

C. H. BELCHER,

HOLLIS (8) STREET,

Agent for "The Cultivator," and "Horticulturist."

THE CULTIVATOR, a monthly Journal of Agriculture, Horticulture, and Domestic Economy, illustrated with engravings of Farm Buildings, Domestic Animals, Agricultural Implements, &c. The Cultivator has been steadily pursuing its object,—“TO IMPROVE THE SOIL AND THE MIND,” for a series of years, in which the agricultural aspect of our country has essentially changed.

Ever keeping the object for which it was established steadily in view, it will continue to elucidate and enforce the advantages of an IMPROVED SYSTEM OF HUSBANDRY, by explaining the principles on which it is founded, and by exhibiting the practice by which it can be carried into successful operation—to show the farmer that if he would thrive in his business, he must adopt a Rotation of Crops best calculated for his soils—to convince him of the value of Manure, and to point out the various ways in which its amount may be greatly increased, and to what crops and in what manner different substances may be most advantageously applied—to convince him that instead of rendering his lands poorer and his crops lighter, from year to year, he might and ought to pursue such a course as would increase the fertility of his farm and the amount of its products each succeeding year; thus rendering its cultivation far more profitable, as well as infinitely more satisfactory to an intelligent mind.

First Series—10 volumes, quarto—1834 to 1843.

New Series—8 volumes, octavo, now completed.

Any of the volumes, except the one for 1848, can be had separately.

THE HORTICULTURIST, and Journal of Rural Art and Rural Taste, devoted to Horticulture, Landscape Gardening, Rural Architecture, Botany, Pomology, Rural Economy, &c., published monthly in octavo form of 48 pages, each number accompanied by Engravings of Rural Cottages, and Villas, Farm Houses, Gates, Lodges, Ice Houses, Vineries, Flowering Shrubs, &c. 6 volumes of this work are now completed. A new volume (the 7th) commenced with the January number for 1852; and it will be the constant aim of the Editor and the Publisher, by every means in their power, to render it still more worthy, by every practical improvement, of the liberal patronage it is receiving.
