THE LORD MAYOR'S BANQUET.

SAZBURY DEFINES BRITAIN'S POSITION PAST AND PRESENT.

Not a Single Speck of Cloud upon the Horizon.

London, Nov. 9.—At the Lord Mayor's banquet at Guildhall this evening Lord Salisbury in the course of his address commented upon the position of the British Empire.

Regarding the position of the British Empire, Lord Salisbury said that the work which Mr. Balfour, the Chief Secretary, had done in that country in the last few years had never done by a statesman. This statement was greeted with cheers.

Continuing, he said: "What we have recently seen in Ireland has not altered our policy, nor has it made us think that a domestic legislature in Ireland would distinguish between peace and abstinence from the use of blackberries, or from freedom from the curse of ecclesiastical domination."

As to foreign affairs, the Premier said there was not a single speck of cloud upon the horizon threatening danger to the peace which prevails. It seemed that the spirit of nations was changing towards industrial competition. The great present question of commerce which expires in 1902.

The tariff question was touching the attention of various nations. With respect to material warfare, Lord Salisbury said he could hold out the most glowing anticipations so far as industrial warfare was concerned, having as a weapon protective legislation, he feared that Great Britain would occupy for some time a peculiar position. The recent elections in America had shown that the slight reaction against protection was not as it was once supposed to be.

Continuing, he said: "The one policy we are able to cite as a free trader is the policy of the longest war. It is not supported here. We shall have the advantage, therefore, before long of being the Athenians of the continent of Europe, and of being the Athenians of the continent of Europe."

England in Egypt. Referring to Egypt he said that the Government was not responsible for the conditions in which it falls. It is a duty which is hers to remain there until the Egyptian Government was strong enough to repel external invasion and to maintain internal discipline. Until that end was attained the Premier declared the Government could not consider England's duty as being to withdraw.

A FIBRE OWING TO A DIBBLE. The Lord Mayor's show in London spoiled by rain.

London, Nov. 9.—The Lord Mayor's show was spoiled to-day by a ceaseless down of rain. The exhibition, which was held at the Crystal Palace, was a success in many respects. It is to be feared that the rain will do much to spoil the show.
