

A federal Crown Corporation which acts as prime contractor in sales of Canadian-sourced goods and services to foreign governments and international organizations, Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) contributes in substantial measure to the expansion of Canada's trade with other nations. During 1985-86, the Corporation facilitated export transactions valued at close to $1 billion on behalf of more than 300 companies across Canada.

The appointment of Messrs. Hebb and Gallant brings to a full complement of ten the number of members serving on CCC's Board of Directors. In announcing the appointments, Minister Carney expressed her confidence that their participation on CCC's Board will provide a valuable contribution to the Corporation in the fulfilment of its role.
