BARNUM'S BIGGEST AND BEST

Over 30,000 People Witness His Great Show Yesterday

A sea of canvas yesterday covered the common at College and Lambie streets, where over 30,000 people witnessed Barum, Bailey & Hutchinson's great show.

Justly termed the veteran showman's biggest and best. It surpassed, by a long way, anything of the kind previously given in this city.

Mr. Barum may have been guilty of humbugging the people in the past, but this charge cannot be brought against him in the present instance, as the show, in all departments, was all that is promised.

On account of the delay in the arrival of the special train, the street procession did not take place until two hours after the time announced.

The thousands who were present along the route were amply rewarded by the extent and magnificence of the spectacle.

The first performance took place in the afternoon. Crowds thronged towards the grounds from 12 o'clock until 2, when there must have been fully 30,000 people.

Under the guidance of Mr. D. S. Thomas, the president of the show, a party made up of representatives of the city newspapers.

Mr. G. F. Reed (Canadian commissioner for the World's fair at Boston) were shown through the various exhibits.

The first tent visited was that containing the museum, where the visitors' gaze was at once directed towards Jumbo.

This famous elephant was surrounded by a crowd of admirers, above whom he towered in all his elephantine gigantism.

Ordinary elephants are but puny things compared with him; in fact, Jumbo is a whole show in himself, and Barum is proud of him.

In the same tent were assembled the most interesting living human curiosities ever placed on exhibition.

There were several wild creatures from Australia, black and ferocious-looking beings. There were six Zulu warriors with a female and child.

The female is quite good looking. There were also a number of Nubians and other weird representatives of the human family, all of whom are genuine.

The museum also contained Col. Graham's famous wild man of Borneo, the baby elephant, and many other curiosities.

The menagerie tent was the next in line on the way to the ring. Here like of which was never before seen in Toronto.

The number and variety of animals that cannot be described.

In the exhibition pavilion was seen a most varied menagerie and interesting performance. There were two rings with an elevated stage between them, besides numerous trapezes, in and on the top.

One thing that the management deserve the thanks of the public for is the suppression of the fence which the other were Thomas Green and John Clark, who were arrested for fighting in Trinity street.

The "candy butcher" was an unknown nuisance yesterday. Another commensurable feature is that the clowns have nothing to say. They create laughter by their amusing antics.

After the grand entrance of the circus, the lady and gentleman riders, for horse chariot, and many of the animals, several of the curiosities were introduced.

This followed an exhibition of trick stunts and poses, which made way for a leaping contest between twenty valeters, an interesting and exciting feat.

Next was a wrestling match in one ring and a fencing match in another, while the stage was occupied by the Elliott children in a remarkable feat on which they attached to their feet.

They followed in rapid succession feats on flying rings, slack wire, barbed wire, acrobatic stunts, and a variety of other feats on flying rings, slack wire, barbed wire, acrobatic stunts, and a variety of other feats.

Women Physicians

From the Toronto Press

From all enlightened countries, and others like East India and Ceylon, which we would class with civilized countries, the demand for women physicians is greatly on the increase.

Whatever ideas thinking mankind hold relative to giving women the same civil and political rights as males, the reflective world seems united on the thought that women, not only are endowed by nature with those qualities which especially fit them for the practice of the medical profession, but that the world needs them.

Often the sensitive woman suffers in torment for years, rather than make her ailments known to a male physician, and where regularly graduated women doctors are not in existence, endurance and a pleasant inspiring magnetism, without which the male physician would be a failure, are required.

In Toronto, Canada, a women's medical college was inaugurated last week, which started with a number of successful students in aid of other similar institutions throughout the Dominion.

The first performance took place in the afternoon. Crowds thronged towards the grounds from 12 o'clock until 2, when there must have been fully 30,000 people.
