heavily for. The indirect return alone would more than counterbalance the outlay. But the cost to the country will only be the interest on the bonds issued, for a certain term of years.
The two per cent. return upon the gross receipts of the line, will reimburse the country for the capital value of the bonds themselves. People only dimly recognize the earning capacity of such a route after it has been thoroughly established. We have no time in the heat of an electoral campaign to go into detail on the resources it will open or the commerce it will stimulate. There will be more time for that later. But the greater and more rapid development, the quicker will the government be relieved from the interest charge, which is the only bonus, by the return of the principal.

Every body knows the character of the opposition and the honest eloquence of its leaders, who agree upon nothing, except to disagree with everyone else.
These leaders first maintained that the government was not in good faith. They have been forced to abandon that ground. They then said that Messrs.
Mackenzie & Mann would not sign the contract. Most of them have signed.
They then said the government was afraid to show the draft of the agreement. The government has shown the draft of the agreement. They are now saying of course that the contract contains flaws of more or less importance. Most of them have signed the contract. The point for the people is, that the government, the people, and the railway men understand each other and that the road is to be built, and built immediately. The importance of this agreement, and its effect upon the growth and prosperity of the whole country is very great, but to the city of Victoria, designated as the terminus of this great railway system, local considerations enlarge the general advantage. To every citizen of Victoria, to her lot owners, business men, and workers, the fact must be pressed home that if this opportunity is lost it may never recur again, and that the city may be compelled forever to foot upon the chaff of subsidy hunters, instead of the solid bread of a comprehensive policy of development and progress.

BODWELL AND CHINESE LABOR.

Mr. B. V. Bodwell, as a public man, as a man demanding the suffrages of the people of Victoria, has frequently taken credit for his exertions in connection with which the name of Mr. R. P.
Rithey is identified. Mr. Bodwell takes credit for anything he does in that connection, he must take the responsibility for all he did. Mr. Bodwell cannot dodge in front of clients when they are credit to be gained and dodge behind them when there is responsibility to be evaded. That description of "Hill and sea" is a game that cannot be played with success. During the negotiations over what is known as the British Pacific, Mr. Rithey and his Victoria friends of whom we think Colonel Prior was and gave way to a Chicago syndicate whose conduct representative in British Columbia was Mr. B. V. Bodwell. Now then, on July 20, 1892, Bodwell wrote to the government that he represented persons in Chicago who he represented were distant three thousand miles, and injustice. With reference to the scheme they have had no opportunity of personal investigation." On June 22, 1892, he wrote that they could not be in Victoria before July 5. Presumably they did not arrive before that date. The letter, which gave evidence we quote in another column, was written by Mr. B. V. Bodwell to the government on the 19th of August, 1892. Does any human being possessed of the power of thought, think that comparative strangers to the province could, between the 5th of the month and the 19th of August, conceive the idea of the people of British Columbia wanting the road so badly that the whole national policy of Chinese restriction in order to obtain it, and would be willing to have it built under conditions that would cost a man a thousand times
