

conversations on the several points of his inquiries, with known or named individuals, whose nativity to the Transatlantic soil, or long residence in the country, may entitle their statements and opinions to respect. His great aim has been authenticity, as well as that degree of novelty in respect to subject, which may be included in the nature of his professional inquiries.

The following observations, and much more, were originally conveyed in a series of letters to a friend, who deemed them of sufficient importance for publication, but with whose name the Author is not at liberty to grace his pages.

Clapham. May 1st, 1833.

Reasons for
—Impress
Sickness—
introduction
the United

AT the America,
as my fut
step were satisfactio
things in cluded, b
disappoint
ration of
tion of m

This ac
measure,
most sacr
before his
of becom
fore, any