Study the Tables.

The preceding table shows that we exported enormously more than we imported, and that the small quantity we did import, entering far from our great producing centres, did not come into competition with the produce of our farmers.

Perhaps the reader does not realize exactly the extraordinary disproportion there is between the imports and the production by our farmers of these things which are the staple products of the farm. By studying the table he will see that for hay there is one ton imported to one thousand grown in Canada. For barley, there is one bushel imported to thirty-four thousand produced. For
