The territorial integrity of Dakota ought to be maintained. The political emigrants in that region ought to be given to understand distinctly that this is a fundamental stand distinctly that this is a fundamental condition of any change of its political charter that the nation will grant. Of course, in due time, the national authority will grant to Dakota a new local charter that will give to the inhabitants the privilege of representation in both chambers of the national legislature—the only political privilege of any importance that they do not new possess. But that the national authority will ever grant the prayer of the hungry and thirsty political emigrants for two such charters within the present boundaries of Dakota, the Times cannot believe. The area of Dakota is not too large for any legitimate or honest purpose boundaries of Dakota, the Times cannot believe. The area of Dakota is not too large for any legitimate or honest purpose of local administration. The conditions that led to the establishment of no less than six distinct colonial administrations upon the territery of New England that in our time is net any too large for one, are not found now anywhere within the national boundaries. There is no political or topegraphical or natural or rational reason for the partition project of the office hungry patriots, but there are a thousand velid reasons against it.

Editor World: You say that Gilbert and Sullivan's action in preventing their musical composition Tolanthe being played here is somewhat strange, and that the opera has been performed by the Holmans and other companies without restriction for two seasons. I think you are mistaken. for two seasons. I think you are mistaken.
Last season I was obliged to restrain a company from playing some of Gilbert and Sullivan's operas at the Toronto Zoological gardens, and warned another company not to play at the Hortichitural gardens. On the 14th inst. I wrote the manager of the Holman troups not to produce Iolanthe as I had instructions to prevent it, but no notice was falten of the letter. I had already written the same person twice with reference to the Mikade, which I was instructed the company intended to play, and had no more courteey shown me as far as a reply was concerned.

When I saw by your paper on Monday morning that Iolanthe was to be produced I telegraphed the plaintiff's agent, who wired me to issue an injunction which I did as soon as possible.

few words in reply to An Old Countryman. Why is it that such people are allowed through the columns of the press to vote through the columns of the press to voice their one and two cent grievances. I may be wrong, but it does seem to me that such people would do far better to stop in the old country and get their umbrellas tixed for two pence has penny and their so and so for tip ence, but you will generally find that most of those old countrymen who have you to nome out here to get a living find that most of those old countrymen who have got to come out here to get a living are the very first to find fault with the people and its customs, and run to flaunt their supposed grievances before the public every time they imagine they have been charged a cent or two too much. In conclusion, I do think I re-cho the sentiments of many when I say it would be far better that if such people whe cannot adopt our country and its outcome (by the way, the finest in the world) had far better have remained in the old country. If the Toronto doctors that there will be many more cases of the disease before fall. If the Toronto dootors have so expressed themselves, wall and good; they know their business better than we do. But we take the liberty of questioning the statement. With proper care, the disease should be kept within the house in which it has broken out, as was done in Hemitton when a case was reperted last spring. It is well to stir up the people to take all needed precautions to prevent the spread of the plague, but there can be no consisten for circulating mischlevous reports. The statement telegraphed from Teronto to day is a little toe sweeping, unless the entire medical fraternity of Toronto have been interviewed, which we very much doubt.

A Wise Precaution. During the summer and fall people are liable to sudden attacks of bewel complaints; and with no prompt remedy or medical aid at hand, life may be in danger. Those whose experience has given them wisdom, always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry at hand for prempt relief, and a physician is seidom required.
