

is spelled differently. By omitting the saffron and substituting butter for the marrow, this dish would be brought up-to-date and might figure on any table, unless considered too rich.

Carnegie's Advice to Young Men.

1. Never enter a bar-room, nor let the contents of a bar-room enter you.
2. Do not use tobacco.
3. Concentrate. Having entered upon a certain line of work, continue and combine upon that line.

4. Do not shirk; rather go beyond your task. Do not let any young man think he has performed his duty when he has performed the work assigned him. A man will never rise if he acts thus. Promotion comes from exceptional work. A man must discover where his employer's interests lie and push for these.

The young man who does this is the young man whom capital wants for a partner and son-in-law. He is the young man who by-and-by reaches the head of the firm.

5. Save a little always. Whatever your wages, lay by something from them.

6. Never speculate. Never buy stocks or grain on margin.

7. Never endorse. When you enter on business for yourself never indorse for others. It is dishonest. All your resources and all your credit are the sacred property of the men who have trusted you. If you wish to help another give him all the cash you can spare; never indorse. It is dishonest.
