Yesterday The World found him in his tions of the countries on the other side of the Atlantic.

Yesterday The World found him in his office busy at work in his shirt sleeves, and looking the picture of health. "I was in England, Ireland and Scotland and on the Continent," replied Mr. Kennedy when queried. "I was going through the markets on a buying trip; I was not home for pleasure, I can tell you."

"How did you find trade and financial matters there?"

"The condition of business in Eugland at present is considerably disturbed," he replied, "owing to the general elections. But apart from that there are complaints on the part of manufacturers and wholesale houses of the dulness of business generally, arising a good deal from the prostrated condition of the Australian trade, purchasing from that market being greatly cutrailed.

"Now, with regard to the continent of Europe. I found that in Berlin and in the manufacturing districts of Saxony there was considerable activity. The Germans are making rapid strides in the manufacture of goods, both in textile fabrics and in all kinds of feather and jet trimmings for ladies' dresses and mantles, and were receiving very large orders from New York houses for this class of goods. The advantage that Germany has over the United States in this matter is the cheapness of production. For instance, the female working in a factory in Germany would receive three shillings a week, whereas in the United States a girl doing the same kind of work would be paid three shilling a day.

"Money is plentiful in England—very plentiful in fact—and the rate of discount was perhaps never lower than at present. There is no despondency on the part of merchants at home. It is expected that after the elections are over the fall trade will assume a good deal of activity."

"What is the general opinion in regard to the future?"

"There is no expectation of anything to create a financial panic such as there was some 18 months ago owing to the South American collapse."

"In comparison with a year ago how did you find business affairs?"

"Thanks for message terday afternoon. "Thanks for message, Salary less than I now receive. If made $5000 I will arrange to go. Would like to remain here at least a month." The Mayor, it was understood, telegraphed last night asking Mr. Keating to come along anyway and he would try and arrange the matter of Alkins were nominated to represent the special graduates at the approaching elections for the senate of Toronto University and the University of Victoria College in September next. Dr. Barrick occupied the chair and in a well-worded speech assured the gentlemen nominated of the very hearty support of all those present. Among those wind attended the meeting were: Drs. Hastings, A. A. Macdonald, Cotton, Pollard, A. Baines, Young, McDonagh, Tyrrell, Hunter, G. E. Smith, Bray, J. F. W. Ross, Gee, E. E. King, A. J. Johnson, S. M. Hay, A. H. Wright, J. On Monday the wonderful St. Belmos (James and Clara), aerial artists; Napier and Marzelo, grotesque horizontal bar performers, and James and William Coogan, roller skaters and acrobats, made their first appearance. Manager Conner in speaking of this company says it is one of the best attractions that he has offered this season, and he has played many a good one since his opening date in May. The usual afternoon and evening entertainments will be given, together with a fine musical concert by the Toronto Ferry Band. This band is now second to none of its size in Toronto.

Extraordinary! Deadly Strychnine Re-moved. Was blood poiscued with strychnine 25 years ago! Many attempts by skilled physicians failed to arrest the raviges of the horrid life-destroyer. One year ago tried St. Leon Mineral Water, took copious draughts, which cleared my system of the deadly poison, the outbreaking, etc. It has also raised me to a higher state of health, strength and enjoyment of life than ever before experienced. No money consideration could equal its value to me. I prize St. Leon above everything. H. W. Lockwood, Westport, Ont. Palace at Springs is now open. M. A. Thomas, manager.
