A Morse trading Case.

Chown v. Tock, a horse-trading case of some interest, was settled before Magistrate Moyes on Friday evening at the Eglinton Town Hall. Chown and Tock wanted to exchange horses, and had a written agreement that each was to take and try the other's horse for 10 days, to see how the arrangement would work. Before the 10 days were up, however, Tock, who was experimenting with Chown's horse, spirited it away, and thus brought its owner down upon him for damages. Tock's horse, which Chown had taken over to try the mettle of, proved to have atrophy of the muscles of the shoulder, and was valued by veterinaries at something under $10. The general appearance of Mr., Mrs. and Miss Chown had taken over to the mettle of, proved to have atrophy of the muscles of the shoulder, and was valued by veterinaries at something under $10. An informal gathering of friends of

An informal gathering of friends of the P.P.A. took place on Saturday evening in the pavilion at Island Park, where the people had been driv-en for shelter by the heavy rain. Speeches in support of the order were-delivered by Mr, John Hewitt, Alex, Carr of The Forest Standard, Rev. J. Coburn, jr., and Senator Stevens of Michigan. Mr. Coburn said he would not retract anything he had said on the previous Sunday in Woodgreen Methodist Church as to abuses in the Romish system, and Senator Stevens said that if necessary American supporters of Protestantism would come to Canada and fight for the Manitobans should Separate schools be forced upon them.

petition, which the concern is meeting for its goods. The decline has brought out a good deal of long stock. Manhattan has also been weak, and particular stress is laid on the way the cable car lines are cutting into the business of elevated roads. These movements, however, had no effect on the general market, which, though dull, was strong in tone. Traders were disposed to cover their contracts where any offerings were made. Chicago Gas was notably strong, without any particular reason being given for the renewed support. Bankers believe that the long deferred decline in exchange is at hand. The bank statement for the week is complicated, both by the operations of the gold shippers and last week's payment of 34 per cent. of the syndicate subscriptions to its members. Trade was small and featureless. One-tings, however, were very small, about off-setting the poor speculative demand. There was no cash business, yet shippers said this was not from lack of bids, but because vessel room was hard to get, and because elevator people were disinclined to sell except at a premium.

Corn advanced a cent, and held fairly well. The feature was the covering of shorts. There was talk of crop impairment because of dry weather. New York wired that the export demand has been checked by the advance. The stock here will show
